Efforts To Settle GM Strike Are "Over Hump"

Tentative Agreement on Union Security Has Been Reached

WAGES REMAIN ISSUE

Dewey Says "We Are Over Most Difficult Parts of Contract"

DETROIT, Feb. 22 (AP)—General Motors Corporation and CIO-United Automobile Workers negotiators are "over the hump" in their efforts to settle the ninety-four-day strike which has idled 175,000 production workers, Federal Mediator James F. Dewey announced today.

As negotiations were adjourned until 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow, Dewey told newsmen, "We are over the most difficult parts of the contract," but he stressed that wages still remained a problem in the negotiations.

He said tentative agreement had been reached on union security. Wages, he added, were not discussed but the company and union had made a proposal now under consideration on the question of vacation pay.

Vacation Pay Wasn't in Contract

Vacation pay was not covered in the contract GM cancelled December 10 but was included in a supplemental letter of agreement to the contract.

Dewey declared an agreement on maintenance of membership and the checkoff, which he indicated Thursday, had brought both sides over the "hump" in their prolonged negotiations.

A decision whether to continue meetings through the weekend probably will be made tomorrow.

Before the negotiators convened this afternoon, the federal mediator had said he hoped "there will be a 'yes' or 'no' from each side on all issues by midnight."

The UAW executive board met tonight to discuss arrangements for next month's convention at Atlantic City, N. J., but Dewey did not indicate whether this was a factor in the early windup of today's session.

Dewey Was Optimistic

As the conference began this forenoon, Dewey told newsmen:

"I expect us to wind up these conferences between now and midnight."

Asked to elaborate, he said he expected the company and union to "reach agreement on all issues, including wages, today."

Later, as the parley recessed for luncheon, the special mediator said he did not intend his earlier remark to be interpreted as meaning he foresaw a final settlement of the dispute by midnight.

Absent again from today's meeting—the eighth consecutive daily conference held by GM and UAW representatives—was C. E. Wilson, General Motors president. His associates said he had not yet recovered from the illness that kept him away from yesterday's session.

Violence Follows Chungking Parade

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Feb. 22 (AP) — Unidentified muscle-men wrecked Communist and Democratic League newspaper offices in Chungking today, causing an immediate Communist threat to withdraw from the government unification agreement on the grounds that "diehards" of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's national party were responsible.

This new violence followed by three hours a bitterly anti-Soviet parade by 10,000 Chungking students on behalf of Manchuria, where government efforts to assume control from the Russians were reported at a standstill after months of tedious maneuvering.

The mysterious invaders laid waste the three-story offices and bookshop of the Communist New China Daily News in a pitched battle with the staff, two of whom were listed as seriously hurt.

At the same time business offices of the Democratic Daily, organ of the third-party Democratic League, were similarly wrecked.

Washington, Pa., Church Blast Is Fatal to Woman

Boiler Explosion in First Christian Church Injures 43 Persons

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 22 (AP) — A woman was killed and forty-three other persons injured, fifteen of them seriously, in a boiler explosion which rocked the First Christian church during a Washington's birthday father and son banquet tonight.

There was no fire and, after the first shock, the group of some 200 persons who were uninjured left the church dining room in what police described as an orderly manner.

Washington hospital, where the injured were treated, identified the dead woman as Mrs. Martha Knestrick Mollenauer, 37, church pianist. The explosion occurred as she walked past the boiler room door. She was struck by pieces of the boiler and died about two hours later.

The interior of the church was badly wrecked. The partition between the boiler and dining rooms was flattened and a part of the dining room ceiling fell.

Every ambulance in this community of 26,000 was called. About fifteen persons were carried on litters to the nearby American Legion home and later were removed to the hospital.

The emergency found the hospital with only one bed vacant. Cots were commandeered from the city garage and set up in the hospital corridor. Blankets were borrowed from the county jail and elsewhere.

Steel Workers' Group Favors Price Control

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22 (AP) — Declaring its "firm resistance to any efforts to increases the cost of living," the wage policy committee of the CIO-United Steel Workers urged tonight that Congress extend the Price Control act "without further delay."

The 175-man committee said in a resolution that retention of price control "is vital" in the interest of assuring "adequate living standards" and "an economy of full production and prosperity in the year immediately ahead."

"All of the objectives sought in our wage fight can be lost if the wage gains of American workers are wiped out by unjustifiable price increases," the committee said.

Hot Spots Are Old Stuff to Wyatt, Now Arranging Atomic Bomb Tests

By DON WHITEHEAD

KWAJALEIN, Feb. 22 (AP) — Back in 1936 when the Nazi bigwigs were holding one of their party powwows at Nuremberg, an American pilot lost in the low-hanging clouds overhead almost caused an international incident by landing his plane at Nuremberg airfield.

Herman Goering sent word that he wanted to see this brash American immediately because he was in a highly restricted area where no one but a good Nazi should be.

This was not the first hot spot Ben Wyatt had wandered into. So he talked his way out as usual, and the next day he was driven to Berlin in one of Goering's swankiest autos.

Most of his friends thought Wyatt, now a commodore in the United States Navy, had been dropped into temporary oblivion last June when he was sent to take over the navy air base of Kwajalein in the Marshall islands.

Wyatt had hardly finished building Kwajalein into a modern, thriving base than the navy decided Bikini atoll at his back door should be the site for testing the atomic bomb against warships. He was chosen to conduct preliminaries for the test.

Mutinous Indian Sailors Run Up Surrender Flags

Bombay Civilian Rioters Fire Buildings; 60 to 100 Are Killed

BOMBAY, Saturday, Feb. 23. (AP) —Mutinous Royal Indian Navy sailors ran up black flags of surrender on a score or more of small ships in Bombay harbor today and surrender shore installations in which they had barricaded themselves.

Vice-Adm. J. H. Godfrey, commanding the Royal Indian Navy, told the mutineers yesterday that "should you now have decided in accordance with my warning to surrender unconditionally, you are to hoist a large black or blue flag and muster all hands on deck on the side facing Bombay city and await further orders."

New Violence

Before the flags could be seen flying, however, daylight brought new violence to the riot-torn city following a day and night of fierce street fighting between civilians, acting in sympathy with the sailors, and British troops, who fired machine gun blasts into surging mobs several times yesterday. Newspaper estimates of the dead ranged from sixty to 100 and one report said there were 500 injured.

During the night soldiers and firemen battled flames that burned nineteen government grain shops and damaged five banks. As daylight broke, civilians and sailors were reported storming the Imperial Bank of India and one eyewitness said, "They're removing a safe."

The British moved two regiments if infantry and a motorized regiment into the city and were reported also to have brought in a number of field artillery pieces.

A 9 p. m. curfew clamped by the British on the troubled area of the city succeeded in some sections in completely clearing the streets, but in others, especially in the area of the Jhaveri bazaar, police and soldiers were forced to fire rifle volleys before the crowds left the streets. British troops had orders to shoot to kill any person on the streets during the curfew period.

Attlee Blames Communists

(In London, Prime Minister Attlee, blaming the trouble on "left wing elements and Communists," declared that only unconditional surrender would be accepted. He said the seamen were demanding speedy demobilization, the best class of Indian food, Royal Navy scales of pay and family allowances, disciplinary action against the commanding officer of H. M. I. S. Talwar for alleged improper treatment of ratings(seamen), retention of kit on release, and high gratuity and treasury pay on release.)

Meanwhile the first British naval vessel arrived in Bombay harbor to help quell the trouble—H. M. S. Nith, an escort frigate, with a normal complement of about 200 and mounting two four-inch guns.

Heavier naval units were reported on their way.

A British communique said mutineers aboard the sloop H. M. I. S. Hindustan at Karachi had surrendered after a twenty-five-minute exchange of gunfire which killed four of their crew and wounded twenty-six others.

Unofficial figures indicated the death toll in yesterday's street fighting might total fifty or more with upwards of 250 wounded.

There were no indications that the Bombay riots, which started in sympathy with the naval uprising, were abating.

State Has Doctor, Dentist Shortage

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22 (AP) — A marked srortage of doctors and dentists exists in Maryland, particularly the rural districts, despite the release of medical and dental officers from the armed forces, state chairman of procurement and assignment service for physicians and dentists reported today.

Dr. Charles W. Maxson, chairman for physicians, said the number of doctors released from military service had not been increasing in proportion to the number of newcomers to the state. Dr. Maxson said, however, that he did not anticipate a severe shortage before 1950.

Three Eastern shore communities, one in Garrett county and one in St. Mary's-Charles-Calvert county area were without doctors, Dr. Maxson said. He declined to specify the communities.

Dr. Thomas J. Bland, Jr., state chairman for dentists, estimated that it would be five years before the ratio of dentists to population returned to normal—one dentist for 1,500 persons. In 1940, he said, 864 dentists were listed in Maryland. Of the 230 who entered the services, he added, only 160 have returned to their former practices.

Stalin States Russia Has Entered Peaceful Period Of Economic Development

Red Army Is Told It Must Guard "Creative Labor" of People

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin tonight told the Red army on its twenty-eighth birthday that as the Soviet Union entered a "peaceful period" of development, it was the army's duty to guard Russia's borders against enemies while the people created a "powerful upsurge of national economy."

"Having ended the war by a victory over the enemy," the generalissimo said in an order of the day commemorating the anniversary, which was heard here on the Moscow radio, "the Soviet Union has entered into a new, peaceful period of its economic development."

"At the present time, the Soviet people is faced with the task of consolidating the positions won, of advancing further to a new economic upsurge. We cannot limit ourselves to the consolidation of these positions, for that would lead to stagnation.

"We must move further forward so that we may create the conditions for a new, powerful upsurge of national economy. We must, in the shortest possible period, heal the wounds inflicted by the enemy on our country and restore the prewar level of development of national economy so that we may in the near future considerably surpass the level, raise the material well-being of the people, still more strengthen the military and economic might of the Soviet state.

"In the new conditions, the Red army must vigilantly guard the peaceful, creative labor of the Soviet people, reliably safeguard the state interests of the Soviet Union and make the borders of our motherland impregnable against enemies."

Peace Is Restored In Cairo; Rioting Claimed 14 Lives

CAIRO, Feb. 22. (AP)—An Egyptian government official said tonight that fourteen persons were killed and 123 injured in yesterday's rioting and a committee from student and labor groups demanded that British troops be withdrawn from principal Egyptian cities to "prevent further bloodshed."

The city was quiet today, with police guarding smashed foreign-owned shops and British establishments attacked during the rioting. Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha banned demonstrations throughout Egypt.

Sidky Pasha said he "had discussed the incidents of yesterday" with British embassy officials and that R. J. Bowker, British minister of Egypt, "presented to me certain wishes and notices." The Egyptian cabinet, Sidky Pasha said, approved a reply to the "wishes and notices." He declined to describe the British representations as a formal protest.

The student and labor committee demanded that the Egyptian government "and all those responsible declare that there will be no negotiation" for revision of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty "unless the foundation is based on evacuation of British troops."

Congress Observes Washington's Birthday; Keeps Tradition Alive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — Congress kept a tradition alive today.

Senate and House each listened to the reading of George Washington's farewell address on the first president's birthday anniversary.

A Senate subcommittee read a letter from another former president, Herbert Hoover, saying he still favors the St. Lawrence seaway project. He said it would not hurt American ports or transport.

Other Senate committees approved:

The nomination of former Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, to be undersecretary of the treasury.

The spending before June 30 of another $125,000,000 for meat subsidies and $25,000,000 for flour subsidies. But from OPA came word that prospective higher wages for packing house orkers probably will mean higher prices for meat.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) disapproved:

James Petrillo, head of the AFL musicians union.

Hoffman said in a statement Petrillo and Bowles are "two would-be czars" who need "a barrel-stave spanking in the woodshed."

Senators were saying, things, too:

Pepper (D-Fla) told a news conference a "Justice for Greece" committee has been organized to get American backing for Greek reparations claims.

Myers (D-Pa) announced that the Veterans' Administration supports his bill to remove the $100 limit on the monthly pension of war-widowed mothers. The bill would give a widow with nine children, for instance, $169 a month.

Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) declared it "imperative" to enact "without delay" legislation on control of atomic power.

Ferguson (R-Mich) criticized sales of surplus United States property to the British government as "surrendering our rights to free enterprise and promoting cartels." He spoke up at a meeting of a Senate subcommittee looking into surplus questions.

Hearings on a stringent strike-control bill passed by the House got under way in the Senate Labor committee. Testimony that the Senate ought to approve, speedily, that bill or something like it came from President Edward R. Burke, of the Southern Coal Producers Association; President Edward A. O'Neal, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and F. C. Turney, of the food producers council.

Wage-Offsetting Meat Price Rise Looms, OPA Says

Food Subsidies Shape Up as Red-Hot Issue for Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — OPA put out the word today that meat prices may have to rise as a result of the wage boost for packing workers.

It came as the question whether the government is going to continue food subsidies, which hold down prices of other grocery-basket items, shaped up as a red-hot issue for Congress over the next few months.

Senate Banking committee consideration of a subsidy measure produced from an OPA official the news of the prospective meat price rise.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) demanded that before action was taken the committee be informed whether meat prices would be increased. He said that a sixteen cents an hour wage increase recommended by a presidential fact-finding board for packing workers would necessitate either higher prices or larger government subsidy payments to packers.

No Figure Is Mentioned

Frank S. Ketcham, assistant OPA general counsel, said Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles had not finally decided the matter, but when pressed, he added:

"As of this time he has decided the price of meat probably should be increased to take care of the wage increase."

No figure was mentioned for the wage-offsetting price change, but the committee was told by OPA officials that withdrawal of subsidies would increase the retail price of meat by "five cents plus" a pound and the price of bread by one cent for a one-pound loaf.

The committee approved the subsidy legislation it had before it. The measure authorized continuation of the sugar subsidy program, currently costing $115,000,000 a year, through this calendar year, and adds $150,000,000 to amounts previously approved for meat and flour subsidies in the fiscal year ending June 30.

It also allows the Commodity Credit Corporation to conduct subsidy operations on vegetables canned or processed before July 1 and flaxseed harvested before July 1.

Taft Would "Taper Off" Subsidies

Taft argued that the committee might just as well, when considering the measure, get down to the issue of what is going to be done after June 30 about the whole question of subsidies aggregating $1,500,000,000 annually.

He said he favored "tapering them off" with a view to ending them and that if a majority of Congress felt that way the the $150,000,000 request could be disapproved and the tapering off on meat and flour begun in April or May when RFC funds for that purpose ran out.

Acting Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) contended that Congress was committed to the programs for the rest of this fiscal year.

New Cardinals Are Presented Symbolic Rings

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 22 (AP)—Twenty-seven of the thirty-two new cardinals of the Roman Catholic church received the final symbol of their new dignity—the great topaz-set cardinal's ring—at a secret consistory today.

Assignment of Roman and suburban churches from which the new princes of the church will take their cardinalitial titles was also announced at the consistory, which capped five days of religious pageantry.

Three new Latin American cardinals were too ill to attend the ceremonies, held in the consistorial hall of the Vatican Apostolic palace.

They were Juan Cardinal Guevara, of Peru; Jose Cardinal Caro Rodriguez, of Chile, and Manuel Cardinal Arteaga Y Betancourt, of Cuba, for whom Pope Pius XII will hold a secret consistory, probably next week. John Cardinal De Jong, of the Netherlands, and Jules Cardinal Saliege, of France, were unable to make the trip to Rome because of poor health.

There was no designation of a new papal secretary of state—the post held by the present pontiff before his elevation from cardinal to pope.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, of New York city, oft-rumored as a candidate for the position, was not assigned to the Congregation of Ecclesiastic Affairs, connected directly with the secretary of state. Two veteran papal diplomats, both Italians and also regarded with Spellman as possible choices for the key Vatican post, were assigned to that congregation. They were Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Maselle, papal nuncio to Brazil, and Clemente Cardinal Micara, apostolic nuncio to Belgium.

Russians Permit Allied Newsmen To Enter Mukden

Most of City's Factories Are Idle; Inflation Is Rampant

MUKDEN, Feb. 20 (Delayed) (AP) —The news blackout which for months concealed developments in this hungry, inflation-ridden Manchurian industrial center was lifted today as Russian military authorities turned loose nine Allied correspondents and told them to look the town over.

The correspondents, who came to get a first-hand account of conditions in the Soviet-occupied city, were confined for fifty-four hours in the Soviet-operated Intourist hotel (formerly the Yamato). But today Maj. Gen. Andrei Kovtoun-Stankevitch, the Russian commander, ended their internment with the announcement:

"You may go any place at any time you wish in Mukden, with or without escort."

The liberated newsmen found a city of 2,000,000—including 230,000 Japanese and Korean civilians — undergoing the pangs of inflation, with food prices four times higher today than six weeks ago.

The found eighty-five per cent of the city's factories idle, and were told that more than 3,000 cases of Typhus had developed in December and January before Russian army doctors checked the epidemic.

Impoverished Japanese and Koreans were peddling their remaining possessions in gutter bazaars. Some 30,000 prostitutes roamed the streets or competed for patronage in dance halls and cafes.

Fortunately for the impoverished, the weather was comparatively mild —the thermometer today registered 42 degrees Fahrenheit.

There were 60,000 Japanese troops in Mukden when the Russians arrived by plane and truck last August, but all of them are gone now. Kovtoun-Stankevitch prefers not to say where, but reports circulating here are that all able-bodied men were sent to Siberia or farther into Russia to work in mines or on railways—none to Japan.

Some 6,000 to 7,000 veterans of Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army now control the city under Kovtoun-Stankevitch's command.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 Chinese central government troops under Maj. Gen. Peng Yi-Sheng are in the western section of Mukden, but are not permitted the freedom of the city.

Convicted War Criminal Walks 13 Steps to Crude Scaffold

TWO OTHER NIPPONESE OFFICERS ARE HANGED

Yamashita, Attired in GI Fatigue Clothes, Makes Statement

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

MANILA, Saturday, Feb. 23. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, whose Japanese soldiers turned to an orgy of rape and butchery when unable to stop Gen. MacArthur's reconquest of the Philippines, was hanged as a war criminal before dawn today in a cane field.

Once one of Japan's ablest generals, he died in disgrace with two other Japanese officers, southeast of Manila near Los Banos, where his soldiers only a year ago killed 2,000 civilians in revenge for the dramatic release by Americans and Filipinos of Allied nationals at a nearby prison camp.

He died with his last spoken words " for the emperor's long life."

Stripped of his uniform and medals by order of Gen. MacArthur, the 60-year-old conqueror of Singapore walked the thirteen steps to the crude wooden scaffold attired in fatigue clothes made to look as little as possible like a uniform.

He was the first big-name figure to be executed in the Pacific theater by the Allies and was denied the "honorable" death—so viewed by Japanese—awaiting Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, the "Beast of Bataan."

Makes Final Statement

Yamashita, whose men fought but failed to stop soldiers of Gen. MacArthur reinvading the Philippines, commented in a final statement:

"As I said in Manila Supreme Court that I have done with all my capacity. So I don't ashame in front of God for what I have done when I have died. But if you say to me 'you do not have any ability to command Japanese army,' I should say nothing for it, for it is my own nature."

MacArthur had branded Yamashita, for his condoning of atrocities, as a blot on military history.

He was followed to the scaffold by Lt. Col. Seichi Ohta, former head of the Japanese Kempei Tai (thought police) in the Philippines, and Takuma Higashigi, Japanese civilian interpreter.

They were convicted of torturing and killing Filipino civilians.

Taft Calls for GOP Return to Power

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 22 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) declared in an address tonight that "only by the return of the Republican party to power can we achieve a unified and constructive program for progress within the American principles of freedom and sound government."

"Confusion reigns supreme in Washington," the senator told the Frederick County Republican Club at its annual George Washington birthday dinner. "The Democratic party is hopelessly divided between those who follow the Political Action committee program on every issue, and those who insist on constitutional government but don't care very much whether progress is made within that system or not."

Taft said he was pleased to find "so much" Republican enthusiasm in the proximity of Washington Usually, he said, he has had to go back to Ohio to find it.

The meeting, over which Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, presided, was followed by a dance. Among the leading party members present were two announced candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, Herman Mills, Hagerstown, and D. John Markey, Frederick.

Baby Chicks Are Sent to Truman And Anderson as Form of Protest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Two thousand baby chicks, shipped to President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson by an Indiana hatchery owner as a form of protest over government regulations, arrived late today.

But no delivery was made immediately to the White House, and Secretary Anderson declined to pay the express charges on the 1,000 chicks sent him.

William Lathrop, Richmond, Ind., sent the chicks to the president and the agriculture secretary, "just to see what they would do with them." Lathrop said he was irked over government requests to chicken producers to cut down their flocks for fear of over-production and contended poultry producers are confused.

The hatchery owner also sent 1,000 chicks to Gov. Ralph Gates, of Indiana, who arranged to pay the shipping costs and have them added to the state farm at Putnamville, Ind.

Anderson, who declined to pay the $70 COD charges on the ten boxes of 100 chicks each, intended for him, said:

"Lathrop overestimated his market and now he's sorry."

"The department has been trying for sometime," Anderson told a reporter, "to get farmers to cull their flocks and hatcheries to curtail production in order to save grain."

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22 (AP) — Declaring its "firm resistance to any efforts to increases the cost of living," the wage policy committee of the CIO-United Steel Workers urged tonight that Congress extend the Price Control act "without further delay."

The 175-man committee said in a resolution that retention of price control "is vital" in the interest of assuring "adequate living standards" and "an economy of full production and prosperity in the year immediately ahead."

'All of the objectives sought in our wage fight can be lost if the wage gains of American workers are wiped out by unjustifiable price increases," the committee said.

Mutinous Indian Sailors Run Up Surrender Flags

Bombay Civilian Rioters Fire Buildings; 60 to 100 Are Killed

BOMBAY, Saturday, Feb. 23. (AP) —Mutinous Royal Indian Navy sailors ran up black flags of surrender on a score or more of small ships in Bombay harbor today and surrender shore installations in which they had barricaded themselves.

Vice-Adm. J. H. Godfrey, commanding the Royal Indian Navy, told the mutineers yesterday that "should you now have decided in accordance with my warning to surrender unconditionally, you are to hoist a large black or blue flag and muster all hands on deck on the side facing Bombay city and await further orders."

New Violence

Before the flags could be seen flying, however, daylight brought new violence to the riot-torn city following a day and night of fierce street fighting between civilians, acting in sympathy with the sailors, and British troops, who fired machine gun blasts into surging mobs several times yesterday. Newspaper estimates of the dead ranged from sixty to 100 and one report said there were 500 injured.

During the night soldiers and firemen battled flames that burned nineteen government grain shops and damaged five banks. As daylight broke, civilians and sailors were reported storming the Imperial Bank of India and one eyewitness said, "They're removing a safe."

The British moved two regiments if infantry and a motorized regiment into the city and were reported also to have brought in a number of field artillery pieces.

A 9 p. m. curfew clamped by the British on the troubled area of the city succeeded in some sections in completely clearing the streets, but in others, especially in the area of the Jhaveri bazaar, police and soldiers were forced to fire rifle volleys before the crowds left the streets. British troops had orders to shoot to kill any person on the streets during the curfew period.

Attlee Blames Communists

(In London, Prime Minister Attlee, blaming the trouble on "left wing elements and Communists," declared that only unconditional surrender would be accepted. He said the seamen were demanding speedy demobilization, the best class of Indian food, Royal Navy scales of pay and family allowances, disciplinary action against the commanding officer of H. M. I. S. Talwar for alleged improper treatment of ratings(seamen), retention of kit on release, and high gratuity and treasury pay on release.)

Meanwhile the first British naval vessel arrived in Bombay harbor to help quell the trouble—H. M. S. Nith, an escort frigate, with a normal complement of about 200 and mounting two four-inch guns.

Heavier naval units were reported on their way.

A British communique said mutineers aboard the sloop H. M. I. S. Hindustan at Karachi had surrendered after a twenty-five-minute exchange of gunfire which killed four of their crew and wounded twenty-six others.

Unofficial figures indicated the death toll in yesterday's street fighting might total fifty or more with upwards of 250 wounded.

State Has Doctor, Dentist Shortage

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22 (AP) — A marked srortage of doctors and dentists exists in Maryland, particularly the rural districts, despite the release of medical and dental officers from the armed forces, state chairman of procurement and assignment service for physicians and dentists reported today.

Dr. Charles W. Maxson, chairman for physicians, said the number of doctors released from military service had not been increasing in proportion to the number of newcomers to the state. Dr. Maxson said, however, that he did not anticipate a severe shortage before 1950.

Three Eastern shore communities, one in Garrett county and one in St. Mary's-Charles-Calvert county area were without doctors, Dr. Maxson said. He declined to specify the communities.

Dr. Thomas J. Bland, Jr., state chairman for dentists, estimated that it would be five years before the ratio of dentists to population returned to normal—one dentist for 1,500 persons. In 1940, he said, 864 dentists were listed in Maryland. Of the 230 who entered the services, he added, only 160 have returned to their former practices.

Gen. Eisenhower Will Witness Atom Tests

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP) —Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, United States Army chief of staff, will witness the atomic bomb tests in the Pacific, in May, he told reporters today upon his arrival here by army transport plane on an inspection tour.

From his observations there, he added, the future size of the United States Army will be determined.

Stalin States Russia Has Entered Peaceful Period Of Economic Development

Red Army Is Told It Must Guard "Creative Labor" of People

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin tonight told the Red army on its twenty-eighth birthday that as the Soviet Union entered a "peaceful period" of development, it was the army's duty to guard Russia's borders against enemies while the people created a "powerful upsurge of national economy."

"Having ended the war by a victory over the enemy," the generalissimo said in an order of the day commemorating the anniversary, which was heard here on the Moscow radio, "the Soviet Union has entered into a new, peaceful period of its economic development."

"At the present time, the Soviet people is faced with the task of consolidating the positions won, of advancing further to a new economic upsurge. We cannot limit ourselves to the consolidation of these positions, for that would lead to stagnation.

"We must move further forward so that we may create the conditions for a new, powerful upsurge of national economy. We must, in the shortest possible period, heal the wounds inflicted by the enemy on our country and restore the prewar level of development of national economy so that we may in the near future considerably surpass the level, raise the material well-being of the people, still more strengthen the military and economic might of the Soviet state.

"In the new conditions, the Red army must vigilantly guard the peaceful, creative labor of the Soviet people, reliably safeguard the state interests of the Soviet Union and make the borders of our motherland impregnable against enemies."

He emphasized the need for ef-

Peace Is Restored In Cairo; Rioting Claimed 14 Lives

CAIRO, Feb. 22. (AP)—An Egyptian government official said tonight that fourteen persons were killed and 123 injured in yesterday's rioting and a committee from student and labor groups demanded that British troops be withdrawn from principal Egyptian cities to "prevent further bloodshed."

The city was quiet today, with police guarding smashed foreign-owned shops and British establishments attacked during the rioting. Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha banned demonstrations throughout Egypt.

Sidky Pasha said he "had discussed the incidents of yesterday" with British embassy officials and that R. J. Bowker, British minister of Egypt, "presented to me certain wishes and notices." The Egyptian cabinet, Sidky Pasha said, approved a reply to the "wishes and notices." He declined to describe the British representations as a formal protest.

The student and labor committee demanded that the Egyptian government "and all those responsible declare that there will be no negotiation" for revision of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty "unless the foundation is based on evacuation of British troops."

Congress Observes Washington's Birthday; Keeps Tradition Alive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — Congress kept a tradition alive today.

Senate and House each listened to the reading of George Washington's farewell address on the first president's birthday anniversary.

A Senate subcommittee read a letter from another former president, Herbert Hoover, saying he still favors the St. Lawrence seaway project. He said it would not hurt American ports or transport.

Other Senate committees approved:

The nomination of former Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, to be undersecretary of the treasury.

The spending before June 30 of another $125,000,000 for meat subsidies and $25,000,000 for flour subsidies. But from OPA came word that prospective higher wages for packing house orkers probably will mean higher prices for meat.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich) disapproved:

James Petrillo, head of the AFL musicians union.

Hoffman said in a statement Petrillo and Bowles are "two would-be czars" who need "a barrel-stave spanking in the woodshed."

Senators were saying, things, too: Pepper (D-Fla) told a news conference a "Justice for Greece" committee has been organized to get American backing for Greek reparations claims.

Myers (D-Pa) announced that the Veterans' Administration supports his bill to remove the $100 limit on the monthly pension of war-widowed mothers. The bill would give a widow with nine children, for instance, $169 a month.

Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) declared it "imperative" to enact "without delay" legislation on control of atomic power.

Ferguson (R-Mich) criticized sales of surplus United States property to the British government as "surrendering our rights to free enterprise and promoting cartels." He spoke up at a meeting of a Senate subcommittee looking into surplus questions.

Hearings on a stringent strike-control bill passed by the House got under way in the Senate Labor committee. Testimony that the Senate ought to approve, speedily, that bill or something like it came from President Edward R. Burke, of the Southern Coal Producers Association; President Edward A. O'Neal, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and P. C. Turney, of the food producers council.

Wage-Offsetting Meat Price Rise Looms, OPA Says

Food Subsidies Shape Up as Red-Hot Issue for Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — OPA put out the word today that meat prices may have to rise as a result of the wage boost for packing workers.

It came as the question whether the government is going to continue food subsidies, which hold down prices of other grocery-basket items, shaped up as a red-hot issue for Congress over the next few months.

Senate Banking committee consideration of a subsidy measure produced from an OPA official the news of the prospective meat price rise.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) demanded that before action was taken the committee be informed whether meat prices would be increased. He said that a sixteen cents an hour wage increase recommended by a presidential fact-finding board for packing workers would necessitate either higher prices or larger government subsidy payments to packers.

No Figure Is Mentioned

Frank S. Ketcham, assistant OPA general counsel, said Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles had not finally decided the matter, but when pressed, he added:

"As of this time he has decided the price of meat probably should be increased to take care of the wage increase."

No figure was mentioned for the wage-offsetting price change, but the committee was told by OPA officials that withdrawal of subsidies would increase the retail price of meat by "five cents plus" a pound and the price of bread by one cent for a one-pound loaf.

The committee approved the subsidy legislation it had before it. The measure authorized continuation of the sugar subsidy program, currently costing $115,000,000 a year, through this calendar year, and adds $150,000,000 to amounts previously approved for meat and flour subsidies in the fiscal year ending June 30.

It also allows the Commodity Credit Corporation to conduct subsidy operations on vegetables canned or processed before July 1 and flaxseed harvested before July 1.

Taft Would "Taper Off" Subsidies

Taft argued that the committee might just as well, when considering the measure, get down to the issue of what is going to be done after June 30 about the whole question of subsidies aggregating $1,500,000,000 annually.

He said he favored "tapering them off" with a view to ending them and that if a majority of Congress felt that way the the $150,000,000 request could be disapproved and the tapering off on meat and flour begun in April or May when RFC funds for that purpose ran out.

Acting Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) contended that Congress was committed to the programs for the rest of this fiscal year.

New Cardinals Are Presented Symbolic Rings

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 22 (AP)—Twenty-seven of the thirty-two new cardinals of the Roman Catholic church received the final symbol of their new dignity—the great topaz-set cardinal's ring—at a secret consistory today.

Assignment of Roman and suburban churches from which the new princes of the church will take their cardinalitial titles was also announced at the consistory, which capped five days of religious pageantry.

Three new Latin American cardinals were too ill to attend the ceremonies, held in the consistorial hall of the Vatican Apostolic palace.

They were Juan Cardinal Guevara, of Peru; Jose Cardinal Caro Rodriguez, of Chile, and Manuel Cardinal Arteaga Y Betancourt, of Cuba, for whom Pope Pius XII will hold a secret consistory, probably next week. John Cardinal De Jong, of the Netherlands, and Jules Cardinal Saliege, of France, were unable to make the trip to Rome because of poor health.

There was no designation of a new papal secretary of state—the post held by the present pontiff before his elevation from cardinal to pope.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, of New York city, oft-rumored as a candidate for the position, was not assigned to the Congregation of Ecclesiastic Affairs, connected directly with the secretary of state. Two veteran papal diplomats, both Italians and also regarded with Spellman as possible choices for the key Vatican post, were assigned to that congregation. They were Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Maselle, papal nuncio to Brazil, and Clemente Cardinal Micara, apostolic nuncio to Belgium.

Russians Permit Allied Newsmen To Enter Mukden

Most of City's Factories Are Idle; Inflation Is Rampant

MUKDEN, Feb. 20 (Delayed) (AP) —The news blackout which for months concealed developments in this hungry, inflation-ridden Manchurian industrial center was lifted today as Russian military authorities turned loose nine Allied correspondents and told them to look the town over.

The correspondents, who came to get a first-hand account of conditions in the Soviet-occupied city, were confined for fifty-four hours in the Soviet-operated Intourist hotel (formerly the Yamato). But today Maj. Gen. Andrei Kovtoun-Stankevitch, the Russian commander, ended their internment with the announcement:

"You may go any place at any time you wish in Mukden, with or without escort."

The liberated newsmen found a city of 2,000,000—including 230,000 Japanese and Korean civilians — undergoing the pangs of inflation, with food prices four times higher today than six weeks ago.

The found eighty-five per cent of the city's factories idle, and were told that more than 3,000 cases of Typhus had developed in December and January before Russian army doctors checked the epidemic.

Impoverished Japanese and Koreans were peddling their remaining possessions in gutter bazaars. Some 30,000 prostitutes roamed the streets or competed for patronage in dance halls and cafes.

Fortunately for the impoverished, the weather was comparatively mild —the thermometer today registered 42 degrees Fahrenheit.

There were 60,000 Japanese troops in Mukden when the Russians arrived by plane and truck last August, but all of them are gone now. Kovtoun-Stankevitch prefers not to say where, but reports circulating here are that all able-bodied men were sent to Siberia or farther into Russia to work in mines or on railways—none to Japan.

Some 6,000 to 7,000 veterans of Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army now control the city under Kovtoun-Stankevitch's command.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 Chinese central government troops under Maj. Gen. Peng Yi-Sheng are in the western section of Mukden, but are not permitted the freedom of the city.

Jap General Who Condoned Troops' Atrocities Meets His End Calmly

TWO OTHER NIPPONESE OFFICERS ARE HANGED

Yamashita, Attired in GI Fatigue Clothes, Makes Statement

By WAYNE RICHARDSON

MANILA, Saturday, Feb. 23. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, whose Japanese soldiers turned to an orgy of rape and butchery when unable to stop Gen. MacArthur's reconquest of the Philippines, was hanged as a war criminal before dawn today in a cane field.

Once one of Japan's ablest generals, he died in disgrace with two other Japanese officers, southeast of Manila near Los Banos, where his soldiers only a year ago killed 2,000 civilians in revenge for the dramatic release by Americans and Filipinos of Allied nationals at a nearby prison camp.

He died with his last spoken words " for the emperor's long life."

Stripped of his uniform and medals by order of Gen. MacArthur, the 60-year-old conqueror of Singapore walked the thirteen steps to the crude wooden scaffold attired in fatigue clothes made to look as little as possible like a uniform.

He was the first big-name figure to be executed in the Pacific theater by the Allies and was denied the "honorable" death—so viewed by Japanese—awaiting Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, the "Beast of Bataan."

Makes Final Statement

Yamashita, whose men fought but failed to stop soldiers of Gen. MacArthur reinvading the Philippines, commented in a final statement:

"As I said in Manila Supreme Court that I have done with all my capacity. So I don't ashame in front of God for what I have done when I have died. But if you say to me 'you do not have any ability to command Japanese army,' I should say nothing for it, for it is my own nature."

MacArthur had branded Yamashita, for his condoning of atrocities, as a blot on military history.

He was followed to the scaffold by Lt. Col. Seichi Ohta, former head of the Japanese Kempei Tai (thought police) in the Philippines, and Takuma Higashigi, Japanese civilian interpreter.

They were convicted of torturing and killing Filipino civilians.

Yamashita's final statement spoke

Taft Calls for GOP Return to Power

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 22 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) declared in an address tonight that "only by the return of the Republican party to power can we achieve a unified and constructive program for progress within the American principles of freedom and sound government."

"Confusion reigns supreme in Washington," the senator told the Frederick County Republican Club at its annual George Washington birthday dinner. "The Democratic party is hopelessly divided between those who follow the Political Action committee program on every issue, and those who insist on constitutional government but don't care very much whether progress is made within that system or not."

Taft said he was pleased to find "so much" Republican enthusiasm in the proximity of Washington. Usually, he said, he has had to go back to Ohio to find it.

The meeting, over which Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, presided, was followed by a dance. Among the leading party members present were two announced candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, Herman Mills, Hagerstown, and D. John Markey, Frederick.

Hot Spots Are Old Stuff to Wyatt, Now Arranging Atomic Bomb Tests

By DON WHITEHEAD

KWAJALEIN, Feb. 22 (AP) — Back in 1936 when the Nazi bigwigs were holding one of their party powwows at Nuremberg, an American pilot lost in the low-hanging clouds overhead almost caused an international incident by landing his plane at Nuremberg airfield.

Herman Goering sent word that he wanted to see this brash American immediately because he was in a highly restricted area where no one but a good Nazi should be.

This was not the first hot spot Ben Wyatt had wandered into. So he talked his way out as usual, and the next day he was driven to Berlin in one of Goering's swankiest autos.

Most of his friends thought Wyatt, now a commodore in the United States Navy, had been dropped into temporary oblivion last June when he was sent to take over the navy air base of Kwajalein in the Marshall islands.

Wyatt had hardly finished building Kwajalein into a modern, thriving base than the navy decided Bikini atoll at his back door should be the site for testing the atomic bomb against warships. He was chosen to conduct preliminaries for the test.

Baby Chicks Are Sent to Truman And Anderson as Form of Protest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Two thousand baby chicks, shipped to President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson by an Indiana hatchery owner as a form of protest over government regulations, arrived late today.

But no delivery was made immediately to the White House, and Secretary Anderson declined to pay the express charges on the 1,000 chicks sent him.

William Lathrop, Richmond, Ind., sent the chicks to the president and the agriculture secretary, "just to see what they would do with them." Lathrop said he was irked over government requests to chicken producers to cut down their flocks for fear of over-production and contended poultry producers are confused.

The hatchery owner also sent 1,000 chicks to Gov. Ralph Gates, of Indiana, who arranged to pay the shipping costs and have them added to the state farm at Putnamville, Ind.

Anderson, who declined to pay the $70 COD charges on the ten boxes of 100 chicks each, intended for him, said:

"Lathrop overestimated his market and now he's sorry."

"The department has been trying for sometime," Anderson told a reporter, "to get farmers to cull their flocks and hatcheries to curtail production in order to save grain."

I WANT TO LIVE ENOUGH!

I'm not afraid of dying,
But I'm very much afraid of not living enough.
I don't care how long I live,
But I want to live all the life there is while I'm at it.
By this I do not mean having "a good time."
I mean having a real time.
I want to see life as it really is.
I want to see myself as I really am.
I want to discover all the truth
Which it is possible for me to discover.
I want to ask questions—
And test out my answers, even if they're wrong.
I want the courage to defy everything even myself.
In my search for the true life—
No matter what it costs!

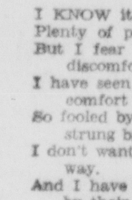

* * *

I KNOW it will cost plenty,
Plenty of pain and discomfort,
But I fear comfort more than discomfort.
I have seen men so trapped by comfort . . .
So fooled by success . . so hamstrung by happiness . . .
I don't want to be cheated that way.
And I have seen men strangled by their own fear
And smothered in their own complacency—
So I will seek danger, until I can laugh at fear.
And court humiliation, to prick my complacency—
For no price is too great to pay
For the chance to live enough!
I don't know whether there is another life,
But I do not know there is this one—
And though this life is a mystery
And largely beyond my control,
I have observed this much—
I can play the game as I will!

* * *

Play it safe, or gamble—
Take it or leave it alone—
Hide away like a gopher—
Or strut my stuff as a king—
And I choose the role of king!
Then, if I'm two-timed on eternity,
I'll at least have had the glory
Of living enough for an hour.
I have only one prayer . . . but it's consistant—
Keep me alive, while I live!
Keep me inquisitive . . . defiant . . .
Restless and reckless and hungry . . .
Standing the gaff—if only

By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

I WANT TO LIVE ENOUGH!

I'm not afraid of dying,
But I'm very much afraid of not living enough.
I don't care how long I live.
But I want to live all the life there is while I'm at it.
By this I do not mean having "a good time."
I mean having a real time.
I want to see life as it really is.
I want to see myself as I really am.
I want to discover all the truth
Which it is possible for me to discover.
I want to ask questions—
And test out my answers, even if they're wrong.
I want the courage to defy everything even myself.
In my search for the true life—
No matter what it costs!

* * *

I KNOW it will cost plenty,
Plenty of pain and discomfort,
But I fear comfort more than discomfort.
I have seen men so trapped by comfort . . .
So fooled by success . . so hamstrung by happiness . . .
I don't want to be cheated that way.
And I have seen men strangled by their own fear
And smothered in their own complacency—
So I will seek danger, until I can laugh at fear.
And court humiliation, to prick my complacency—
For no price is too great to pay
For the chance to live enough!
I don't know whether there is another life,
But I do not know there is this one—
And though this life is a mystery
And largely beyond my control.
I have observed this much—
I can play the game as I will!

* * *

Play it safe, or gamble—
Take it or leave it alone—
Hide away like a gopher—
Or strut my stuff as a king—
And I choose the role of king!
Then, if I'm two-timed on eternity,
I'll at least have had the glory
Of living enough for an hour.
I have only one prayer . . . but it's consistant—
Keep me alive, while I live!
Keep me inquisitive . . . defiant . . .
Restless and reckless and hungry . . .
Standing the gaff—if only

Some Information On Mass Production

PRESUMABLY Chester Bowles, OPA chief, and the public incidentally are getting some helpful information concerning mass production operations as the result of an exchange of observations between Bowles and Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Company.

Soon after Bowles issued a statement that the Ford company "in July, 1945, made a formal application to OPA for a fifty-five per cent increase above the 1942 Ford ceiling prices," which Bowles termed "outrageous," Ford telegraphed the answer.

Yes, Ford admitted in his telegram to Bowles, the ceiling prices stated had been requested while the country was still at war with Japan, but the increase had resulted from limited production fixed by the War Production Board.

The WPB had set production at 39,910 passenger cars for the last six months of 1945. "Obviously," he explained, "you cannot make 39,910 cars in six months in a plant designed to produce more than 10,000 cars every month without greatly increasing production costs per unit."

The limited production, Ford stated, had forced the FOB sales price of the "most popular" Ford model to $1,388.20, or fifty-five per cent more than the last peacetime selling price of $895. "We immediately filed application on prices under OPA's wartime general maximum price regulation. This action had nothing whatever to do with peacetime price ceilings," he added.

In answer to Bowles's statement that "this outrageous request (for 1945 ceiling prices) illustrates rather clearly what the public would be paying for Ford cars today if price control were not in effect," Ford declared that "we have no fear that the Ford Motor Company will charge the American people one penny more than it has to for cars. If we did, competition would take care of such a situation very quickly." Ford pertinently questioned "the propriety of a government official's calling 'outrageous' action taken in strict accordance with wartime government regulation."

Ford thus seems to have the better of the argument, if it can be so designated. What he said about the force of competition is a timely reminder of something many seem to have forgotten. Certainly nobody will grant that such a force has not effectively operated in the motor car industry in the past nor that there is any chance that it will not operate there in the future.

Strikes Are Right Up Communists' Alley

SOVIET HEADLINE WRITERS are having a field day with the wave of strikes in this country. At the same time, Soviet editorial writers are in position to "point with pride" to the absence of strikes in Russia, the Russian postwar production pick-up, the absence of unemployment, the satisfactory situation of fuel supply and transportation—with a special editorial note contributed by Stalin to the effect that food rationing will end soon.

In the Soviet dictatorship opinions are made to order and thus to the Russian public even the overreaching role played by Moscow in diplomatic affairs is being rationalized as an exemplification of Soviet devotion to international peace and good will.

Nevertheless, it must be conceded that the succession of strikes in this country is right up the communist alley. It lends itself to the spread of propaganda that the American political system is weak, that American productive economy leaves much to be desired and that in general the American system fails the needs of the people. The unfavorable reflection such propaganda casts on this nation's capacity for postwar world leadership is obvious.

How keenly communism is interested in the spread of industrial strife and economic unrest in this country may be recalled in the part communism played in trying to hamper American preparedness before Russia was attacked by Germany. In the circumstances, the question might reasonably be put as to what extent communism is actively interested in fostering economic disorganization in the United States.

Some Things the Atomic Bomb Will Not Do

FOOL QUESTIONS, it seems, are not the sole bother of newspapers. Navy authorities are similarly annoyed, and Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy has been moved to answer some of them in blanket fashion through a public statement doubtless in the hope that the flow of such queries will be lessened.

A lot of people are worrying about what the atomic bombs will do in the experiments to be conducted in the Pacific. The first test, involving an explosion in the air above an anchored fleet in Bikini atoll lagoon, has been set for May 15. The second, with the blast near the water, will take place four to six weeks later, depending on the time needed for rearranging target ships and installing additional instruments.

Naturally the navy experts do not know just what these bomb explosions will do, but they are pretty certain as to some of the things they will not do, which is the burden of many of the inquiries received by mail from perturbed persons.

The bomb explosions will not do a lot of the things feared, Adm. Blandy stated.

"The bomb will not kill half the fish in the sea, and poison the other half, so they will kill all the people who eat fish hereafter," he asserted in an address prepared for the Philadelphia chapter of the Red Cross.

"It will not start a chain reaction in the water, converting it all to gas and letting all the ships on all the oceans drop to the bottom. It will not blow out the bottom of the sea, letting all the water run down the hole. It will not cause an earthquake or push up new mountain ranges. It will not cause a tidal wave. It will not destroy gravity."

Wherefore, it is hoped that a lot of anxious persons are now relieved and the navy heads doubtless believe that, in consequence, the flow of letters of inquiry will simmer down somewhat, which is likely in view of the fact that publicity is usually an effective preventive.

A Strong Navy Yet Necessary

IT SEEMS almost absurd that the secretary of the navy should find it necessary to urge Congress to keep the navy strong. But that's what Secretary Forrestal is doing. He must consider it necessary. But the news from Canada of the atomic bomb "leak" may open many congressional eyes.

Secretary Forrestal wants Congress to set the navy's strength at 500,000 enlisted men and 58,000 officers. In support of this legislation he found it advisable to explain to the Senate Naval Affairs committee that the time has not yet come when war can be waged without the transportation of men and materials overseas.

"Security against attack," he said, "can only be achieved by denying to our potential enemies the base areas from which mass air attacks can be launched against us.

"This implies the maintenance of an over-all military establishment capable of projecting our military power overseas quickly and decisively. To this end powerful naval forces are essential."

Although he could hardly present the matter in a clearer light, Secretary Forrestal said he realized that this is a difficult time to be keeping a strong navy intact. Russia's eagerness to obtain the atomic secret should open the eyes of congressmen who have been asking against what enemy the nation should prepare.

Lord Halifax Figures Better than Some Others

PROPAGANDISTS for the British loan continue to minimize the sum involved with the object of fooling the public by clipping off $640,000,000 of the proposed credit.

It has remained for a British spokesman to set this aright. The British are usually candid, but whether this was the motive behind the correction or a confusion between the billions and millions of international finance is not known, but maybe it was both.

The spokesman was none other than the British ambassador, Lord Halifax.

"I have always been bad on sums," he apologized at a press conference just held in Omaha when he found himself all wrapped up in the billions and the millions of the proposed credit to his country.

"Let's see, what did I say, millions, or billions?" Yes, with the $640,000,000 credit to apply on lend-lease, that will be about $4,400,000,000," he computed.

That is pretty good for this Britton, in view of the fact that different methods of computing a billion obtain here and in England. In this country it is a thousand millions, but in England it is a million millions.

It is to be hoped that the United States and Argentina settle their difficulties. The Good Neighbor blueprint should hardly call for a spite fence running down the middle.

Uncle Sam has established diplomatic relations with Yeman, tiny Arabian kingdom, for which the old boy has considerable esteem, especially its oil.

Times continue to change. Now, the term "northern spy" means a foreign espionage agent nabbed in Canada and not just an apple nor a visitor in the southern states.

If the hoop skirt stages that promised come-back, the fad will probably be short-lived. That is because today we have a vertical civilization, not a horizontal one.

Harry Truman denies that he said he wouldn't run in 1948. Hope springs eternal in springtime, which is approaching.

LIQUID LIVES

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Nothing remains stationary. There is movement going on all the time, even though we may not take note of it. There is always change—something better replacing the old. History is liquid. Life is liquid.

Thoughts keep flowing through our minds. Put metal under the enlarging power of a scientific instrument, squeeze that metal and you will note the movement of its elements, and see the beauty of it there at the same time.

The largest part of the human body is liquid. But, when considering the influence of the mind, it flows also, invisibly, entering other minds, and all life. Cities flow with human beings, and activity. There is movement to the entire solar system. A thought becomes liquid the moment it leaves the mind. The author of a book becomes liquid the moment his book reaches the eyes of readers.

None of us can live to himself alone. We are a part of all that we have met and experienced. Even our homes and offices reflect us, long after we have left them. Something liquid of us remains. It flows on. We live in more lives than we know, and more live in us than we suspect.

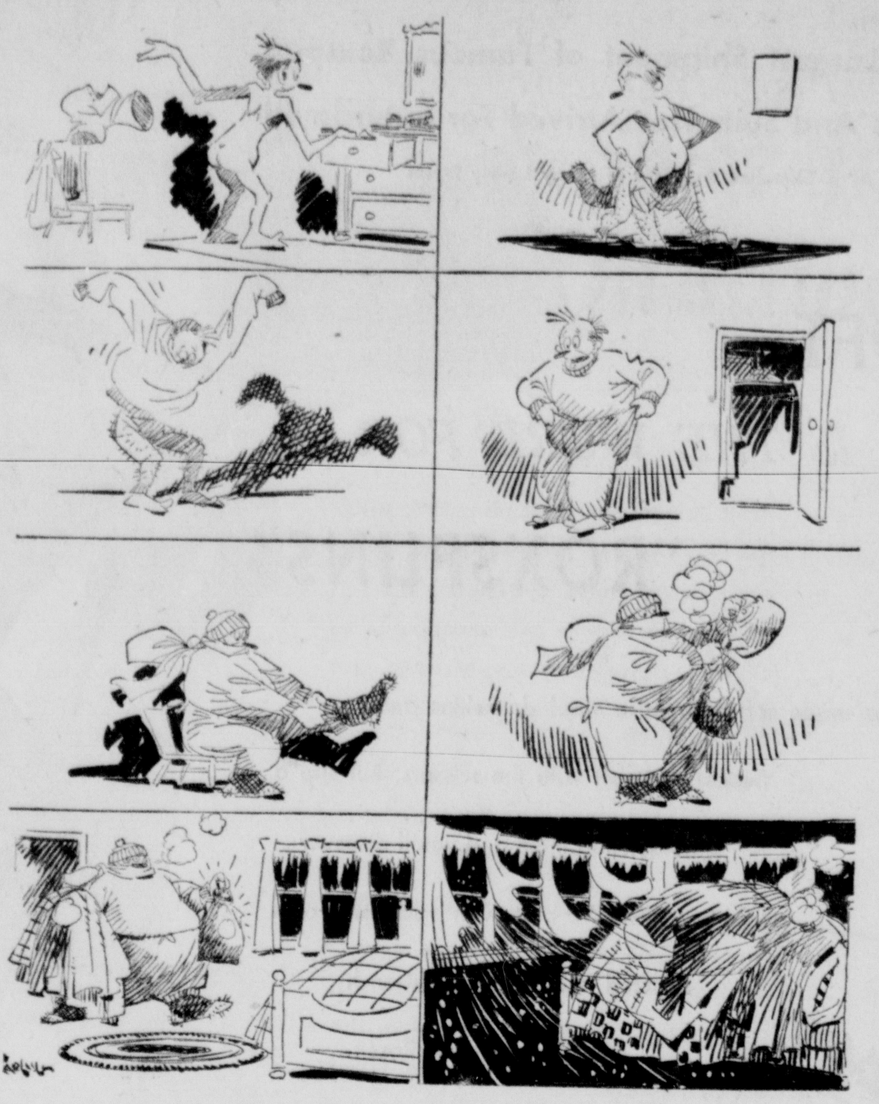

The high vaporous air drops close to the earth, and exquisite flakes of snow form, in cold weather—things of rare beauty, only later to melt and be absorbed into the earth. And the thirsty earth holds this treasure, later quenching the thirst of shrub, flower, grass, and tree. And this moisture creeps into every intricate formation of nature. Nothing could live without it—even this body of ours.

How wonderfully inspiring is this thought! Each one of us is a contributor to the great stream of life. Benefactors, like the pioneers, the scientists, the inventors, the artists, the writers, the poets, flow on in what they have contributed as their share to the stream. And the stream is the richer, for all following life shares in the inheritance.

Never become discouraged, for each of us is a vital part of this stream, and there would be no stream if no one gave to its flow! Each of us is eternally liquid.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Pearson Says U. S. Officials Suspected Of Red Sympathies Are under Scrutiny

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—It isn't going to be announced, but President Truman has suggested that Secretary of State Byrnes take action regarding a handful of men in the State department who, as a result of disclosures in Canada, are suspected of being either in league with or very sympathetic to Soviet Russia.

Secretary Byrnes, however, has decided to move cautiously. There will be no prosecutions as in Canada—at least for some time—but one or two State department officials may be "dropped."

There are two reasons for making no arrests in this country:

1. American law does not permit the same action as in Canada, where suspected officials are being held incommunicado. Under the McNabb act, an arrested person in the United States has to be arraigned immediately and any statement he makes prior to arraignment cannot be used as evidence.

2. The information seized in Canada is circumstantial as far as most American officials are concerned though some of it is extremely incriminating.

For instance, the Russian who surrendered in Ottawa gave the code name of one man in the State department with whom the Soviet communicated once every two weeks by courier. The code name, does not give strong enough evidence regarding the official's identity to permit prosecution. But his usefulness to the government is ended and he will be dropped.

In other cases, it is difficult to ascertain whether certain United States officials gave information to Soviet officials because of an excessive desire to work for international peace or whether they actually believed in communistic doctrines. In most cases, it is believed the former is the case.

Secretary Byrnes, a former member of the Supreme court, and the Justice department agree that civil liberties must be carefully preserved, despite the fact that they have been under considerable pressure, from the army and navy to take a contrary course.

As far as can be ascertained, no American official was guilty of revealing any secret of the atom bomb, though this cannot be said of the British.

Meanwhile, those under suspicion are under careful scrutiny.

Note—One State department official whom Pat Hurley strongly criticized for siding with the Chinese Communists was George Atcheson, long-time diplomatic expert on the Far East. Atcheson has been chief civilian adviser to Gen. MacArthur ever since V-J day and has recently returned to the USA. Since his return, MacArthur has been burning up the wires demanding that Atcheson come back to Tokyo.

Byrnes-Baruch Brotherhood

Best example of the spirit of Brotherhood week was the recent trip taken by two distinguished statesmen to visit Winston Churchill. Most people didn't know it, but when Secretary of State Byrnes and Elder Statesman Bernie Baruch went to Miami together, they terminated a personal feud which had upset their long friendship for exactly one year.

Byrnes and Baruch have known each other intimately for about thirty years. Both from South Carolina, Baruch backed Byrnes in all his election races, sometimes handsomely. A year ago, however, the two cooled. Baruch began aiming barbs at his old friend during the closing days of Byrnes career as war mobilizer. He intimated that Byrnes lacked the nerve to demand a tough manpower bill during the last months of the war, that he didn't want to get mixed up in the Henry Wallace confirmation fight, and that he was running out on FDR. Naturally, these remarks got back to Jimmy, and didn't help their friendship. For several months the two did not see each other.

A few days after Byrnes flew back from the London conference, however, Baruch came to Washington and friends arranged a private dinner at the Shoreham hotel. There the two men made up. They have been pulling together as the old Baruch-Byrnes team for the good of the nation ever since.

Atom vs. Battleship

Unless President Truman does something drastic about it very soon, the forthcoming atomic tests in the Pacific, scientists say, may turn out to be a study in waterspouts instead of atomic energy.

On the outcome of these tests largely depends whether or not we have a future navy. It is only natural, therefore, that in any question of atom versus battleship the admirals would like to prove that the atom is a mere pea-shooter. They would not be good navy men if they didn't.

Atomic scientists, however, are up in arms, claim the admirals are arranging the tests in such a way that the atomic bomb will do the least damage. They charge that as now planned the test will be dangerous to the security of the country and unfair to the American people.

On-the-surface atomic-bomb explosions, the scientists claim, will add nothing to the knowledge already accumulated from previous explosions at New Mexico, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, except that we may learn the size and damage of the world's largest water spout.

An underwater atomic explosion, the scientists say, is the only decisive test. But regarding this the navy is hedging.

One scientist, Dr. W. H. Higinbotham, chairman of the Federation of Atomic Scientists, thinks it ridiculous to start with the most moderate kind of test.

"From what we already know," he says, "an atomic bomb exploded under water will act like a powerful depth charge and probably would rip the hulls of the most sturdy ship we have."

Higinbotham and other scientists believe the atomic bomb has made our entire navy obsolete, and that it's just such an uncomfortable truth as this that the navy is trying to cover.

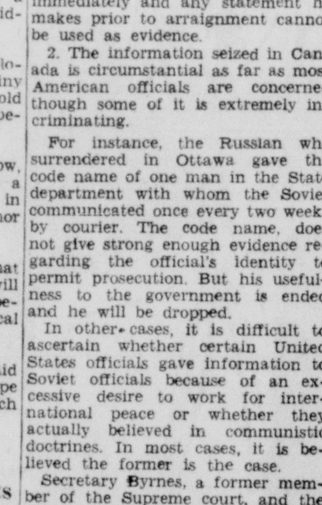

That's why the scientists believe that they, the men who invented the bomb, should be in charge of testing it—that any lesser experiment may only lull the country into a false sense of security and slow up development of anti-atomic defenses.

Inside fact is that Truman sent a clear-cut memorandum to Patterson warning him not to testify against the White House plan for civilian control of atomic energy. I can't understand why there is so much controversy over paying fifty million dollars for a UNO site in Connecticut. After all, that's very exclusive ground in Connecticut. . . . In fact, the gophers there refuse to dig anyplace that hasn't been approved by the housekeeping institutes.

Too, there's a reason for selecting that particular site. They want the organization, above everything else, to remain politically neutral . . . and where could you find more neutral territory than in between Maine and New York?

But the people of Connecticut, themselves, seem to be the main objectors. They're afraid it would have the atmosphere of a world's fair with hot-dog stands all around it. . . It isn't that they don't approve of hot-dogs . . . but they insist on checking their kennel references before they'll let them into the state.

But I don't see why Connecticut objects . . . after all, diplomats are very easy people to get along with . . . you know what a diplomat is, of course. . . . That's a Republican who can smile out of one side of his mouth and sing the "Donkey Serenade" out of the other side at the same time.

Of course, the English had a mild objection . . . they preferred Boston. . . I guess they figured they could still scrape some tea out of the harbor.

And someone suggested Texas. . . But Stalin objected immediately. . . He was afraid they might mistake his moustache for a tumbleweed.

Vandenberg Is Seen as Possible Nominee of GOP

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Despite Senator Arthur Vandenberg's London statement that he is not a presidential candidate for 1948, it does not rule out an outside chance that he might win the GOP nomination—nor that he would welcome it.

Vandenberg has been catapulted into the world scene as a UNO delegate, and is the spokesman for one trend of foreign-policy thought within his party. Oddly, he was helped along by an administration he criticized vigorously for its doings on the home front.

His pre-Yalta foreign policy address so pleased the late President Roosevelt that he named "Big Van" a delegate to the San Francisco conclave. Subsequently, President Truman sent him to London.

Vandenberg could hardly forget the roar of the crowds at the Philadelphia GOP convention in 1940, when he had a fair chance to capture the nomination that later went to the late Wendell Willkie.

In Chicago four years later he was shoved into the background by Governor Dewey. But two years hence it might be different—to some extent depending on the success of UNO and the part he plays in it.

If Stassen is beaten, if Dewey is out, and Bricker comes a cropper the waiting man in the background would appear to be "Big Van."

Wheat Only a Liquor Stretcher

President Truman's order curtailing the use of wheat in whiskey and beer will not hurt the drinking public too much.

According to those in the industry distilled spirits may suffer a little in quantity but there will be enough to go around.

Distillers use chiefly the best grades of corn and rye. Wheat was added as a stretcher during the war. Thus, they figure they will not be hit too hard.

There is a possibility, however, that spirits may be conserved for the whiskey output and the production of gin halted as it was during the war.

Beer brewers say they expected a decreased demand for their brews after the war, so they, too, are not worrying much.

Nylons Not Exported

The commerce department wants the ladies of the land to know that their precious nylons are not going overseas while stockingless legs are getting goosepimples from standing in lines to await the sheerest hose.

So Arthur Paul, director of the Office of International Trade, came forward with the figures. He said: Less than one per cent of American nylons go abroad.

In 1945, he said, only 354,000 of the 40,000,000 pairs made in America were diverted to foreign markets.

Pre-Built Houses Hit Snag

The government's new housing program calling for 1,500,000 prefabricated homes in 1946 and 1947 is going to have some tough sledding unless some prompt action is taken to insure their construction.

The reason: "Prefabs" are anathema in many communities. "City Fathers" do not want them and building trades unions, along with suppliers of building materials, are turning up their noses at them.

In fact, scores of cities and towns have city ordinances which prohibit such homes. And unions contend they drastically curtail workers' incomes. But the government is committed to an emergency program of pre-fabricated housing. Numerous industries are ready for mass production.

Wilson Wyatt, dynamic housing expediter, is appealing to unions and communities to remove their barriers. If they don't there may be a clash with the federal government, because the administration is determined to take a long step forward solving the housing shortage quickly.

Mass Picketing Is Viewed as Hurting The Labor Cause

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. — Mass picketing may turn out to be a bigger issue than the "sit-down" strike. Public opinion has always frowned on the use of violence in labor disputes and the forcible seizure of property by strikers. The "sit-down" was denounced by the United States Senate and later by the courts.

To picket a property by massing strikers so that entrance is barred is no different from any other form of trespass on private property. Entrance to or exit from the premises of any company is safeguarded by state laws. But in recent months the cities have failed to furnish police protection and even the great state of New Jersey sees its orders and injunctions flagrantly disregarded so that the governor is obliged to take cognizance of the lawlessness.

The so-called "liberals" are the first to protest when men take the law into their hands and lynch alleged criminals without trial. But there is no difference between one form of lawlessness and another. All are equally bad and equally a violation of the code of morality as well as the statutes. Yet no "liberals" of prominence have risen to denounce "mass picketing."

Prejudice Is Enhanced

Just why certain labor unions have begun to use the mass picketing technique is unexplainable. A cause that needs to use strong-arm methods cannot be very persuasive. Public opinion, which hitherto has been inclined to weigh impartially the merits of the issues in a labor dispute, will become prejudiced by the fact that physical coercion and brutishness are being used in an attempt to win a strike.

Some years ago it was the habit of certain big employers to employ spies to sit in on union meetings and strong-arm men to intimidate union organizers. Much of this was exposed by the La Follette committee in the Senate, and industry had to hang its head in shame when the exposures were made, though, to be sure, the defense was that the actions were provoked by similar acts on the part of labor unions.

"Goon Squads" Used

Today some of the labor unions employ "good squads" to terrorize workers and to incite groups of pickets to violence. The labor leaders at the top may claim to be ignorant of these matters or to look upon them as part of the warfare that is unavoidable, but they have the means of stopping mass picketing and the responsibility for lawlessness is largely theirs, because not one of them has made a public denunciation of it or called upon the rank and file to desist from it.

Instead, it will be discovered that a defense of mass picketing is offered in courts as against injunctions no matter what the nature of the violence may be. There is no discrimination being used by the unions and no movement to head off the use of violence.

Under the circumstances the public will inevitably demand that the federal government assume the police powers which the states are failing to exercise. If the sovereign states intend to retain their independence of the federal government, they will not permit lawlessness to ensue and thus encourage Congress to enter the domain of protection for the individual citizen.

Right of Congress Upheld

Plainly the Congress has the constitutional right to protect the citizen in labor disputes, because the Supreme Court of the United States, in upholding the Wagner act, said it was within the federal jurisdiction to prevent strikes. It declared that all businesses which even remotely affect interstate commerce now come under the federal government's right to police those businesses in labor disputes. Subsequent interpretations have indicated that hardly any type of business, from apartment-house management to retail stores operating wholly within state lines, are immune from federal regulation.

Mass picketing is a sad reflection on the depths to which human relations have gone in our times. Instead of using the processes of reason, there is a tendency to use brute force to accomplish an economic end. There was plenty of denunciation against the Fascists of Europe for the use of those very methods which are now being ignored by the left wingers and various labor union leaders. As lawlessness is used by strikers and union pickets, there is a conspiracy of silence. Not a word of condemnation is heard from the top ranks of labor or from the persons who are customarily so quick to argue for human rights and the privileges and immunities guaranteed to the citizen by the constitution.

Some Information On Mass Production

PRESUMABLY Chester Bowles, OPA chief, and the public incidentally are getting some helpful information concerning mass production operations as the result of an exchange of observations between Bowles and Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Company.

Soon after Bowles issued a statement that the Ford company "in July, 1945, made a formal application to OPA for a fifty-five per cent increase above the 1942 Ford ceiling prices," which Bowles termed "outrageous," Ford telegraphed the answer.

Yes, Ford admitted in his telegram to Bowles, the ceiling prices stated had been requested while the country was still at war with Japan, but the increase had resulted from limited production fixed by the War Production Board.

The WPB had set production at 39,910 passenger cars for the last six months of 1945. "Obviously," he explained, "you cannot make 39,910 cars in six months in a plant designed to produce more than 10,000 cars every month without greatly increasing production costs per unit."

The limited production, Ford stated, had forced the FOB sales price of the "most popular" Ford model to $1,388.20, or fifty-five per cent more than the last peacetime selling price of $895. "We immediately filed application on prices under OPA's wartime general maximum price regulation. This action had nothing whatever to do with peacetime price ceilings," he added.

In answer to Bowles's statement that "this outrageous request (for 1945 ceiling prices) illustrates rather clearly what the public would be paying for Ford cars today if price control were not in effect," Ford declared that "we have no fear that the Ford Motor Company will charge the American people one penny more than it has to for cars. If we did, competition would take care of such a situation very quickly." Ford pertinently questioned "the propriety of a government official's calling 'outrageous' action taken in strict accordance with wartime government regulation."

Ford thus seems to have the better of the argument, if it can be so designated. What he said about the force of competition is a timely reminder of something many seem to have forgotten. Certainly nobody will grant that such a force has not effectively operated in the motor car industry in the past nor that there is any chance that it will not operate there in the future.

Strikes Are Right Up Communists' Alley

SOVIET HEADLINE WRITERS are having a field day with the wave of strikes in this country. At the same time, Soviet editorial writers are in position to "point with pride" to the absence of strikes in Russia, the Russian postwar production pick-up, the absence of unemployment, the satisfactory situation of fuel supply and transportation—with a special editorial note contributed by Stalin to the effect that food rationing will end soon.

In the Soviet dictatorship opinions are made to order and thus to the Russian public even the overreaching role played by Moscow in diplomatic affairs is being rationalized as an exemplification of Soviet devotion to international peace and good will.

Nevertheless, it must be conceded that the succession of strikes in this country is right up the communist alley. It lends itself to the spread of propaganda that the American political system is weak, that American productive economy leaves much to be desired and that in general the American system fails the needs of the people. The unfavorable reflection such propaganda casts on this nation's capacity for postwar world leadership is obvious.

How keenly communism is interested in the spread of industrial strife and economic unrest in this country may be recalled in the part communism played in trying to hamper American preparedness before Russia was attacked by Germany. In the circumstances, the question might reasonably be put as to what extent communism is actively interested in fostering economic disorganization in the United States.

Some Things the Atomic Bomb Will Not Do

FOOL QUESTIONS, it seems, are not the sole bother of newspapers. Navy authorities are similarly annoyed, and Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy has been moved to answer some of them in blanket fashion through a public statement doubtless in the hope that the flow of such queries will be lessened.

A lot of people are worrying about what the atomic bombs will do in the experiments to be conducted in the Pacific. The first test, involving an explosion in the air above an anchored fleet in Bikini atoll lagoon, has been set for May 15. The second, with the blast near the water, will take place four to six weeks later, depending on the time needed for rearranging target ships and installing additional instruments.

Naturally the navy experts do not know just what these bomb explosions will do, but they are pretty certain as to some of the things they will not do, which is the burden of many of the inquiries received by mail from perturbed persons.

The bomb explosions will not do a lot of the things feared, Adm. Blandy stated.

"The bomb will not kill half the fish in the sea, and poison the other half, so they will kill all the people who eat fish hereafter," he asserted in an address prepared for the Philadelphia chapter of the Red Cross.

"It will not start a chain reaction in the water converting it all to gas and letting all the ships on all the oceans drop to the bottom. It will not blow out the bottom of the sea, letting all the water run down the hole. It will not cause an earthquake or push up new mountain ranges. It will not cause a tidal wave. It will not destroy gravity."

Wherefore, it is hoped that a lot of anxious persons are now relieved and the navy heads doubtless believe that, in consequence, the flow of letters of inquiry will simmer down somewhat, which is likely in view of the fact that publicity is usually an effective preventive.

A Strong Navy Yet Necessary

IT SEEMS almost absurd that the secretary of the navy should find it necessary to urge Congress to keep the navy strong. But that's what Secretary Forrestal is doing. He must consider it necessary. But the news from Canada of the atomic bomb "leak" may open many congressional eyes.

Secretary Forrestal wants Congress to set the navy's strength at 500,000 enlisted men and 58,000 officers. In support of this legislation he found it advisable to explain, to the Senate Naval Affairs committee that the time has not yet come when war can be waged without the transportation of men and materials overseas.

"Security against attack," he said, "can only be achieved by denying to our potential enemies the base areas from which mass air attacks can be launched against us.

"This implies the maintenance of an over-all military establishment capable of projecting our military power overseas quickly and decisively. To this end powerful naval forces are essential."

Although he could hardly present the matter in a clearer light, Secretary Forrestal said he realized that this is a difficult time to be keeping a strong navy intact. Russia's eagerness to obtain the atomic secret should open the eyes of congressmen who have been asking against what enemy the nation should prepare.

Lord Halifax Figures Better than Some Others

PROPAGANDISTS for the British loan continue to minimize the sum involved with the object of fooling the public by clipping off $640,000,000 of the proposed credit.

It has remained for a British spokesman to set this aright. The British are usually candid, but whether this was the motive behind the correction or a confusion between the billions and millions of international finance is not known, but maybe it was both.

The spokesman was none other than the British ambassador, Lord Halifax.

"I have always been bad on sums," he apologized at a press conference just held in Omaha when he found himself all wrapped up in the billions and the millions of the proposed credit to his country.

"Let's see, what did I say, millions, or billions?" Yes, with the $640,000,000 credit to apply on lend-lease, that will be about $4,400,000,000," he computed.

That is pretty good for this Britton, in view of the fact that different methods of computing a billion obtain here and in England. In this country it is a thousand millions, but in England it is a million millions.

It is to be hoped that the United States and Argentina settle their difficulties. The Good Neighbor blueprint should hardly call for a spite fence running down the middle.

Uncle Sam has established diplomatic relations with Yeman, tiny Arabian kingdom, for which the old boy has considerable esteem, especially its oil.

Times continue to change. Now, the term "northern spy" means a foreign espionage agent nabbed in Canada and not just an apple nor a visitor in the southern states.

If the hoop skirt stages that promised come-back, the fad will probably be short-lived. That is because today we have a vertical civilization, not a horizontal one.

Harry Truman denies that he said he wouldn't run in 1948. Hope springs eternal in springtime, which is approaching.

LIQUID LIVES

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Nothing remains stationary. There is movement going on all the time, even though we may not take note of it. There is always change—something better replacing the old. History is liquid. Life is liquid.

Thoughts keep flowing through our minds. Put metal under the enlarging power of a scientific instrument, squeeze that metal and you will note the movement of its elements, and see the beauty of it there at the same time.

The largest part of the human body is liquid. But, when considering the influence of the mind, it flows also, invisibly, entering other minds, and all life. Cities flow with human beings, and activity. There is movement to the entire solar system. A thought becomes liquid the moment it leaves the mind. The author of a book becomes liquid the moment his book reaches the eyes of readers.

None of us can live to himself alone. We are a part of all that we have met and experienced. Even our homes and offices reflect us, long after we have left them. Something liquid of us remains. It flows on. We live in more lives than we know, and more live in us than we suspect.

The high vaporous air drops close to the earth, and exquisite flakes of snow form, in cold weather—things of rare beauty, only later to melt and be absorbed into the earth. And the thirsty earth holds this treasure, later quenching the thirst of shrub, flower, grass, and tree. And this moisture creeps into every intricate formation of nature. Nothing could live without it—even this body of ours.

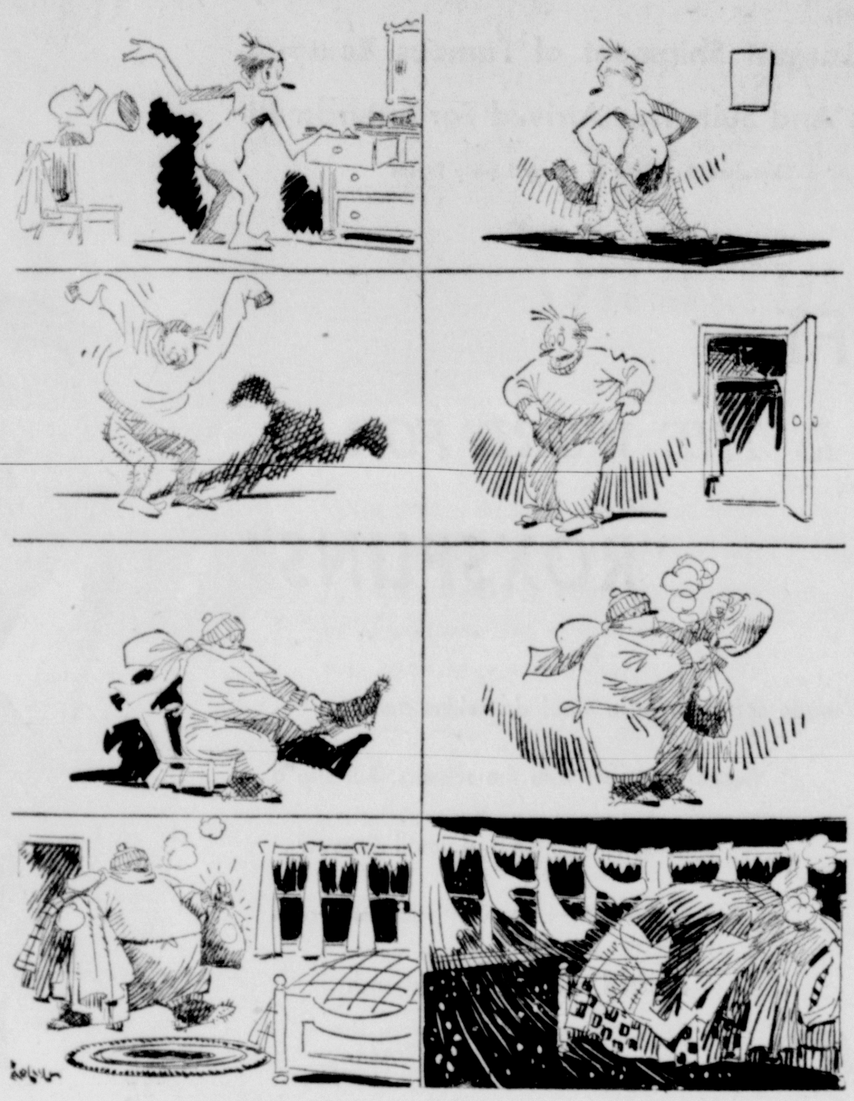

How wonderfully inspiring is this thought! Each one of us is a contributor to the great stream of life. Benefactors, like the pioneers, the scientists, the inventors, the artists, the writers, the poets, flow on in what they have contributed as their share to the stream. And the stream is the richer, for all following life shares in the inheritance.

Never become discouraged, for each of us is a vital part of this stream, and there would be no stream if no one gave to its flow! Each of us is eternally liquid.

Pearson Says U. S. Officials Suspected Of Red Sympathies Are under Scrutiny

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—It isn't going to be announced, but President Truman has suggested that Secretary of State Byrnes take action regarding a handful of men in the State department who, as a result of disclosures in Canada, are suspected of being either in league with or very sympathetic to Soviet Russia.

Secretary Byrnes, however, has decided to move cautiously. There will be no prosecutions as in Canada—at least for some time—but one or two State department officials may be "dropped."

There are two reasons for making no arrests in this country:

1. American law does not permit the same action as in Canada, where suspected officials are being held incommunicado. Under the McNabb act, an arrested person in the United States has to be arraigned immediately and any statement he makes prior to arraignment cannot be used as evidence.

2. The information seized in Canada is circumstantial as far as most American officials are concerned though some of it is extremely incriminating.

For instance, the Russian who surrendered in Ottawa gave the code name of one man in the State department with whom the Soviet communicated once every two weeks by courier. The code name, does not give strong enough evidence regarding the official's identity to permit prosecution. But his usefulness to the government is ended and he will be dropped.

In other cases, it is difficult to ascertain whether certain United States officials gave information to Soviet officials because of an excessive desire to work for international peace or whether they actually believed in communistic doctrines. In most cases, it is believed the former is the case.

Secretary Byrnes, a former member of the Supreme court, and the Justice department agree that civil liberties must be carefully preserved, despite the fact that they have been under considerable pressure, from the army and navy to take a contrary course.

As far as can be ascertained, no American official was guilty of revealing any secret of the atom bomb, though this cannot be said of the British.

Meanwhile, those under suspicion are under careful scrutiny.

Note—One State department official whom Pat Hurley strongly criticized for siding with the Chinese Communists was George Atcheson, long-time diplomatic expert on the Far East. Atcheson has been chief civilian adviser to Gen. MacArthur ever since V-J day and has recently returned to the USA. Since his return, MacArthur has been burning up the wires demanding that Atcheson come back to Tokyo.

Byrnes-Baruch Brotherhood

Best example of the spirit of Brotherhood week was the recent trip taken by two distinguished statesmen to visit Winston Churchill. Most people didn't know it, but when Secretary of State Byrnes and Elder Statesman Bernie Baruch went to Miami together, they terminated a personal feud which had upset their long friendship for exactly one year.

Byrnes and Baruch have known each other intimately for about thirty years. Both from South Carolina, Baruch backed Byrnes in all his election races, sometimes handsomely. A year ago, however, the two cooled. Baruch began aiming barbs at his old friend during the closing days of Byrnes career as war mobilizer. He intimated that Byrnes lacked the nerve to demand a tough manpower bill during the last months of the war, that he didn't want to get mixed up in the Henry Wallace confirmation fight, and that he was running out on FDR. Naturally, these remarks got back to Jimmy, and didn't help their friendship. For several months the two did not see each other.

A few days after Byrnes flew back from the London conference, however, Baruch came to Washington and friends arranged a private dinner at the Shoreham hotel. There the two men made up. They have been pulling together as the old Baruch-Byrnes team for the good of the nation ever since.

Atom vs. Battleship

Unless President Truman does something drastic about it very soon, the forthcoming atomic tests in the Pacific, scientists say, may turn out to be a study in waterspouts instead of atomic energy.

On the outcome of these tests largely depends whether or not we have a future navy. It is only natural, therefore, that in any question of atom versus battleship the admirals would like to prove that the atom is a mere pea-shooter. They would not be good navy men if they didn't.

Atomic scientists, however, are up in arms, claim the admirals are arranging the tests in such a way that the atomic bomb will do the least damage. They charge that as now planned the test will be dangerous to the security of the country and unfair to the American people.

On-the-surface atomic-bomb explosions, the scientists claim, will add nothing to the knowledge already accumulated from previous explosions at New Mexico, Hiroshima and Nagasaki, except that we may learn the size and damage of the world's largest water spout.

An underwater atomic explosion, the scientists say, is the only decisive test. But regarding this the navy is hedging.

One scientist, Dr. W. H. Higinbotham, chairman of the Federation of Atomic Scientists, thinks it ridiculous to start with the most moderate kind of test.

"From what we already know," he says, "an atomic bomb exploded under water will act like a powerful depth charge and probably would rip the hulls of the most sturdy ship we have."

Higinbotham and other scientists believe the atomic bomb has made our entire navy obsolete, and that it's just such an uncomfortable truth as this that the navy is trying to cover.

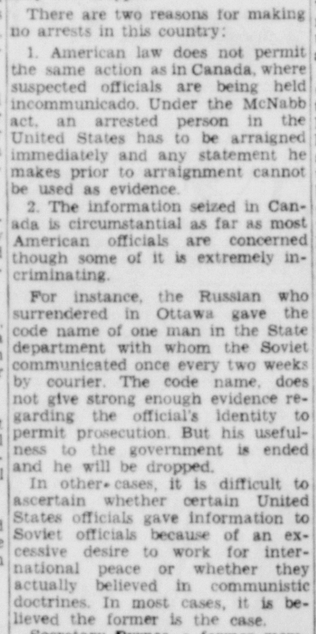

That's why the scientists believe that they, the men who invented the bomb, should be in charge of testing it—that any lesser experiment may only lull the country into a false sense of security and slow up development of anti-atomic defenses.

I can't understand why there is so much controversy over paying fifty million dollars for a UNO site in Connecticut. After all, that's very exclusive ground in Connecticut. . . . In fact, the gophers there refuse to dig anyplace that hasn't been approved by the housekeeping institutes.

Too, there's a reason for selecting that particular site. They want the organization, above everything else, to remain politically neutral . . . and where could you find more neutral territory than in between Maine and New York?

But the people of Connecticut, themselves, seem to be the main objectors. They're afraid it would have the atmosphere of a world's fair with hot-dog stands all around it. . . . It isn't that they don't approve of hot-dogs . . . but they insist on checking their kennel references before they'll let them into the state.

But I don't see why Connecticut objects . . . after all, diplomats are very easy people to get along with . . . you know what a diplomat is, of course. . . . That's a Republican who can smile out of one side of his mouth and sing the "Donkey Serenade" out of the other side at the same time.

Of course, the English had a mild objection . . . they preferred Boston . . . I guess they figured they could still scrape some tea out of the harbor.

And someone suggested Texas. . . . But Stalin objected immediately. . . . He was afraid they might mistake his moustache for a tumbleweed.

Vandenberg Is Seen as Possible Nominee of GOP

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Despite Senator Arthur Vandenberg's London statement that he is not a presidential candidate for 1948, it does not rule out an outside chance that he might win the GOP nomination—nor that he would welcome it.

Vandenberg has been catapulted into the world scene as a UNO delegate, and is the spokesman for one trend of foreign-policy thought within his party. Oddly, he was helped along by an administration he criticized vigorously for its doings on the home front.

His pre-Yalta foreign policy address so pleased the late President Roosevelt that he named "Big Van" a delegate to the San Francisco conclave. Subsequently, President Truman sent him to London.

Vandenberg could hardly forget the roar of the crowds at the Philadelphia GOP convention in 1940, when he had a fair chance to capture the nomination that later went to the late Wendell Willkie.

In Chicago four years later he was shoved into the background by Governor Dewey. But two years hence it might be different—to some extent depending on the success of UNO and the part he plays in it.

If Stassen is beaten, if Dewey is out, and Bricker comes a cropper the waiting man in the background would appear to be "Big Van."

Wheat Only a Liquor Stretcher

President Truman's order curtailing the use of wheat in whiskey and beer will not hurt the drinking public too much.

According to those in the industry distilled spirits may suffer a little in quantity but there will be enough to go around.

Distillers use chiefly the best grades of corn and rye. Wheat was added as a stretcher during the war. Thus, they figure they will not be hit too hard.

There is a possibility, however, that spirits may be conserved for the whiskey output and the production of gin halted as it was during the war.

Beer brewers say they expected a decreased demand for their brews after the war, so they, too, are not worrying much.

Nylons Not Exported

The commerce department wants the ladies of the land to know that their precious nylons are not going overseas while stockingless legs are getting goosepimples from standing in lines to await the sheerest hose.

So Arthur Paul, director of the Office of International Trade, came forward with the figures. He said: Less than one per cent of American nylons go abroad.

In 1945, he said, only 354,000 of the 40,000,000 pairs made in America were diverted to foreign markets.

Pre-Built Houses Hit Snag

The government's new housing program calling for 1,500,000 prefabricated homes in 1946 and 1947 is going to have some tough sledding unless some prompt action is taken to insure their construction.

The reason: "Prefabs" are anathema in many communities. "City Fathers" do not want them and building trades unions, along with suppliers of building materials, are turning up their noses at them.

In fact, scores of cities and towns have city ordinances which prohibit such homes. And unions contend they drastically curtail workers' incomes. But the government is committed to an emergency program of pre-fabricated housing. Numerous industries are ready for mass production.

Wilson Wyatt, dynamic housing expediter, is appealing to unions and communities to remove their barriers. If they don't there may be a clash with the federal government, because the administration is determined to take a long step forward solving the housing shortage quickly.

Mass Picketing Is Viewed as Hurting The Labor Cause

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. — Mass picketing may turn out to be a bigger issue than the "sit-down" strike. Public opinion has always frowned on the use of violence in labor disputes and the forcible seizure of property by strikers. The "sit-down" was denounced by the United States Senate and later by the courts.

To picket a property by massing strikers so that entrance is barred is no different from any other form of trespass on private property. Entrance to or exit from the premises of any company is safeguarded by state laws. But in recent months the cities have failed to furnish police protection and even the great state of New Jersey sees its orders and injunctions flagrantly disregarded so that the governor is obliged to take cognizance of the lawlessness.

The so-called "liberals" are the first to protest when men take the law into their hands and lynch alleged criminals without trial. But there is no difference between one form of lawlessness and another. All are equally bad and equally a violation of the code of morality as well as the statutes. Yet no "liberals" of prominence have risen to denounce "mass picketing."

Prejudice Is Enhanced

Just why certain labor unions have begun to use the mass picketing technique is unexplainable. A cause that needs to use strong-arm methods cannot be very persuasive. Public opinion, which hitherto has been inclined to weigh impartially the merits of the issues in a labor dispute, will become prejudiced by the fact that physical coercion and brutishness are being used in an attempt to win a strike.

Some years ago it was the habit of certain big employers to employ spies to sit in on union meetings and strong-arm men to intimidate union organizers. Much of this was exposed by the La Follette committee in the Senate, and industry had to hang its head in shame when the exposures were made, though, to be sure, the defense was that the actions were provoked by similar acts on the part of labor unions.

"Goon Squads" Used

Today some of the labor unions employ "good squads" to terrorize workers and to incite groups of pickets to violence. The labor leaders at the top may claim to be ignorant of these matters or to look upon them as part of the warfare that is unavoidable, but they have the means of stopping mass picketing and the responsibility for lawlessness is largely theirs, because not one of them has made a public denunciation of it or called upon the rank and file to desist from it.

Instead, it will be discovered that a defense of mass picketing is offered in courts as against injunctions no matter what the nature of the violence may be. There is no discrimination being used by the unions and no movement to head off the use of violence.

Under the circumstances the public will inevitably demand that the federal government assume the police powers which the states are failing to exercise. If the sovereign states intend to retain their independence of the federal government, they will not permit lawlessness to ensue and thus encourage Congress to enter the domain of protection for the individual citizen.

Right of Congress Upheld

Plainly the Congress has the constitutional right to protect the citizen in labor disputes, because the Supreme Court of the United States, in upholding the Wagner act, said it was within the federal jurisdiction to prevent strikes. It declared that all businesses which even remotely affect interstate commerce now come under the federal government's right to police those businesses in labor disputes. Subsequent interpretations have indicated that hardly any type of business, from apartment-house management to retail stores operating wholly within state lines, are immune from federal regulation.

Mass picketing is a sad reflection on the depths to which human relations have gone in our times. Instead of using the processes of reason, there is a tendency to use brute force to accomplish an economic end. There was plenty of denunciation against the Fascists of Europe for the use of those very methods which are now being ignored by the left wingers and various labor union leaders. As lawlessness is used by strikers and union pickets, there is a conspiracy of silence. Not a word of condemnation is heard from the top ranks of labor or from the persons who are customarily so quick to argue for human rights and the privileges and immunities guaranteed to the citizen by the constitution.

Truman Is Overwhelming Choice Of Non-Union Labor Democrats

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., February 22—Non-union Democratic labor voters favor President Truman for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948 by a majority substantially larger than is the case with union voters.

Virtually eight in every ten non-union labor voters perferring a Democrat for president in 1948 are found naming Truman as their top choice. Among union Democratic voters, about two out of three prefer Truman to any other possibility.

While Wallace is second choice of both union and non-union voters picking a Democrat, he receives a substantially higher vote among the union voters than among the non-union.

After Wallace, the choices among the non-union group are General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Fiorello H. LaGuardia.

Wallace Stands Second

The non-union labor vote in United States, while an important segment of Democratic party support, is found not so heavily Democratic today as the union vote. At the present time, sixty per cent of all non-union voters indicate the Democratic party as their choice, as compared to seventy-four per cent who do so among C.I.O., union voters and sixty-nine per cent among A.F. of L. voters.

The question having to do with Democratic candidate choices:

"What man would you like to see elected president of the country in 1948?"

	Dem. Union Voters	Dem. Non-Union Voters
Truman	65%	79%
Wallace	19	10
Eisenhower	4	5
Byrnes	3	2
Stettinius	2	1
LaGuardia	1	1
Others	6	2

Other choices of non-union voters naming a Democrat: Paul V. McNutt, Sumner Welles, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Senator Ablan W. Barkley of Kentucky, General George C. Marshall, Senator James W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Governor Coke Stevenson of Texas, Eleanor Roosevelt, and James Farley.

The question designed to measure the extent of Democratic support today among union and non-union labor voters:

"If a presidential election were being held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or Republican?"

	Dem.	Rep.
C.I.O. voters	74%	26%
A.F. of L. voters	69	31
All unions combined	70	30
Non-union voters	60	40

Republican Choices

Among non-union labor voters naming a Republican as their choice for the presidency in 1948, Governor Thomas E. Dewey holds the lead, with twice as many votes as Harold E. Stassen, his nearest rival in the list.

Other Republican choices: General Douglas MacArthur, John W. Bricker, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Governor Earl Warren of California, Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Eric Johnstoon, Herbert Hoover, Governor Dwight H. Green of Illinois, and Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut.

HEARING IS PLANNED ON CHARGE OF SELLING GUN WITHOUT PERMIT

Harold's Loan Company, 28 Baltimore street, posted $50 bond in police court Thursday for a hearing February 28 on a charge of selling firearms without a permit from the chief of police, according to the police court docket.

A Friendsville man, George E. Artice, was required to post $10 bond for his appearance as witness at the hearing.

Police said Artice was held after he went to police headquarters Thursday to secure a .22 caliber target revolver which police confiscated several weeks ago.

The Friendsville man forfeited $10 bond January 25 on a charge of discharging firearms in the city limits. A few days before that, police said, the weapon was found by police after residents near Queen City yard reported that a revolver was being fired.

Authorities added that one must have a permit from the chief of police before one may purchase a pistol or revolver here.

Timber Markers Will Be Available, Kaylor Says

On the recommendation of State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor the commission of state forests and parks has established a plan under which the timber marking service provided by the state forester may be made available to landowners throughout Maryland.

For the first twenty-five acres marked, no charges will be made. For acreage in excess of that figure, the charge will be $15 per day. Applications for the marking service, Kaylor says, have been received in steadily mounting number, and the department of state forests and parks is hard pressed to handle them with reasonable promptness.

The cost of marking, which is done by technically trained foresters in the employ of the department, has also shown a marked increase, and the $15 par day charge is necessary to defray in part the expense entailed by this state-sponsored service.

In every case, Kaylor declares, where merchantable timber is marked, the owner receives the maximum money returns from his tree crop, while the land is left in shape to produce successive timber crops in the future.

Building Service Workers, Local 249, Receive Charter

Earl A. Rider, Hagerstown, AFL organizer, reported yesterday that Local 249, Builing Service Employes, AFL, was chartered at an organization meeting held here early this week.

Temporary officers for the local, composed of janitors, charworkers, window cleaners and other maintenance employes of public buildings here, were named at the meeting held in Allegany Trades Council hall, the union organizer said.

AFL officials said the local here has a potential membership of several hundred workers.

The next meeting of the local has been scheduled for March 31 at 2 p. m. in Trades Council hall, Rider added.

Theft of Wrist Watch Reported to Police

The theft of a woman's Bulova wrist watch valued at $50 was reported to police Thursday by Charles Barley, 119 Harrison street, who said the watch was stolen from his apartment between 10 p. m. last February 13 and 4 p. m. February 14. The watch is yellow gold with a matching wrist strap.

Police also reported the theft of a silver trumpet valued at $100 from the West Virginia School for the Deaf and Blind at Romney. Reports were also received that vandals had broken lights and benches at the East Side playground in recent days.

Man In Navy 25 Years Is Eligible For Fleet Reserve

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is a chief petty officer and has served twenty-five years in the navy. He was also a Japanese prisoner-of-war for forty-five months. Is he eligible for transfer to the fleet reserve?

(MRS.) L. O.

A chief petty officer who has served twenty-five years in the navy is eligible for the fleet reserve. If he is physically disqualified, he will be placed in the inactive duty status.

Allowance to Dependents Continues

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My son intends to re-enlist immediately after discharge from the army. I have been receiving a $50 monthly family allowance, as I depend upon him for my chief support. Will my allowance be discontinued after his discharge?

SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

When a soldier re-enlists immediately upon discharge from the army, the family allowance to his dependents continues without interruption, provided there is no change of status. However, if he waits until a later date to re-enlist, a new family allowance application must again be filed and dependency must again be established before payments will be authorized.

May Wear Uniform at Wedding

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is it permissible for an ex-marine to wear his uniform on his wedding day, even if it occurs six months after discharge? A. L.

States Duty after Year at Sea

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have heard that a sailor who has spent one year at sea is entitled to six months states duty upon request. Is this true? My son has served nineteen months in the navy, a year of which was at sea. If he is eligible for land duty, of whom shall he make the request?

(MRS.) A.B.

You have been misinformed. A sailor is not entitled to six months duty in the states when he has spent a year at sea.

Pay of a Second Cook

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been told my husband, who is in the merchant marine, makes "big money," but my allotment is only $80 a month for myself and two children. What is the pay of a second cook on a liberty ship?

(MRS.) P.P.

The base pay of the majority of seamen with the rating of second cook is $122.50 a month. However, it depends on whether or not he is serving on a troop-carrying ship or a freighter. In addition to base pay, your husband may earn overtime pay and a bonus. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to give you more detailed information.

Women's Post-War Problems

Income Tax Primer

Long Form Must Be Used as Return If 1945 Income Was $5,000 or More

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—You must use the long Form 1040 as an income tax return if your income was $5,000 or more in 1945 of if you claim deductions amounting to more than ten per cent of your income.

If you do use the long form, be sure to gather all necessary information before starting to fill out the return. Having this information at hand will save you considerable trouble and perhaps some tax money.

Write this information on one or more work sheets in the following order:

1. Income in 1945—amount of wages and other income received.
2. Deductible expenses—expenses necessary to your work or business.
3. Deductions—certain kinds of taxes, interest, contributions, losses from fire, storm and theft, and unusually large medical expenses.
4. Taxes already paid—amount withheld from wages and amount of estimated tax paid on 1945 income.

Read carefully the pamphlet of instructions for Form 1040. If you didn't receive these instructions and Form 1040 in the mail, you can obtain both from a collector's office in your district, a post office, bank, or possibly your employer.

When you start to fill out the return, have on hand your work sheets with the necessary figures on income, deductions and taxes paid on 1945 income. With these work sheets as guides, fill out your return one step at a time.

Remember one step at a time (and you can write that in big letters) is the easiest way to fill out the long form. Follow the numbered directions on your return and don't worry about the next step until you get to it. If the direction does not apply to you, don't pay any attention to it.

Many taxpayers, particularly wage earners and others who do not operate a business or profession, are not affected by most of the directions on Page 2 of the return. Check these directions carefully. If they don't affect you, forget them.

Make out your return early so as to avoid having to do a rush job on it just before March 15. Double check all your figures. It may save you dollars as well as extra paper work in correcting mistakes later on.

The reduction in income taxes made by Congress last fall does not apply to 1945 income. It applies to income received on and after January 1, 1946.

(Monday: Non-taxable income.)

HEARING IS PLANNED ON CHARGE OF SELLING GUN WITHOUT PERMIT

Harold's Loan Company, 28 Baltimore street, posted $50 bond in police court Thursday for a hearing February 28 on a charge of selling firearms without a permit from the chief of police, according to the police court docket.

A Friendsville man, George E. Artice, was required to post $10 bond for his appearance as witness at the hearing.

Police said Artice was held after he went to police headquarters Thursday to secure a .22 caliber target revolver which police confiscated several weeks ago.

The Friendsville man forfeited $10 bond January 25 on a charge of discharging firearms in the city limits. A few days before that, police said, the weapon was found by police after residents near Queen City yard reported that a revolver was being fired.

Authorities added that one must have a permit from the chief of police before one may purchase a pistol or revolver here.

Timber Markers Will Be Available, Kaylor Says

On the recommendation of State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor the commission of state forests and parks has established a plan under which the timber marking service provided by the state forester may be made available to landowners throughout Maryland.

For the first twenty-five acres marked, no charges will be made. For acreage in excess of that figure, the charge will be $15 per day. Applications for the marking service, Kaylor says, have been received in steadily mounting number, and the department of state forests and parks is hard pressed to handle them with reasonable promptness.

The cost of marking, which is done by technically trained foresters in the employ of the department, has also shown a marked increase, and the $15 par day charge is necessary to defray in part the expense entailed by this state-sponsored service.

Man In Navy 25 Years Is Eligible For Fleet Reserve

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is a chief petty officer and has served twenty-five years in the navy. He was also a Japanese prisoner-of-war for forty-five months. Is he eligible for transfer to the fleet reserve?

(MRS.) L. O.

A chief petty officer who has served twenty-five years in the navy is eligible for the fleet reserve. If he is physically disqualified, he will be placed in the inactive duty status.

Allowance to Dependents Continues

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My son intends to re-enlist immediately after discharge from the army. I have been receiving a $50 monthly family allowance, as I depend upon him for my chief support. Will my allowance be discontinued after his discharge?

SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

When a soldier re-enlists immediately upon discharge from the army, the family allowance to his dependents continues without interruption, provided there is no change of status. However, if he waits until a later date to re-enlist, a new family allowance application must again be filed and dependency must again be established before payments will be authorized.

May Wear Uniform at Wedding

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is it permissible for an ex-marine to wear his uniform on his wedding day, even if it occurs six months after discharge?

A. L.

States Duty after Year at Sea

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have heard that a sailor who has spent one year at sea is entitled to six months states duty upon request. Is this true? My son has served nineteen months in the navy, a year of which was at sea. If he is eligible for land duty, of whom shall he make the request?

(MRS.) A.B.

You have been misinformed. A sailor is not entitled to six months duty in the states when he has spent a year at sea.

Pay of a Second Cook

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been told my husband, who is in the merchant marine, makes "big money," but my allotment is only $80 a month for myself and two children. What is the pay of a second cook on a liberty ship?

(MRS.) P.P.

The base pay of the majority of seamen with the rating of second cook is $122.50 a month. However, it depends on whether or not he is serving on a troop-carrying ship or a freighter. In addition to base pay, your husband may earn overtime pay and a bonus. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to give you more detailed information.

Income Tax Primer

Long Form Must Be Used as Return If 1945 Income Was $5,000 or More

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—You must use the long Form 1040 as an income tax return if your income was $5,000 or more in 1945 of if you claim deductions amounting to more than ten per cent of your income.

If you do use the long form, be sure to gather all necessary information before starting to fill out the return. Having this information at hand will save you considerable trouble and perhaps some tax money.

Write this information on one or more work sheets in the following order:

1. Income in 1945—amount of wages and other income received.
2. Deductible expenses—expenses necessary to your work or business.
3. Deductions—certain kinds of taxes, interest, contributions, losses from fire, storm and theft, and unusually large medical expenses.
4. Taxes already paid—amount withheld from wages and amount of estimated tax paid on 1945 income. Read carefully the pamphlet of instructions for Form 1040. If you didn't receive these instructions and Form 1040 in the mail, you can obtain both from a collector's office in your district, a post office, bank, or possibly your employer.

When you start to fill out the return, have on hand your work sheets with the necessary figures on income, deductions and taxes paid on 1945 income. With these work sheets as guides, fill out your return one step at a time.

Remember one step at a time (and you can write that in big letters) is the easiest way to fill out the long form. Follow the numbered directions on your return and don't worry about the next step until you get to it. If the direction does not apply to you, don't pay any attention to it.

Many taxpayers, particularly wage earners and others who do not operate a business or profession, are not affected by most of the directions on Page 2 of the return. Check these directions carefully. If they don't affect you, forget them.

Make out your return early so as to avoid having to do a rush job on it just before March 15. Double check all your figures. It may save you dollars as well as extra paper work in correcting mistakes later on.

The reduction in income taxes made by Congress last fall does not apply to 1945 income. It applies to income received on and after January 1, 1946.

(Monday: Non-taxable income.)

Victory Clothing Drive Donation Is Received in Holland

Anyone who was skeptical whether contributions to the Victory clothing drive for the people of wartorn countries would be received, will be glad to know that Mrs. Homer N. Sellers, 25 Wempe drive, this city, has received a letter of appreciation from Holland, for a coat she donated to the drive.

Mrs. Sellers said last evening that she had written her name and address on a slip of paper and concealed it in the sleeve of the coat. Earlier this month she received a letter from Holland. It was from the husband of the woman who was given the coat and in it he enclosed the picture of his two children.

Unable to read the letter, which was written in Dutch, Mrs. Sellers's nephew took it to Fort Hill high school and there Warren Shumaker, a member of the faculty, was able to translate enough to know it was a letter of appreciation for the coat.

Mrs. Sellers then appealed to Hugo Keller, a native of Switzerland and member of the staff of the Celanese Corporation of America, who although he did not know Dutch, was able, through the knowledge of various other languages, to translate the letter from Holland.

The letter translated reads, "My wife and I send you herewith our best thanks for the coat we received through the H. A. R. K., inside which we found your address.

"It is only natural that we want to send you a small letter. My wife likes the coat very much; it is beautiful. She had no coat left, that's why we went to the H. A. R. K. The wife wrote for a suit but they had none, instead they sent me your coat.

"We have two children; the younger is ten months, the older two and one half years old. My youngest child was two months in a hospital. My wife is 23 years old and expects a third child. I am 32 years old and all is good here since we are in good health. I work at present in the N. V. Philips factory at Eindhoven.

"And now once more, my heartiest and thanks for the coat through the H. A. R. K. We wish you, ladies and gentlemen, a happy New Year in my name, my wife's and children's name. I would like to know if you receive these lines."

It was signed F. A. Swevels-DeLauw, Unastraat 22, Valkenswaard (NB) Holland.

Victory Clothing Drive Donation Is Received in Holland

Anyone who was skeptical whether contributions to the Victory clothing drive for the people of wartorn countries would be received, will be glad to know that Mrs. Homer N. Sellers, 25 Wempe drive, this city, has received a letter of appreciation from Holland, for a coat she donated to the drive.

Mrs. Sellers said last evening that she had written her name and address on a slip of paper and concealed it in the sleeve of the coat. Earlier this month she received a letter from Holland. It was from the husband of the woman who was given the coat and in it he enclosed the picture of his two children.

Unable to read the letter, which was written in Dutch, Mrs. Sellers's nephew took it to Fort Hill high school and there Warren Shumaker, a member of the faculty, was able to translate enough to know it was a letter of appreciation for the coat.

Mrs. Sellers then appealed to Hugo Keller, a native of Switzerland and member of the staff of the Celanese Corporation of America, who although he did not know Dutch, was able, through the knowledge of various other languages, to translate the letter from Holland.

The letter translated reads, "My wife and I send you herewith our best thanks for the coat we received through the H. A. R. K., inside which we found your address.

"It is only natural that we want to send you a small letter. My wife likes the coat very much; it is beautiful. She had no coat left, that's why we went to the H. A. R. K. The wife wrote for a suit but they had none, instead they sent me your coat.

"We have two children; the younger is ten months, the older two and one half years old. My youngest child was two months in a hospital. My wife is 23 years old and expects a third child. I am 32 years old and all is good here since we are in good health. I work at present in the N. V. Philips factory at Eindhoven.

"And now once more, my heartiest and thanks for the coat through the H. A. R. K. We wish you, ladies and gentlemen, a happy New Year in my name, my wife's and children's name. I would like to know if you receive these lines."

It was signed F. A. Swevels-DeLauw, Unastraat 22, Valkenswaard (NB) Holland.

Victim of Bus Accident Sues For Damages

Elmer Charles Owens, Westernport, injured in a bus accident last month, has filed suit by titling in circuit court against Robert L. Emery, Jr., Martinsburg, W. Va., trading as Emery's Coach Lines.

Thomas Lohr Richards, counsel for Owens, said damages would be asked, but no declaration was filed to indicate the amount sought. Owens, who is employed in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops at Keyser, W. Va., said he was riding to work on January 15 when the bus skidded, ran up an embankment near Keyser and upset. Two other men and two girls were also injured, it was reported. The mishap occurred in Mineral county, W. Va.

Following a hearing Thursday, Chief Judge William A. Huster reserved decision in the suit of Mrs. Dorothy Eva Brown, of Grand avenue, for a partial divorce from James Dennis Brown, and his cross-bill for an absolute divorce.

They were married August 12, 1943, and separated last January 17, it was testified. The wife, employed in a local restaurant, charged that he refused to provide a home and that he was cruel to her. Brown, a former soldier, accused her of infidelity. They have a son, one year old.

Letters written by service men to Mrs. Brown were introduced in evidence, and a sister-in-law testified regarding alleged misconduct by Mrs. Brown in an automobile. Four other persons were in the machine, it was testified, during a ride to a nearby roadhouse, John T. Fey is attorney for the wife, with Ryan representing the husband.

Chief Judge Huster will preside this morning at a hearing on the demurrer to the petition of the Queen City Dairy, Inc., for an injunction against Clarence U. Llewellyn, a director, and Harvey E. England, of Bedford county, Pa., a former director of the firm.

The company contends the two men "entered into a conspiracy" to seize control of the firm through purchases of stock or obtaining options on shares, in alleged violation of the by-laws of the company.

The two men admitted they had obtained options on 255 shares of stock, more than a majority, but denied that any fraud was exercised or that misstatements regarding the firm's financial condition had been made in the transactions. They asserted the clause in the by-laws, under which stock must first be offered to the company before it can be sold to any other person, is not valid. The company also admitted that the clause may lack validity.

F. Brooke Whiting, George Henderson and D. Lindley Sloan are attorneys for the firm, with Horace P. Whitworth and Thomas Lohr Richards representing the defendants.

Lack of High-Class Doctors Is Problem For Veterans' Agency

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Paul R. Hawley, medical director of the Veterans' Administration, declared tonight "It is the worst kind of fraud to offer the veteran a hospital in which it is impossible to give him first-class medical care."

"I shall not be guilty of this treachery to the veteran," Hawley asserted in an address prepared for a Washington dinner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at nearby Alexandria, Va.

Hawley, under pressure to take over more surplus army and navy hospitals, said the first question he asks in locating a hospital is: "Can I provide good doctors in this place?"

If a sufficient number of full-time expert physicians were available, it would make little difference where hospitals are located, Hawley said. But the veterans' agency never will be able to procure "enough high-class doctors on full time, at any salaries the government will ever offer them, to give the veteran the good medical care which is his due," he asserted. "We are forced then to rely heavily on doctors who will give part of their time."

kick out of being in the thick of exciting events once more. Wyatt earned his nickname at the naval academy when as a pint-size end of 135 pounds he capitalized on aggressiveness, speed and determination to become one of navy's top athletes before he was graduated in 1917.

Today, Wyatt's reddish hair is thinning and his wind-burned face lined by his 52 years. But he has lost none of his aggressiveness. He is only fifteen pounds over his best college wrestling weight.

Wyatt is now up to his neck in preparations for the atomic bomb test.

A record of his talk to the natives of the atoll explaining atomic energy would be a prize of posterity. He did it so simply and sincerely and with such clarity that the natives agreed quickly to leave their islands if "with God's blessing" such an awesome force could be turned to the betterment of mankind.

"I'm a young man and have to get my eight hours sleep," said his aide, Ensign John Newman, Baltimore, Md. "But the commodore keeps going at a pace I couldn't keep up with."

Wyatt is particularly interested in the atomic bomb tests because he is an old airman himself and during the '20s his name was big news in aviation. He still flies his own plane and frequently scoffs at the cautiousness of younger pilots.

Russian Tanker Breaks In Two; 16 Men Are Found On One Section

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Russian tanker Donbass has broken in two in the storm-whipped area south of Adak, Alaska, and the district coast guard office here said tonight sixteen men, including the master, remained aboard the forward section.

Details of the shattering of the ship were not obtained, but the coast guard said radio reports from the scene, often garbled by static, indicated twenty-three people had been taken off the vessel by an unidentified Russian tanker.

Earlier in the day messaegs from the master of the Puente Hills, a Los Angeles tanker, said it had answered distress rockets and located the tanker, reporting "the entire midsection and fore deck had disappeared."

The coast guard said the date of the disaster was February 17.

"I never forget for what they have done for me even if I have died," he said.

"I don't blame my executioners. I will pray God bless them."

Calm and Stoical

The prisoners had been led quietly from a barbed-wire enclosed prison camp where they were detained in a tin-roofed shed walled with thick, meshed invasion matting.

They were escorted away quietly so as not to alarm the 10,000 men of Yamashita's beaten army held in surrounding stockades.

The trap of the hastily-erected wooden gallows was sprung for Yamishita at 3:02 a. m. (2:02 p. m. Friday February 22 Eastern Standard Time).

Yamashita was accompanied to the scaffold by an interpreter and a priest, appearing calm and stoical. Asked if he had any last word, the general said:

"I will pray for the emperor's long life and his prosperity forever."

Yamashita's statement, given out by an interpreter, was written after the order of execution had been read to him.

"I was carrying out my duty as Japanese high commander of the Japanese army in the Philippine islands to control my army with my best during wartime," he said.

"Until now I am believeing that I have tried to do my best throughout my army."

Yamashita's chief crimes, as brought forth at his Manila trial, were the condoning of murder, rape and pillage from October, 1944, down to the end of the Philippines campaign which found him bottled up with a small group of his once big army near Baguio, the summer capital.

Ohta's Last Words

Ohta, executed at 3:41 a. m. behaved calmly.

His last words:

"I want to pray for the Japanese emperor and emperor's family and national prosperity. Dear father and mother, I am going to your side. Please educate my children."

Higashigi, who had smiled and joked as witnesses described his brutal torture, was nervous as he went to the scaffold. He died at 4:17 a. m., after saying "Goodbye forever."

Yamashita was executed in a sector where his soldiers a year ago butchered 2,000 men, women and children—every living being they could find—shortly after American paratroopers and Filipino guerrillas had rescued Allied nationals at the nearby Los Banos internment camp.

Yamashita walked up thirteen black steps in the glare of three huge floodlights.

After the noose was tied, the trap sprung and the neck broken, his body was sewed into a blanket preparatory to being carried on a canvas stretcher to one of the waiting graves.

His grave will be marked by a white post, waist-high, like that of 5,000 of his men who died of dysentery and malaria after their capture. The cross will bear no name.

Lt. Gen. Wilhelm D. Styer, commander of army forces in the Western Pacific, issued the long-awaited orders for the execution to the commandant of Luzon prisoner war camp No. 1 during last night.

The orders were transmited to the officer of the day who marched to stockade number one, guarded by barbed wire and sentry towers equipped with machine guns.

The corporal of the guard went down a fenced street between rows of tents housing sleeping Japanese to the inner compound to summon Yamashita, who had been watched day and night by military police.

He was ordered to don a set of GI fatigue clothes made to look as little as possible like a uniform of the United States Army.

He was led quietly away.

Army May Abolish Its Service Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The army is considering a broad reorganization of its peacetime setup, involving possible abolition of the army service forces.

Under study for several months, the recommendations were made by special boards headed by Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson and the late Lt. General Alexander M. Patch.

Secretary of War Patterson told reporters yesterday the plan still needs his okay and that of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff. The completed plans will be submitted to congressional committees for examination.

Recommendations under study by the general staff, these sources said, include:

1. Greater autonomy for the army air forces, rather than creation of a separate air force.

2. Elimination of the army service forces and merger of its functions with those of the War department general staff;

3. Reorganization of the army ground forces into an army group command which would provide the framework for any actual overseas expedition of the future;

4. Elimination of the existing nine service commands or reducing them in number and changing their functions. (The Washington Post reported today the service commands would become "service areas" each with its own organization of combat units).

Roe Demands Removal Of U. S. Meat Subsidies

SALISBURY, Md., Feb. 22. (AP)—Rep. Dudley G. Roe (D-Md.) called today for an end to federal meat subsidies as a means of getting meat prices back to what he termed their proper level.

Rep. Roe was quoted by the Salisbury Times as saying meat subsidies were a means of hiding the rising cost of living and if they were removed, prices would find their proper level and then chickens would be as cheap or cheaper than fine cuts of beef.

"It's an outrage for our Delmarva poultry growers to go broke trying to compete with the meat industry and the federal government," the Eastern shore congressman said.

He said: "I'm against subsidies. The sooner this country gets back to normal methods of operation, the better it will be for everyone."

Shutdown of Houston Services Is Averted

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 22 (AP)—A threat to force a complete shutdown of Houston's water plants and other vital services as an answer to the city council's refusal to grant salary raises to about 650 union member employes was called off "unconditionally" late today.

The shutdown, set for 5 p. m. (Central Standard Time) was called off by D. W. Maxwell, secretary of the Houston Building and Trades Council, at a hectic meeting before the city council.

Victim of Bus Accident Sues For Damages

Elmer Charles Owens, Westernport, injured in a bus accident last month, has filed suit by titling in circuit court against Robert L. Emery, Jr., Martinsburg, W. Va., trading as Emery's Coach Lines.

Thomas Lohr Richards, counsel for Owens, said damages would be asked, but no declaration was filed to indicate the amount sought. Owens, who is employed in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops at Keyser, W. Va., said he was riding to work on January 15 when the bus skidded, ran up an embankment near Keyser and upset. Two other men and two girls were also injured, it was reported. The mishap occurred in Mineral county, W. Va.

Following a hearing Thursday, Chief Judge William A. Huster reserved decision in the suit of Mrs. Dorothy Eva Brown, of Grand avenue, for a partial divorce from James Dennis Brown, and his cross-bill for an absolute divorce.

They were married August 12, 1943, and separated last January 17, it was testified. The wife, employed in a local restaurant, charged that he refused to provide a home and that he was cruel to her. Brown, a former soldier, accused her of infidelity. They have a son, one year old.

Letters written by service men to Mrs. Brown were introduced in evidence, and a sister-in-law testified regarding alleged misconduct by Mrs. Brown in an automobile. Four other persons were in the machine, it was testified, during a ride to a nearby roadhouse. John T. Fey is attorney for the wife, with Ryan representing the husband.

Chief Judge Huster will preside this morning at a hearing on the demurrer to the petition of the Queen City Dairy, Inc., for an injunction against Clarence U. Llewellyn, a director, and Harvey E. England, of Bedford county, Pa., a former director of the firm.

The company contends the two men "entered into a conspiracy" to seize control of the firm through purchases of stock or obtaining options on shares, in alleged violation of the by-laws of the company.

The two men admitted they had obtained options on 255 shares of stock, more than a majority, but denied that any fraud was exercised or that misstatements regarding the firm's financial condition had been made in the transactions. They asserted the clause in the by-laws, under which stock must first be offered to the company before it can be sold to any other person, is not valid. The company also admitted that the clause may lack validity.

F. Brooke Whiting, George Henderson and D. Lindley Sloan are attorneys for the firm, with Horace P. Whitworth and Thomas Lohr Richards representing the defendants.

Lack of High-Class Doctors Is Problem For Veterans' Agency

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Paul R. Hawley, medical director of the Veterans' Administration, declared tonight "It is the worst kind of fraud to offer the veteran a hospital in which it is impossible to give him first-class medical care."

"I shall not be guilty of this treachery to the veteran," Hawley asserted in an address prepared for a Washington dinner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at nearby Alexandria, Va.

Hawley, under pressure to take over more surplus army and navy hospitals, said the first question he asks in locating a hospital is: "Can I provide good doctors in this place?"

If a sufficient number of full-time expert physicians were available, it would make little difference where hospitals are located, Hawley said. But the veterans' agency never will be able to procure "enough high-class doctors on full time, at any salaries the government will ever offer them, to give the veteran the good medical care which is his due," he asserted. "We are forced then to rely heavily on doctors who will give part of their time."

kick out of being in the thick of exciting events once more. Wyatt earned his nickname at the naval academy when as a pint-size end of 135 pounds he capitalized on aggressiveness, speed and determination to become one of navy's top athletes before he was graduated in 1917.

Today, Wyatt's reddish hair is thinning and his wind-burned face lined by his 52 years. But he has lost none of his aggressiveness. He is only fifteen pounds over his best college wrestling weight.

Wyatt is now up to his neck in preparations for the atomic bomb test.

A record of his talk to the natives of the atoll explaining atomic energy would be a prize of posterity. He did it so simply and sincerely and with such clarity that the natives agreed quickly to leave their islands if "with God's blessing" such an awesome force could be turned to the betterment of mankind.

"I'm a young man and have to get my eight hours sleep," said his aide, Ensign John Newman, Baltimore, Md. "But the commodore keeps going at a pace I couldn't keep up with."

Wyatt is particularly interested in the atomic bomb tests because he is an old airman himself and during the '20s his name was big news in aviation. He still flies his own plane and frequently scoffs at the cautiousness of younger pilots.

Russian Tanker Breaks In Two; 16 Men Are Found On One Section

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Russian tanker Donbass has broken in two in the storm-whipped area south of Adak, Alaska, and the district coast guard office here said tonight sixteen men, including the master, remained aboard the forward section.

Details of the shattering of the ship were not obtained, but the coast guard said radio reports from the scene, often garbled by static, indicated twenty-three people had been taken off the vessel by an unidentified Russian tanker.

Earlier in the day messaegs from the master of the Puente Hills, a Los Angeles tanker, said it had answered distress rockets and located the tanker, reporting "the entire midsection and fore deck had disappeared."

The Puente Hills reported it had taken the broken craft in tow.

The coast guard said the date of the disaster was February 17.

Calm and Stoical

The prisoners had been led quietly from a barbed-wire enclosed prison camp where they were detained in a tin-roofed shed walled with thick, meshed invasion matting.

They were escorted away quietly so as not to alarm the 10,000 men of Yamashita's beaten army held in surrounding stockades.

The trap of the hastily-erected wooden gallows was sprung for Yamishita at 3:02 a. m. (2:02 p. m. Friday February 22 Eastern Standard Time).

Yamashita was accompanied to the scaffold by an interpreter and a priest, appearing calm and stoical. Asked if he had any last word, the general said:

"I will pray for the emperor's long life and his prosperity forever."

Yamashita's statement, given out by an interpreter, was written after the order of execution had been read to him.

"I was carrying out my duty as Japanese high commander of the Japanese army in the Philippine islands to control my army with my best during wartime," he said.

"Until now I am believeing that I have tried to do my best throughout my army."

Yamashita's chief crimes, as brought forth at his Manila trial, were the condoning of murder, rape and pillage from October, 1944, down to the end of the Philippines campaign which found him bottled up with a small group of his once big army near Baguio, the summer capital.

Ohta's Last Words

Ohta, executed at 3:41 a. m. behaved calmly.

His last words:

"I want to pray for the Japanese emperor and emperor's family and national prosperity. Dear father and mother, I am going to your side. Please educate my children."

Higashigi, who had smiled and joked as witnesses described his brutal torture, was nervous as he went to the scaffold. He died at 4:17 a. m., after saying "Goodbye forever."

Yamashita was executed in a sector where his soldiers a year ago butchered 2,000 men, women and children—every living being they could find—shortly after American paratroopers and Filipino guerrillas had rescued Allied nationals at the nearby Los Banos internment camp.

Yamashita walked up thirteen black steps in the glare of three huge floodlights.

After the noose was tied, the trap sprung and the neck broken, his body was sewed into a blanket preparatory to being carried on a canvas stretcher to one of the waiting graves.

His grave will be marked by a white post, waist-high, like that of 5,000 of his men who died of dysentery and malaria after their capture. The cross will bear no name.

Lt. Gen. Wilhelm D. Styer, commander of army forces in the Western Pacific, issued the long-awaited orders for the execution to the commandant of Luzon prisoner war camp No. 1 during last night.

The orders were transmited to the officer of the day who marched to stockade number one, guarded by barbed wire and sentry towers equipped with machine guns.

The corporal of the guard went down a fenced street between rows of tents housing sleeping Japanese to the inner compound to summon Yamashita, who had been watched day and night by military police.

He was ordered to don a set of GI fatigue clothes made to look as little as possible like a uniform of the United States Army.

He was led quietly away.

Army May Abolish Its Service Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—The army is considering a broad reorganization of its peacetime setup, involving possible abolition of the army service forces.

Under study for several months, the recommendations were made by special boards headed by Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson and the late Lt. General Alexander M. Patch.

Secretary of War Patterson told reporters yesterday the plan still needs his okay and that of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff. The completed plans will be submitted to congressional committees for examination.

Recommendations under study by the general staff, these sources said, include:

1. Greater autonomy for the army air forces, rather than creation of a separate air force.

2. Elimination of the army service forces and merger of its functions with those of the War department general staff;

3. Reorganization of the army ground forces into an army group command which would provide the framework for any actual overseas expedition of the future;

4. Elimination of the existing nine service commands or reducing them in number and changing their functions. (The Washington Post reported today the service commands would become "service areas" each with its own organization of combat units).

Roe Demands Removal Of U. S. Meat Subsidies

SALISBURY, Md., Feb. 22. (AP)—Rep. Dudley G. Roe (D-Md.) called today for an end to federal meat subsidies as a means of getting meat prices back to what he termed their proper level.

Rep. Roe was quoted by the Salisbury Times as saying meat subsidies were a means of hiding the rising cost of living and if they were removed, prices would find their proper level and then chickens would be as cheap or cheaper than fine cuts of beef.

"It's an outrage for our Delmarva poultry growers to go broke trying to compete with the meat industry and the federal government," the Eastern shore congressman said.

He said: "I'm against subsidies. The sooner this country gets back to normal methods of operation, the better it will be for everyone."

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 22 (AP)—A threat to force a complete shutdown of Houston's water plants and other vital services as an answer to the city council's refusal to grant salary raises to about 650 union member employes was called off "unconditionally" late today.

The shutdown, set for 5 p. m. (Central Standard Time) was called off by D. W. Maxwell, secretary of the Houston Building and Trades Council, at a hectic meeting before the city council.

"O give thanks unto Jehovah: for He is good."—Psalm 136:1.

What Makes a People Great — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Deuteronomy 5-34.

"Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart." These words "thou shalt teach diligently to thy children and shalt talk to them in thy house."

PHYLACTERY, WORN ON THE FOREHEAD

Moses commanded the people that they should bind God's laws "for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be for frontlets between thy eyes."

"And thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house, and upon thy gates," remembering Jehovah who delivered His people.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 136:1.

What Makes a People Great—

RELIGION IN THE HOME

Highlights on the Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 24 is Deuteronomy 5-34, the Memory Verse being Psalm 136:1. "O give thanks unto Jehovah: for He is good.")

Many people are much worried these days because of the apparent failure of the home. In our own country, which has not suffered from bombing destruction, homes have been disrupted in many, many cases, by the absence, death or serious injury of husbands and fathers. Mothers have been doing work in factories and offices as well as keeping the home going.

In many—far too many—cases divorce has broken up the home, leaving children torn between father and mother, or with only one parent to rely upon, when children need both.

How can children be properly supervised and taught as they should be in such homes? How can religion be taught in homes such as these? And if it is not taught and practiced at home, it surely cannot be expected that the short period of Sunday school only will give them the foundations for a Christian training. Mother and father working together in harmony make a real home in which ethics and religion are taught which stay with a child all his life.

Such a home is visualized by Moses when he tells the Israelites: "Hear, O Israel; Jehovah our God is one Jehovah:

Thou Shalt Love Jehovah

"And thou shalt love Jehovah they God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

"And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be upon thy heart;

"And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up."

Only loving and devoted daily teaching in a happy home can inculcate love of God and obedience to His ways in our children.

In these commandments of Jehovah's the Jews were commanded by Moses, "And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be for frontlets between thine eyes." This was originally a figurative expression, but later a sign on the hand denoted a phylactery on the biceps of the left arm, and frontlets between the eyes a phylactery on the forehead. Each phylactery contained four sections from the Pentateuch, inscribed on scrolls of parchment.

The men's phylactery was made in this way, and we quote: "A piece of leather is soaked, stretched on a square block cut for the purpose, sewed together with good strings while wet and left on the block till it is dry and stiffened so that when it is taken off it forms a square leather box."

"And thou shalt write them upon the doorposts of they house, and upon thy gates." The box of which this "phylactery for the home is made has on the outside, to the right, the regular three-pronged letter Shin, being an abbreviation for the word God, and on the left side a four-pronged letter, the abbreviation for Sabbath." It is a small metal cylinder containing a roll of parchment and fastened to the doorpost.

"Every pious Jew, as often as he passes the Mezuzah in leaving the house or entering it, touches the divine name with the finger of his right hand, puts it to his mouth, and kisses it, saying in Hebrew. "The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore."

Moses gave his people many a word of warning about forgetting Jehovah in times of prosperity.

"And it shall be, when Jehovah thy God shall bring thee into the land which he sware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give thee, great and goodly cities, which thou buildest not, And houses full of good things, which thou fillest not, and cisterns hewn out, which thou hewdst not, vineyards and olive trees, which thou plantedst not, and thou shalt eat and be full;

"Then beware lest thou forget Jehovah, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage."

In time of sorrow and poverty, people are apt to cry to the Lord for help, but when prosperity comes and they are living in luxury, they forget from whence their blessings come.

They were warned not to worship strange gods and images, but to remember always what Jehovah had done for them and always to be thankful to Him and worship Him.

It is too bad that we cannot quote more of the long lesson assigned to us today. There are beautiful passages in these chapters which would be helpful to read or memorize, but space will not permit them to be used The Memory Verse used with this lesson we should commit to memory, "O give thanks unto Jehovah: for He is good." Also, "Every day will I bless Thee; and I will praise Thy name for ever and ever."—Psalm 145:2.

What Makes a People Great — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Deuteronomy 5-34.

"Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart." These words "thou shalt teach diligently to thy children and shalt talk to them in thy house."

Moses commanded the people that they should bind God's laws "for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be for frontlets between thy eyes."

"And thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house, and upon thy gates," remembering Jehovah who delivered His people.

And when thou live in comfort and plenty in the new land, Moses told them, forget not the blessings of Jehovah. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 136:1.

What Makes a People Great—

RELIGION IN THE HOME

Highlights on the Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 24 is Deuteronomy 5-34, the Memory Verse being Psalm 136:1. "O give thanks unto Jehovah: for He is good.")

Many people are much worried these days because of the apparent failure of the home. In our own country, which has not suffered from bombing destruction, homes have been disrupted in many, many cases, by the absence, death or serious injury of husbands and fathers. Mothers have been doing work in factories and offices as well as keeping the home going.

In many—far too many—cases divorce has broken up the home, leaving children torn between father and mother, or with only one parent to rely upon, when children need both.

How can children be properly supervised and taught as they should be in such homes? How can religion be taught in homes such as these? And if it is not taught and practiced at home, it surely cannot be expected that the short period of Sunday school only will give them the foundations for a Christian training. Mother and father working together in harmony make a real home in which ethics and religion are taught which stay with a child all his life.

Such a home is visualized by Moses when he tells the Israelites: "Hear, O Israel; Jehovah our God is one Jehovah:

Thou Shalt Love Jehovah

"And thou shalt love Jehovah they God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

"And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be upon thy heart;

"And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up."

Only loving and devoted daily teaching in a happy home can inculcate love of God and obedience to His ways in our children.

In these commandments of Jehovah's the Jews were commanded by Moses, "And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be for frontlets between thine eyes." This was originally a figurative expression, but later a sign on the hand denoted a phylactery on the biceps of the left arm, and frontlets between the eyes a phylactery on the forehead. Each phylactery contained four sections from the Pentateuch, inscribed on scrolls of parchment.

The men's phylactery was made in this way, and we quote: "A piece of leather is soaked, stretched on a square block cut for the purpose, sewed together with good strings while wet and left on the block till it is dry and stiffened so that when it is taken off it forms a square leather box."

"And thou shalt write them upon the doorposts of they house, and upon thy gates." The box of which this "phylactery for the home is made has on the outside, to the right, the regular three-pronged letter Shin, being an abbreviation for the word God, and on the left side a four-pronged letter, the abbreviation for Sabbath." It is a small metal cylinder containing a roll of parchment and fastened to the doorpost.

"Every pious Jew, as often as he passes the Mezuzah in leaving the house or entering it, touches the divine name with the finger of his right hand, puts it to his mouth, and kisses it, saying in Hebrew, 'The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore."

Moses gave his people many a word of warning about forgetting Jehovah in times of prosperity.

"And it shall be, when Jehovah thy God shall bring thee into the land which he sware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give thee, great and goodly cities, which thou buildest not, And houses full of good things, which thou fillest not, and cisterns hewn out, which thou hewdst not, vineyards and olive trees, which thou plantedst not, and thou shalt eat and be full;

"Then beware lest thou forget Jehovah, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage."

In time of sorrow and poverty, people are apt to cry to the Lord for help, but when prosperity comes and they are living in luxury, they forget from whence their blessings come.

They were warned not to worship strange gods and images, but to remember always what Jehovah had done for them and always to be thankful to Him and worship Him.

It is too bad that we cannot quote more of the long lesson assigned to us today. There are beautiful passages in these chapters which would be helpful to read or memorize, but space will not permit them to be used The Memory Verse used with this lesson we should commit to memory. "O give thanks unto Jehovah: for He is good." Also, "Every day will I bless Thee; and I will praise Thy name for ever and ever."—Psalm 145:2.

The Hint of Eternity

A famous sculptor, in speaking of his art, once declared: "What we sculptors need to get back into our work is the hint of eternity." Handel, speaking of his experience while composing "The Messiah," exclaimed, "I did think I saw all heaven before me, and the great God Himself." Is there any wonder his masterpiece lives through the ages!

If our dreams of a better world are to be realized and the day hastened when men shall know war no more, in some way, our generation, too, must catch this hint of eternity! We must look to sources of strength higher than ourselves. We must cultivate a sense of God's presence and under the inspiration of fellowship with Him learn to do His will. Human capacities are great but not great enough, nor good enough, without God!

The Church is the one institution on earth whose main business it is to bring God and man together. Through worship, Bible study, Christian fellowship, helpful service, we can find God. YOUR Church—the Church of your choice—invites you this Sunday. Will you not come to worship and go forth to serve?

Lt. Col. William W. Sellers Makes Fine Record as Leader of Troops

By F. ALAN WEATHERHOLT

Five years ago this month, Company G, First Regiment Maryland National Guard entrained at the Queen City station, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here, for active federal service. The country was still at peace then, but war clouds were on the horizon, and most of the 105 men in the company knew that adventure and new experiences, unforeseen loomed ahead.

But this is not a story about Company G. That story, written in blood and sweat and tears, has already taken its place on the pages of the nation's history, and is known to thousands who represent the men, their families and friends, who were the first to leave for participation in the greatest struggle of mankind.

Col. Sellers received his first promotion after leaving here at Fort George G. Meade, Md., August 1, 1941, when he became a first lieutenant. In June of 1942, he was assigned to a cadre and sent to Camp Atterbury to the Eighty-third Thunderbolt division, which was trained and activated there. In September of that year, he was promoted to captain and for a time commanded Company E, third battalion, Three Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry regiment, of the Eighty-third division. He later became acting battalion commander of the Third battalion and was promoted to the rank of major May 1943. He served as executive officer of the battalion until July 1943. He was then given command of the battalion and served in that capacity since, and in November 1945, on the strength of his record in combat and his record as an able leader, he was elevated to the rank of lieutenant-colonel in November 1945.

Col. Sellers's outfit sailed from the United States after intensive training, early in April 1944 and landed at Liverpool England, April 19. It went almost immediately to Wales for two weeks mountain training and then went to Tarporley, England, to await D-day.

When the invasion of Europe brought prayers to the hearts and lips of every American everywhere, the Eighty-third division went in to Omaha Beach on D plus 12, and relieved the One Hundred First Airborne division at Carenton, France.

Fighting Was Fierce

Sellers said fighting was fierce, and there was almost continuous action. However, his outfit remained in good shape and the entire division jumped off for the drive to Germany on July 4, 1944, as a part of the Twelfth army group. On July 25, the Americans broke out of their beach head and started the sweep toward Germany.

The Eighty-third division was withdrawn from this action, and went to Brittany. There they took the towns of St. Malo, Dinard, St. Brieauc and captured 3,200 German prisoners.

It was at St. Malo, where a German officer stood his ground with several thousand German troops and gained for himself the title of the "Mad Colonel" at the citadel. The citadel fell along with the "Mad Colonel", and the Eighty-third division was withdrawn for three days rest.

But there was little rest, Col. Sellers explained. Almost immediately his organization was put on a containing mission at St. Nazaire. The division cleaned up the area and took 20,000 German prisoners. This action, Col. Sellers, explained was a sort of emergency proposition. A force of 20,000 or more Germans was on its way to Belforte Gap, where they had a chance to establish and hold a strong line. It was a question of who got there first. The Eighty-third division moved faster, blocked off the Germans, and overwhelmed them in fire power and fighting. The 20,000 prisoners officially credited to the division resulted.

Sellers says the battle for the Gap was in late August of early September, for it was in September that the division went to Luxembourg and drove the Jerries across the Mozelle river. The division then entered the Hurtgen forest and relieved the hard pressed Fourth division in early December.

Relieves 104th Division

The division then drove to the Ruhr river as far as Lendersdorf, in Germany and settled for a short period on patrolling actions.

On December 22, they relieved the One Hundred and Fourth division at the northern sector of the bulge where the Germans had broken through. This was at a place called Ottre, Belgium. And for the division's part in stopping the German drive there, Sellers' regiment received a presidential citation.

Sellers says the fighting here was very severe, and waist-deep snow, thick forests and cold weather made the going uusually rough. Jerry tanks, he stated were "thick as bees" and they caused a lot of trouble and casualties.

It was at Julich in Germany, where sellers says he saw many men of the Twenty-ninth division, including a number from Cumberland and other parts of Maryland. It was also here, that he missed seeing Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, who had commanded Company G, as a captain when the organization left Cumberland.

Col. Sellers says as he entered Julich, the city was really a mess. One of the first things he noticed was a sign which read, "This WAS Julich. We are sorry, but the Twenty-ninth division was in a hurry."

Sellers says he laughed when he read it, and expressed the opinion, "I'll bet Millholland hung that sign. It looks like some of his work."

Praises Maryland Outfit

Upon inquiry, he learned the One Hundred and Fifteenth division command post, was only a couple of miles away, and he tried to telephone Millholland, who was in command there. The lines were out, so Sellers jumped into his jeep and finally located the CP. But he was fifteen minutes late, because Millholland had gone forward only a quarter of an hour earlier.

Sellers had considerable praise for his home-state outfit. He said, "the Twenty-ninth has always been a great division, and it was evident on every hand in that sector."

He spoke too in praise of the Twenty-ninth for the almost impossible task they performed when they completed the bridgehead across the Ruhr.

About this same time, Sellers says, his battalion, the third battalion of the Three Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry, was attached to the Second Armored division, and ordered to hit the Rhine river on the morning of March 2, 1945. Sellers commanded the operation, and for its success was decorated and his battalion received a Presidential Battalion Citation.

Sellers outfit crossed the Rhine behind the Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth divisions in March, and on March 29, his battalion was assigned a task of "pulling a quarterback sneak play," to establish a bridgehead at the Enns-Dortmond canal, into the city of Hamm. This was to be the first penetration by American troops of the Ruhr pocket.

Col. Sellers led his battalion in the attack, and they fought through a part of Hamm, finally taking up positions in the railroad yards there. Sellers explained that Hamm is a huge railroad and transportation center. The bridgehead was established April 1, after fierce fighting. And for three days, the battalion staged off fierce counter-attacks by the Germans. Sellers said his orders were to hold the railroad yards at any cost, and the cost was high. During the action the battalion killed 2,500 Germans and wounded many times that number.

Used German Weapons

As he described the action in detail, he was asked, "How in the world did your battalion manage to hold the position?" His reply was a tribute to his gallant men, and to every man who has served in the field artillery. He said, "We held on by sheer determination, and were saved many times from annihalation by a ring of steel laid down by our artillery support." In one afternoon, his battalion fired 5,240 rounds of 81mm mortar shells into German positions, and hundreds of thousands of rounds of small arms ammunition were expended. Sellers said his men even turned captured and abandoned weapons back on the Germans.

From this operation, his unit was relieved on April 4, by an entire division, the Ninety-fifth, which was brought up to clear out the sector and consolidate the gains. In addition to the citation, Sellers was personally decorated for this action.

The battalion then started across the rest of Germany, on what Sellers calls a "rat race." At one time, while he was moving his men to a position along the Elbe river, his outfit was unofficially termed a "raggle-taggle circus battalion," and was later referred to with highest praise in the army publication "Stars and Stripes."

Sellers laughs when he tells the story. He had a long distance to travel and only a short time to get there, so he commandeered everything that "ran on wheels," and formed a column. The men hung on carts, hay wagons, trucks of all kinds, civilian cars, five tanks attached to his battalion, bicycles and a little of everything. After hours of travel he called a rest period, so his men could eat their "K" rations, and as he was parked in his Jeep at the head of the colmun, a full colonel from the division's staff pulled up. The colonel asked Sellers, "What kind of a circus is this? Sellers explained his mission, and the colonel just shook his head, turned back and reported what he saw to General Simpson. It was only a few days later that "Stars and Stripes" said that the Thunderbolt division had been unofficially named a "raggle-taggle circus outfit," by a ranking officer.

Repulses Counterattack

Sellers said soon after his incident, his battalion repulsed a strong counterattack on the Elbe, cleaned out a weeds and restored the line where the Germans had come through. The war ended on May 8.

His unit then cleaned up and policed several German towns and was finally sent to Austria for military government work, rest and policing.

Col. Sellers left his unit in Austria and sailed from LeHavre, France on February 7, aboard the S. S. Maritime Victory. He came home on emergency leave, due to the death of his father, William H. Sellers, 521 Williams street, who died February 1, 1946. Sellers said his leave expires March 19, and he has been ordered to report to Camp Meade on that date. He expressed the opinion that his division should be back in the states by then, and he will rejoin his own battalion.

Col. Sellers expects to make a career of the army, and he has already been urged to do so by ranking officers. He has an enviable military record and is regarded as a strong and able leader and officer. His decorations include, a Legion of Merit, a Silver star, a Bronze star with a cluster, Good Conduct medal, ETO ribbon with five stars, American Defense ribbon, American Theater ribbon, Army of Occupation ribbon, Victory ribbon, presidential battalion citation, presidential regiment citation and combat infantry badge. He had 299 days of combat of the 356 days of fighting by Americans on the continent.

He is at home 33 Hawthorne avenue, with his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Sellers and his little son, Weldon, age five. Weldon is right proud of his daddy, and while the colonel was being interviewed, the little fellow sat quietly, dringing in every word.

no taxes nor light bills, and the inhabitants actually don't require much money to live a very satisfying life, they said.

Mansor, who returned from Lebanon in 1938 after a visit, said the village of Knaysi has a population of about 500. While there he met Mrs. Nasef, who he said lived in her own home and did not lack for anything. There is one wealthy man in Knaysi who owns an automobile, he said.

Mansor also said that he felt that an author who was quoted in the original story had been talking about Syria in referring to earthen huts and dusty roads, since he declared that the tiny Republic of Lebanon is something of a summer paradise with a salubrious climate.

Knaysi, Mansor said, is about seventeen miles from Beruit, the capital city — about the same distance Lonaconing is from Cumberland, he added.

Inhabitants Described

Both Habeeb and Mansor pointed out that the inhabitants of Lebanon, which is a Christian country, are all highly independent, with families owning their own homes and doing farming in a small way.

At this point, the florist quoted a passage from the Bible which states "happy is one who owns one goat's bed in Lebanon," and added that taxes there are practically non-existent, there being no army or navy to support nor or any big loans to Britain.

"A dollar for taxes would be considered too much," Habeeb said.

Another item of information furnished by the florist is that the churches are self-sustaining. No collections are taken at services and a few members with money leave it the church when they die.

Pastor Gives Information

Another Cumberland resident who furnished some information about Lebanon was the Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, who visited Lebanon several years ago. He recalled that it was harvest time when he visited the republic and that the residents seemed to be engaged in a communal threshing. He also noted straw and cattle dung, used for fuel, drying on the roofes.

The pastor said he was impressed by some of the beautiful homes in the viciniity of Beruit but added there were some others that were not so impressive in other localities.

Habeeb commented that in the summer time Lebanon was quite a tourist center with persons coming to the mountainous area to escape the heat of other nearby countries.

He also recalled that weddings sometimes last as much as seven days with wines used that are laid down by the father when his children are born.

These, then, are a few of the facts enumerated by the North Mechanic street florist and Mansor, who had a friendly axe to grind with the reporter regarding Lebanon. Both were quite anxious that it be pointed out that the residents of the tiny republic are very idependent, self-sufficient and live in a leisurely world where a majority of the residents attain a ripe old age.

NEW SCOUT TROOP IS BEING FORMED AT PETERSBURG

A new troop of Boy Scouts is being formed in the South Branch district of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Kenneth E. Jackson, scout executive said yesterday. The new troop is being formed at Petersburg, W. Va., sponsored by the Petersburg Kiwanis Club.

Jackson explained that there is only one other troop in the South Branch district. It is located at Moorefield, W. Va., and is sponsored by the Moorefield Lions Club. The district is one of the new ones in the council and an effort is being made to organize a number of troops there.

The new Petersburg troop has about twenty-four members, and Earl S. Black, a teacher in the Petersburg high school is the scoutmaster. Black went to Petersburg from Washington county, Md., where he was also a teacher and scout leader.

Application has been made for the new troop's charter, and Jackson indicated he will go to Petersburg for the charter presentation when the document arrives.

Kopp said he is pleased that salaries have been advancing and declared that the public recognizes the need, by splendid support for the idea of increasing salaries.

Pointing out some of the advantages for Maryland, Kopp said the wage scale is uniform regardless of the size of the community. Many reports from other states show the rural area teachers to be receiving only 50 percent of what is paid instructors in the larger cities but in Maryland such is not the case.

He also stressed that the same wage is paid high school and elementary school teachers providing they have the same qualifications and length of service and that Maryland is one of the few states to follow this program.

A state and county comparison with nearby areas follows:

Lt. Col. William W. Sellers Makes Fine Record as Leader of Troops

By F. ALAN WEATHERHOLT

Five years ago this month, Company G, First Regiment Maryland National Guard entrained at the Queen City station, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here, for active federal service. The country was still at peace then, but war clouds were on the horizon, and most of the 105 men in the company knew that adventure and new experiences, unforeseen loomed ahead.

But this is not a story about Company G. That story, written in blood and sweat and tears, has already taken its place on the pages of the nation's history, and is known to thousands who represent the men, their families and friends, who were the first to leave for participation in the greatest struggle of mankind.

This is a story about one of the officers of Company G. When he left here, he was just another young fellow who had spent his leisure time, drilling and studying and training, in the event that he might be needed by his country someday. When he left here five years ago, he was newly promoted, Second Lt. William W. Sellers. He returned this week, older, wiser, with the marks of responsibility in his eyes and face, as a lieutenant-colonel, commanding one of the toughest infantry battalions that fought its way across Europe and cracked the German line.

Col. Sellers received his first promotion after leaving here at Fort George G. Meade, Md., August 1, 1941, when he became a first lieutenant. In June of 1942, he was assigned to a cadre and sent to Camp Atterbury to the Eighty-third Thunderbolt division, which was trained and activated there. In September of that year, he was promoted to captain and for a time commanded Company E, third battalion, Three Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry regiment, of the Eighty-third division. He later became acting battalion commander of the Third battalion and was promoted to the rank of major May 1943. He served as executive officer of the battalion until July 1943. He was then given command of the battalion and served in that capacity since, and in November 1945, on the strength of his record in combat and his record as an able leader, he was elevated to the rank of lieutenant-colonel in November 1945.

Col. Sellers's outfit sailed from the United States after intensive training, early in April 1944 and landed at Liverpool England, April 19. It went almost immediately to Wales for two weeks mountain training and then went to Tarporley, England, to await D-day.

When the invasion of Europe brought prayers to the hearts and lips of every American everywhere, the Eighty-third division went in to Omaha Beach on D plus 12, and relieved the One Hundred First Airborne division at Carenton, France.

Fighting Was Fierce

Sellers said fighting was fierce, and there was almost continuous action. However, his outfit remained in good shape and the entire division jumped off for the drive to Germany on July 4, 1944, as a part of the Twelfth army group. On July 25, the Americans broke out of their beach head and started the sweep toward Germany.

The Eighty-third division was withdrawn from this action, and went to Brittany. There they took the towns of St. Malo, Dinard, St. Brieauc and captured 3,200 German prisoners.

It was at St. Malo, where a German officer stood his ground with several thousand German troops and gained for himself the title of the "Mad Colonel" at the citadel. The citadel fell along with the "Mad Colonel", and the Eighty-third division was withdrawn for three days rest.

But there was little rest, Col. Sellers explained. Almost immediately his organization was put on a containing mission at St. Nazaire. The division cleaned up the area and took 20,000 German prisoners. This action, Col. Sellers, explained was a sort of emergency proposition. A force of 20,000 or more Germans was on its way to Belforte Gap, where they had a chance to establish and hold a strong line. It was a question of who got there first. The Eighty-third division moved faster, blocked off the Germans, and overwhelmed them in fire power and fighting. The 20,000 prisoners officially credited to the division resulted.

Sellers says the battle for the Gap was in late August of early September, for it was in September that the division went to Luxembourg and drove the Jerries across the Mozelle river. The division then entered the Hurtgen forest and relieved the hard pressed Fourth division in early December.

Relieves 104th Division

The division then drove to the Ruhr river as far as Lendersdorf, in Germany and settled for a short period on patrolling actions.

On December 22, they relieved the One Hundred and Fourth division at the northern sector of the bulge where the Germans had broken through. This was at a place called Ottre, Belgium. And for the division's part in stopping the German drive there, Sellers' regiment received a presidential citation.

Sellers says the fighting here was very severe, and waist-deep snow, thick forests and cold weather made the going ususally rough. Jerry tanks, he stated were "thick as bees" and they caused a lot of trouble and casualties.

It was at Julich in Germany, where sellers says he saw many men of the Twenty-ninth division, including a number from Cumberland and other parts of Maryland. It was also here, that he missed seeing Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, who had commanded Company G, as a captain when the organization left Cumberland.

Col. Sellers says as he entered Julich, the city was really a mess. One of the first things he noticed was a sign which read, "This WAS Julich. We are sorry, but the Twenty-ninth division was in a hurry."

Sellers says he laughed when he read it, and expressed the opinion, "I'll bet Millholland hung that sign. It looks like some of his work."

Praises Maryland Outfit

Upon inquiry, he learned the One Hundred and Fifteenth division command post, was only a couple of miles away, and he tried to telephone Millholland, who was in command there. The lines were out, so Sellers jumped into his jeep and finally located the CP. But he was fifteen minutes late, because Millholland had gone forward only a quarter of an hour earlier.

Sellers had considerable praise for his home-state outfit. He said, "the Twenty-ninth has always been a great division, and it was evident on every hand in that sector."

He spoke too in praise of the Twenty-ninth for the almost impossible task they performed when they completed the bridgehead across the Ruhr.

About this same time, Sellers says, his battalion, the third battalion of the Three Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry, was attached to the Second Armored division, and ordered to hit the Rhine river on the morning of March 2, 1945. Sellers commanded the operation, and for its success was decorated and his battalion received a Presidential Battalion Citation.

Sellers outfit crossed the Rhine behind the Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth divisions in March, and on March 29, his battalion was assigned a task of "pulling a quarterback sneak play," to establish a bridgehead at the Enns-Dortmond canal, into the city of Hamm. This was to be the first penetration by American troops of the Ruhr pocket.

Col. Sellers led his battalion in the attack, and they fought through a part of Hamm, finally taking up positions in the railroad yards there. Sellers explained that Hamm is a huge railroad and transportation center. The bridgehead was established April 1, after fierce fighting. And for three days, the battalion staged off fierce counter-attacks by the Germans. Sellers said his orders were to hold the railroad yards at any cost, and the cost was high. During the action the battalion killed 2,500 Germans and wounded many times that number.

Used German Weapons

As he described the action in detail, he was asked, "How in the world did your battalion manage to hold the position?" His reply was a tribute to his gallant men, and to every man who has served in the field artillery. He said, "We held on by sheer determination, and were saved many times from annihalation by a ring of steel laid down by our artillery support." In one afternoon, his battalion fired 5,240 rounds of 81mm mortar shells into German positions, and hundreds of thousands of rounds of small arms ammunition were expended. Sellers said his men even turned captured and abandoned weapons back on the Germans.

From this operation, his unit was relieved on April 4, by an entire division, the Ninety-fifth, which was brought up to clear out the sector and consolidate the gains. In addition to the citation, Sellers was personally decorated for this action.

The battalion then started across the rest of Germany, on what Sellers calls a "rat race." At one time, while he was moving his men to a position along the Elbe river, his outfit was unofficially termed a "raggle-taggle circus battalion," and was later referred to with highest praise in the army publication "Stars and Stripes."

Sellers laughs when he tells the story. He had a long distance to travel and only a short time to get there, so he commandeered everything that "ran on wheels," and formed a column. The men hung on carts, hay wagons, trucks of all kinds, civilian cars, five tanks attached to his battalion, bicycles and a little of everything. After hours of travel he called a rest period, so his men could eat their "K" rations, and as he was parked in his Jeep at the head of the colmun, a full colonel from the division's staff pulled up. The colonel asked Sellers, "What kind of a circus is this? Sellers explained his mission, and the colonel just shook his head, turned back and reported what he saw to General Simpson. It was only a few days later that "Stars and Stripes" said that the Thunderbolt division had been unofficially named a "raggle-taggle circus outfit," by a ranking officer.

Repulses Counterattack

Sellers said soon after his incident, his battalion repulsed a strong counterattack on the Elbe, cleaned out a weeds and restored the line where the Germans had come through. The war ended on May 8.

His unit then cleaned up and policed several German towns and was finally sent to Austria for military government work, rest and policing.

Col. Sellers left his unit in Austria and sailed from LeHavre, France on February 7, aboard the S. S. Maritime Victory. He came home on emergency leave, due to the death of his father, William H. Sellers, 521 Williams street, who died February 1, 1946. Sellers said his leave expires March 19, and he has been ordered to report to Camp Meade on that date. He expressed the opinion that his division should be back in the states by then, and he will rejoin his own battalion.

Col. Sellers expects to make a career of the army, and he has already been urged to do so by ranking officers. He has an enviable military record and is regarded as a strong and able leader and officer. His decorations include, a Legion of Merit, a Silver star, a Bronze star with a cluster, Good Conduct medal, ETO ribbon with five stars, American Defense ribbon, American Theater ribbon, Army of Occupation ribbon, Victory ribbon, presidential battalion citation, presidential regiment citation and combat infantry badge. He had 299 days of combat of the 356 days of fighting by Americans on the continent.

He is at home 33 Hawthorne avenue, with his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Sellers and his little son, Weldon, age five. Weldon is right proud of his daddy, and while the colonel was being interviewed, the little fellow sat quietly, dringing in every word.

Kopp said he is pleased that salaries have been advancing and declared that the public recognizes the need, by splendid support for the idea of increasing salaries.

Pointing out some of the advantages for Maryland, Kopp said the wage scale is uniform regardless of the size of the community. Many reports from other states show the rural area teachers to be receiving only 50 percent of what is paid instructors in the larger cities but in Maryland such is not the case.

He also stressed that the same wage is paid high school and elementary school teachers providing they have the same qualifications and length of service and that Maryland is one of the few states to follow this program.

Mrs. Lillian Welling Terms Conditions at Reception Camp "Deplorable"

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Feb. 22—Mrs. Lillian F. Welling, 23, the first British war bride to reach Garrett county, and her son Melvyne Jon, 2, arrived in the states aboard the Queen Mary a few days ago and are now at Mt. Lake Park at the home of her husband, Forrest K. Welling, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley W. Welling, where they will reside for the present. Her husband met her in New York.

Although Mrs. Welling is enthusiastic over nearly everything she has seen in the United States, her trip from her home in England was not so pleasant. According to her description she was a victim of what she termed the scrambled plans and inefficiency of the Red Cross and the American army.

Cites "Deplorable Conditions"

When asked what it was like at the reception camp in England and also on the boat, she said that the condition of the "Mary" was satisfactory but that conditions at the camp "were deplorable." She related that upon arrival at the camp from the train, GI wives with and without babies had to sit in an open bus with wind and rain pouring in on them for four hours before they were admitted to the reception room.

"We had had no food from 2 p. m. until 11 p. m. for either ourselves or our babies," Mrs. Welling said. "Our babies' first meal and all the following meals for a week consisted of powdered milk. Service was as nothing, with German prisoners of war supposed to wait upon us.

"Mud was ankle deep and the mothers had to carry their babies and stand in line in the rain for as long as an hour at times to obtain something to eat from the one-time army mess halls. We had to carry our children through the rain from one building to another for processing and medicals, while the German prisoners rode around in covered buses and trucks.

"But things improved after much protest and after several brides had returned to their English homes, unable to stand the conditions. There were two cases of pneumonia among the children."

Young Son Is Ill

Melvyne is at the present time confined to his bed suffering from lack of food during the two weeks previous to their arrival at Mt. Lake Park, Mrs. Welling said.

Mrs. Welling was a Londoner but was evacuated to Norfolk during the 1941 blitz. Mr. and Mrs. Welling met at a New Year's party in 1942 and were married the following April. Welling returned to the states in July, 1945, and will leave shortly for Fort George G. Meade where he has a Civil Service position.

Mrs. Welling seems particularly pleased here with the articles she is able to purchase which she had not seen in England for five years, such as ice cream, bananas, dresses, and high heeled shoes. She expressed astonishment over the speed of trains in this country, (she came from New York on the National Limited); she much prefers central heating in homes as compared to multiple fire places in England, and likes automobiles and everything in general about America. She declared she was also happy over the friendliness of people who had some to see her since her arrival, and over the warm welcome of her husband's parents.

Ida C. Shumaker, Aged Missionary, Dies in India

Meyersdale Woman Served in India Mission Fields More Than 30 Years

By W. A. SHUMAKER

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Feb. 22 — Word was received Tuesday from the General Mission Board of the Church of the Brethren, Elgin, Ill., that Miss Ida C. Shumaker, missionary teacher, died in the Cottrell Mission hospital at Bulsar, Surat district, India, where she had been a patient for several weeks suffering from a heart condition.

Miss Shumaker was commissioned a missionary by the church in 1910 and sent to the India field. After nearly thirty years' service she was returned to the United States to work in the home mission field in the churches throughout the brotherhood. She always had a yearning to return to the foreign field, and notwithstanding her extreme age, then past 70.

She left in July, 1944, to resume her duties at Khergam, India, where, with the held of her friends in the homeland and the sacrifices upon the part of the native members of the Khergam church, a commodious house of worship was erected and dedicated as the Ida C. Shumaker Church of the Brethren of Khergam, India. It was there that she became ill and was transferred to the hospital at Bulsar, where she died.

Miss Shumaker was a daughter of Alexander E. and Lydia Lint Shumaker. She received her education in the public schools of Meyersdale, and was one of the two who composed the first graduating class following the establishing of a high school, more than fifty years ago. She also taught in the beginners' grade of the local schools for twenty-one successive terms prior to becoming a foreign missionary.

She is survived by two brothers and a sister—W.A. Shumaker, F. D. Shumaker and Mrs. J. M. Gnagey, Meyersdale.

No further word has been received up to this time as to the funeral services, but she was in all probability buried in the Mission cemetery, which seemed to be her desire during the later days of her life.

Hardships of Trip to United States Cited by Garrett County War Bride

Mrs. Lillian Welling Terms Conditions at Reception Camp "Deplorable"

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Feb. 22—Mrs. Lillian F. Welling, 23, the first British war bride to reach Garrett county, and her son Melvyne Jon, 2, arrived in the states aboard the Queen Mary a few days ago and are now at Mt. Lake Park at the home of her husband, Forrest K. Welling, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley W. Welling, where they will reside for the present. Her husband met her in New York.

Although Mrs. Welling is enthusiastic over nearly everything she has seen in the United States, her trip from her home in England was not so pleasant. According to her description she was a victim of what she termed the scrambled plans and inefficiency of the Red Cross and the American army.

Cites "Deplorable Conditions"

When asked what it was like at the reception camp in England and also on the boat, she said that the condition of the "Mary" was satisfactory but that conditions at the camp "were deplorable." She related that upon arrival at the camp from the train, GI wives with and without babies had to sit in an open bus with wind and rain pouring in on them for four hours before they were admitted to the reception room.

"We had had no food from 2 p. m. until 11 p. m. for either ourselves or our babies," Mrs. Welling said. "Our babies' first meal and all the following meals for a week consisted of powdered milk. Service was as nothing, with German prisoners of war supposed to wait upon us.

"Mud was ankle deep and the mothers had to carry their babies and stand in line in the rain for as long as an hour at times to obtain something to eat from the one-time army mess halls. We had to carry our children through the rain from one building to another for processing and medicals, while the German prisoners rode around in covered buses and trucks.

"But things improved after much protest and after several brides had returned to their English homes, unable to stand the conditions. There were two cases of pneumonia among the children."

Young Son Is Ill

Melvyne is at the present time confined to his bed suffering from lack of food during the two weeks previous to their arrival at Mt. Lake Park, Mrs. Welling said.

Mrs. Welling was a Londoner but was evacuated to Norfolk during the 1941 blitz. Mr. and Mrs. Welling met at a New Year's party in 1942 and were married the following April. Welling returned to the states in July, 1945, and will leave shortly for Fort George G. Meade where he has a Civil Service position.

Mrs. Welling seems particularly pleased here with the articles she is able to purchase which she had not seen in England for five years, such as ice cream, bananas, dresses, and high heeled shoes. She expressed astonishment over the speed of trains in this country, (she came from New York on the National Limited); she much prefers central heating in homes as compared to multiple fire places in England, and likes automobiles and everything in general about America. She declared she was also happy over the friendliness of people who had some to see her since her arrival, and over the warm welcome of her husband's parents.

Shumaker, missionary teacher, died in the Cottrell Mission hospital at Bulsar, Surat district, India, where she had been a patient for several weeks suffering from a heart condition.

Miss Shumaker was commissioned a missionary by the church in 1910 and sent to the India field. After nearly thirty years' service she was returned to the United States to work in the home mission field in the churches throughout the brotherhood. She always had a yearning to return to the foreign field, and notwithstanding her extreme age, then past 70.

She left in July, 1944, to resume her duties at Khergam, India, where, with the held of her friends in the homeland and the sacrifices upon the part of the native members of the Khergam church, a commodious house of worship was erected and dedicated as the Ida C. Shumaker Church of the Brethren of Khergam, India. It was there that she became ill and was transferred to the hospital at Bulsar, where she died.

Miss Shumaker was a daughter of Alexander E. and Lydia Lint Shumaker. She received her education in the public schools of Meyersdale, and was one of the two who composed the first graduating class following the establishing of a high school, more than fifty years ago. She also taught in the beginners' grade of the local schools for twenty-one successive terms prior to becoming a foreign missionary.

She is survived by two brothers and a sister—W.A. Shumaker, F. D. Shumaker and Mrs. J. M. Gnagey, Meyersdale.

No further word has been received up to this time as to the funeral services, but she was in all probability buried in the Mission cemetery, which seemed to be her desire during the later days of her life.

Forty Veterans To Take Night Courses Here

Education Program Will Get under Way at Fort Hill, Feb. 27

About forty veterans registered in the veterans education program to be directed by Dr. Harold J. McNally, will "start school" Wednesday, February 27, at 7:30 o'clock at Fort Hill high school.

Leo Delaney, mathematics and science teacher at Central high school, Lonaconing, has been selected as supervisor for the group scheduled to start their classroom work Wednesday night.

Veterans in the county who are interested in taking work but who have not yet registered are requested to contact Dr. McNally in his office on the second floor of the board of education building, Washington street, as soon as possible.

With forty registered to start work with the first group, Dr. McNally indicated that other groups would be formed as needed throughout the county.

Students registered for work starting Wednesday night have enrolled for such subjects as bookkeeping, practical electricians work, sign painting and a number of other courses.

Dr. McNally is of the opinion that the courses starting next week offer a good opportunity for former veterans anxious to receive further education but who want to work at the same time. One feature of the courses offered is that students are free to accomplish just as much as they desire and will not be held back by other class members as is the case in colleges where the course proceeds as rapidly as the dullest student.

Rowand Is Released On Bond of $1,000 For Grand Jury

Arrested Tuesday on a charge of grand larceny, James Okey Rowand, manager of the Julian Goldman store, Baltimore street, was released from the county jail Wednesday afternoon after posting bond of $1,000 in trial magistrates court for action of the April term of grand jury. He waived a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

Rowand, who came to Cumberland April 14, 1943, is accused of stealing two diamond rings, valued at $150, and a lady's wrist watch worth $50 from Mrs. Charles E. Feeser, 312 Park street, with whom he boarded, on April 30, 1943.

In a statement to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Rowand said he found the watch and rings among his personal belongings when he moved from the Feeser home. He said in his statement that he gave the watch to a woman clerk at the store and had her sell the rings.

Sentence in the case of William Twigg, 215 Dexter place, accused of assaulting his wife, Rosella Twigg, was deferred for thirty days by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., yesterday because of a restraining order signed in circuit court.

KINDERGARTEN GROUP HAS VALENTINE PARTY

George Hughes, Jr., Is Promoted

George Hughes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hughes, Buckingham road, the Dingle, recently was promoted to quartermaster in the United States Navy his father reported yesterday.

Hughes, who is on an armored patrol craft attached to an LST group presently at anchor off Leyte, recently renewed his acquaintance with a former Cumberland man due to his keeness for practicing on the ship's blinker light.

Hughes and several other shipmates were practicing on the blinker light sending messages to another ship recently when he learned that one of the sailors on the ship he was visiting with is Harry Schwartzwelder, a former Allegany high school basketball player. Hughes had played basketball against Schwartzwelder while he was attending LaSalle high school. Later, the two men had a reunion.

According to W. Earle Cobey, a former lieutenant commander in the navy, the new position now held by Hughes as a quartermaster is "an important job" and means that he is on the bridge when on duty and helps keep the log and takes soundings.

In a recent letter to his parents, Hughes said it had been raining hard off Leyte. He expects to come home in May.

PATTERSON EXPLAINS DENIAL OF RELIEF TO "EMPLOYABLES"

Employable persons will be denied relief from local welfare boards under a new rule, which has been put into effect "only because of insufficient funds," according to J. Milton Patterson, director of the state department of public welfare.

Patterson's statement followed a meeting with representatives of the Baltimore department of public welfare. The session was called after CIO representatives protested the new rule, contending that their purpose was not only to aid strikers, but to supply relief for all needy persons.

During recent years, employable persons in Allegany county who sought temporary relief were taken care of by the Associated Charities and the Salvation Army, according to Mrs. Elinor Westerfeld, executive secretary of the county welfare board.

Only a few employable persons have requested the welfare board for aid in the last few months, Mrs. Westerfeld added.

If any local welfare department has sufficient funds to care for the needs of employables, however, it is not necessary to apply the new rule, Patterson said.

Lynch Asks Court To Order Rossell To Transfer Stock

Wants Terms of Agreement Made in March, 1945 Carried Out

Hubert Lynch, represented by William M. Somerville and D. Lindley Sloan, Thursday filed a petition in circuit court asking the court to pass an order asking Spencer G. Rossell to show cause why he should not transfer stock and execute releases according to the terms of an agreement entered into in March, 1945.

Lynch's petition states that by an agreement dated March 12, 1945, recorded in the land records of the county, Rossell agreed upon a payment of $6,000 to assign his title and interest in two mortgages and to assign 250 shares of Golden Rossell Corporation stock.

Since the agreement was entered into, Archer I. Schweizer, one of the parties of the first part, has assigned his rights and title to Lynch, the petition said.

All agreements were fully performed by Lynch, the petition states, claiming that prior to September 12, 1945, the parties of the second part paid over $2,000 to the Liberty Trust Company for Rossell.

Since that time, the trust company has often notified Rossell to take up the final payment of $2,000 and to execute the releases and deliver the 250 shares of stock, the petition says.

The petitioner charges that Rossell has continuously refused to pay any attention to the notifications of the Liberty Trust Company and that as a result Schweizer and Lynch have been embarrassed in conducting their business.

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed an order directing Rossell to show cause on or before March 15 why he should not execute the releases and deliver the stock shares as prayed for by the petitioner.

Tasty Fish Turnovers

TO TEMPT THE FAMILY . . . . Appetizing fish turnovers.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Perhaps you and your family don't like fish. In other words, you may have the average typical American reaction to fish.

Dislike of fish may lie in poor or unimaginative cooking. So I would like to suggest that you try fish turnovers on those for whom you provide dinner. It may help solve your problem.

Giant Cod Turnovers

Filling:
- 2 (7½ ounce) packages shredded codfish
- 2 cups grated raw carrots
- 1½ cups diced celery
- 4 tablespoons vitaminized margarine
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1¼ cups milk

Pastry:
- 2 cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup vitaminized margarine
- 6 tablespoons water

Filling Method: Combine codfish and vegetables. Melt margarine over low heat. Add flour and seasonings and stir until smooth. Add milk gradually and stir until thickened. Add to codfish mixture.

Pastry Method: Sift, measure flour. Resift with salt. Cut in margarine with two knives until like coarse meal. Add water and toss until all particles are moistened. Divide dough in half. Roll each half into a ten-inch circle on a floured pastry cloth. Pile filling on one-half of each circle. Moisten edge of dough with water. Fold pastry over filling like a giant turnover and press edges together to seal. Bake turnovers on cookie sheet in 400 degrees oven for forty minutes.

Try serving the turnovers with creamed corn, to which chopped green pepper has been added. And here is another dish to go with it:

Baked Curry Tomatoes

- 3 tablespoons vitaminized margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons flour
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 3 medium tomatoes

Brown onion in margarine. Add flour and stir until smooth. Add water, vinegar and seasonings and cook two minutes. Cut tomatoes in half. Scoop out, leaving a shell. Add pulp to above sauce. Fill tomato shells with this. Place in oven with turnovers for ten minutes of the cooking. Arrange turnovers and tomatoes on a large plate or platter.

Many other types of fish serve deliciously as filling for a turnover. Try fresh cod, halibut or salmon in a cream sauce with mushrooms. Or use haddock meat in a sauce made with a chicken broth base and flavored delicately with tarragon. The possibilities are almost limitless. Let your imagination be your guide!

Divorce Granted Carrie Dobbins

A former WAVE who charges her marine corps husband deserted her a few days after they were married at Long Beach, Calif., Thursday was awarded an absolute divorce in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Mrs. Carrie F. Dobbins, 29, 24 Ridgeway terrace, testified that she married Clifford C. Dobbins while both were stationed in California.

The wedding ceremony was performed June 2, 1944 and the couple separated June 27 of the same year when he was sent overseas with his outfit.

"I have never seen him since," Mrs. Dobbins testified and after he left her he never wrote to her and ignored pictures his wife sent of their child, Larry, now 1 year old. When he returned to the United States he returned to his home in Kalamazoo, Mich., she said.

Mrs. Dobbins was separated from the service June 27, 1944, and returned to her home in Cumberland with her young son. The court awarded her the custody of the child. She was represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Two other suits were filed Thursday, one by Ryan, and the other by Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., In the former, Leroy H. Chaney filed a suit against Eva L. Chaney, and in the latter case, Ruth Twigg Rice docketed a suit against Myron Eugene Rice.

CHARLES H. KNOTTS FLEES FROM PRISON

State police continued to search last night for Charles Harrison Knotts, 26, Cumberland, who escaped from the Maryland House of Correction, Jessups, where he was serving a two-year sentence imposed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Authorities said they were informed Knotts walked away from the prison grounds. He had been working in the engine room, next door to the main prison building.

Knotts was sentenced to the state prison at the January term of circuit court. He and five other youths were involved in the thefts of five automobiles and breaking and entering the home of Charles Waingold, LaVale, police said. They termed him the "brains" of the youthful gang.

FINAL GAME
Wednesday—Fort Hill at Barton

Limiting the opposition to a single field goal in the first eleven minutes of play, and banging the hoops for a total of nineteen double-deckers in the 32-minute fray, Allegany high school's basketball warriors easily defeated their city rivals, Fort Hill, by the score o 48 to 29, last night before a capacity crowd at Campobello.

By winning this rough and tumble affair in which thirty-five personal fouls were plastered on the boys by two officials, Allegany bagged the WMI League championship with a record of ten victories and no defeats. The triumph also clinched city honors for the Campers, who have Fort Hill twice and LaSalle once and will windup the series with the Explorers at Campobello on Friday, March 1.

Cop Eleventh in Row

Last night's conquest also extended Allegany's current winning streak to eleven games and its winning string in the WMI League to 80 games in three seasons. It marked the fifteenth time in twenty-six years that a team from A. H. S. romped off with the county league title.

Milford Dean, Fort Hill, guard, scored the first point in last night's game when he converted a free throw. But that's all the scoring credited to the Sentinels in the first quarter. Jimmie Radcliffe's fielder shortly after sent the Campers out in front and before the first quarter was concluded Bob Price connected for two goals, Radcliffe netted another goal and foul and Gene Shaw shook the cords with a two-pointer that sent the Campers' lead up to 11 to 1 as the first eight-minute period ended.

AHS continued to hit on all five cylinders in the second stanza and when the shooting was over the halftime whistle found the Bowersmen on the long end of a 23-8 count. Fort Hill was held to three field goals in the first half while Allegany tossed in a total of ten.

Gain 24-Point Lead

The Campers enjoyed their biggest lead of the game in the third period—24 points—when they were on top by the score of 32-8. Fort Hill found the range toward the end of this quarter and trailed 40-21 at the whistle.

In the final canto, Allegany managed to outpoint the Sentinels, nine to eight.

Sensabaugh Is Injured

The game was rougher than most city contests and one player—Don Sensabaugh, Fort Hill center—suffered an ugly gash over his left eye when he came in contact with somebody's elbow early in the first period after AHS had taken a 4-1 lead. Don was patched up and returned later to finish the game at his regular position.

Eighteen personal fouls were called on Fort Hill and seventeen on Allegany. Shaw went out via the five personals route early in the final quarter with AHS ahead 40-23.

High scoring laurels went to Bob Price, Allegany's lanky center, who poured in seven field goals and one foul goal for a total of 15 points. Radcliffe had five baskets and 13 points while Glen Brant hooped four fielders and a total of 11 points. Dean and Brown garnered eight of Fort Hill's eleven fielders, the former heading the attack with ten points while Johnny Brown got nine and Elmer Freeland eight.

DALE WHITE, 16, captain of the Irving, Ill., high school team, is being acclaimed as a basketball phenom in high school ranks. White has popped in 1,011 points in forty games this season to clip the old Illinois record of 969 set by Dwight Eddleman at Centralia in 1941.

Seven Are Named To Face Barrier In $114,950 Race

Maine Chance Farm Will Send Trio Postward in Santa Anita Derby

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—Only seven top three-year-olds were named today to face the barrier in the ninth running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby tomorrow as a combination of strike troubles and Maine Chance Farm dominance whittled the field.

Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Maine Chance—leading 1945 stable—entered intact its potent trio of Knockown, Star Pilot and Colony Boy, and only four other owners accepted the issue.

One of those, Fred Wyse, of Houston, Tex., was uncertain whether he would start his fine colt, Air Rate, because the horse requires special shoes which may be unobtainable if blacksmith shops at the track remain closed in support of the strike of a portion of trainers, owners and grooms.

Louis B. Mayer's steady filly, Honeymoon; La Favorita Farms' Favorito, and Col. C. V. Whitney's Bright Sword completed the entry list for the mile and one-quarter derby, the richest race ever offered for three-year-olds.

The field, narrowed from an original list of ninety-nine nominations, will vie for a gross purse of $114,950, of which about $75,000 will go to the winner, $20,000 to second, $10,000 to third and $5,000 to fourth place.

It will be the smallest field for the derby here shading the eight starters in 1945.

Ike Williams Must Retain Title To Get Montgomery Match

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said today that Ike Williams must successfully defend his half of the world lightweight championship against Enrique Bolanos in Los Angeles on April 30 if he wants the shot at Bob Montgomery, who owns the other half of the crown, in Madison Square Garden May 17.

Connie McCarthy, manager of Williams, who is recognized as the NBA boss, announced in Detroit that he had accepted terms for the Williams-Bolanos fight yesterday. Jacobs said the Williams-Montgomery fight was signed several weeks ago and hinged on the fact that both fighters must still be champions on May 17, inasmuch as the bout was originally made in order to clear the dual lightweight title muddle.

"If Williams is still the boss of the champion after his Bolanos fight," Mike said tonight, "the fight with Montgomery is on. Otherwise there's no point in it."

Mountaineers Battle Maryland Floormen

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 22—(AP)—West Virginia Mountaineers, nettled by their 50 to 45 loss to Navy's basketball team, sharpened their shooting eyes today in preparation for tomorrow night's contest with the University of Maryland.

Coach Lee Patton's charges, with a record of eighteen victories in twenty games and still hoping for a bid to the metropolitan tournament in New York, came here from Annapolis determined to take some of their revenge out on the Terrapins.

Maryland, upset 42 to 36 by William and Mary while West Virginia was losing to Navy, lost some Southern Conference prestige in that encounter and was hoping to come back against the Mountaineers.

Lee Oma Stops Gus Lesnevich In Garden Bout

Fight Is Halted in Fourth after Champ Suffers Gash under Eye

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight with a clown style of fighting, gave Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich a thirtieth birthday present Gus didn't like tonight by stopping him after four rounds of a scheduled ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden. Oma scaled 189½; Lesnevich 183.

A sharp right cross opened a deep gash under Gus's left eye during the fourth heat after the two had battled on even terms through the early going. Dr. William Walker, New York State Athletic Commission physician, was called to examine the injury during the minute rest after the fourth round and ruled that the eye was cut too badly for the blond Russian from New Jersey to continue.

The deep cut, which streamed crimson through most of the fourth session and half-closed the eye, came during Oma's strongest rally of the bout after Lesnevich took a fast lead through the early going.

Before exploding the right on Lesnevich's eye, the rangy Detroiter had bounced a hard hook on Gus's chin that almost dropped the light heavyweight boss, who recovered after his gloved hands had hit the canvas.

Before that, though—and particularly in the first and second rounds—Lesnevich got off to a flying start as he made not only his birthday outing, but also his first trip to the post in New York since his recent discharge from the Coast Guard after four years in service.

Oma Has Clownish Style

For a time he appeared to have the combination to beat Oma's clownlike style of beak-busting, which consists largely in galloping around the rings, hands at his sides, and suddenly flicking out long arms from all manner of unorthodox positions.

Gus opened up by patiently stalling Oma and banging away with solid smashes, notably block-buster hooks, to the ribs and body. This system worked as if Gus had written the book through the first and second heats. One heavy-handed hook under the heart late in the second round slithered Oma three quarters of the way across the ring.

But with the start of the third, Oma began finding the range with his long, flicking stabs, beating Gus to the punch as the light heavyweight boss, although shorter by inches and outweighed by 6 1-2 pounds, tried to work his way in close. Near the end of the session, Oma suddenly pulled the trigger on his right cross and one caught Lesnevich full on the whiskers and made Gus blink momentarily.

Lee kept it up through the fourth, finally connecting with the solid right that sliced the wicked gash under Gus's eye that ended the fight.

Wins Seventh Straight

For Oma it marked his seventh straight victory over the past year and moved him well up in the heavyweight ranks. For Lesnevich it was an inauspicious start to his campaign which he hopes will eventually get him a shot at Joe Louis. Until tonight, he had planned to make one defense of his light heavyweight crown, then move in among the big boys. Oma may have changed the script tonight.

Twelve May Start In Hialeah Event

Owner of Winning Horse in Flamingo Stakes To Get $30,250

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP) — The richest pot 'o gold in Flamingo history, with upwards of $30,000 at the end of the rainbow, will await the winner at Hialeah park tomorrow in Florida's "preview" of the Kentucky Derby.

Twelve speedsters, including a lone filly, are tentatively slated to go to the post in the mile and one-eighth test for three-year-olds, and the experts tonight were puzzled over what they termed the most wide-open scramble since the classic was inaugurated 20 years ago.

Barring eleventh hour scratches, the 1946 Flamingo will gross $41,250 and net the winning owner $30,250.

On paper, the "big four" of the race are Wee Admiral, son of the great War Admiral; Walter P. Chrysler's Cedar Creek, Hal Price Headley's Pellicle, and Laddie Sanford's Round View.

Nations Track Stars Vie in National AAU

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Three of the season's brightest track stars—undefeated in four major appearances—will lay their perfect records on the line tomorrow night in the fifty-eighth annual National AAU indoor championships at Madison Square Garden.

The unbeaten trio is Leslie MacMitchell in the mile, Fred Sickinger in the 1,000 and Elmore Harris in the 600.

Among the 225 individual contestants entered from 20 states, the District of Columbia, Canada and France, are thirty-eight present and former national champions and twenty seven relay teams.

Walters Faces Uphill Comeback This Spring Due to Sore Arm

One of Best Pitchers in Baseball Has Not Thrown Hard since July

By JACK HAND

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Bucky Walters, one of the best right handed pitchers in baseball, faces an uphill comeback struggle this spring for the first time in his career because of a mysteriously sore arm.

The 35-year-old Cincinnati hurler hasn't been able to throw hard overhand since the last pitch of a game against St. Louis last July.

"Nothing happened to the arm," recalled Walters. "I didn't pull it or anything, nothing silly. It just felt tired and I remember thinking to myself that it was a good thing I didn't have to throw any more that day.

"Two days later it pained so much I couldn't throw; the doc told me I wouldn't do much more pitching all season and he was right. Right now I still don't know. It feels okay but I should know for sure in a couple of weeks."

Walters led the league with a sparkling 23-8 record in 1944 but after winning eight or nine last year in the early season, trailed off to wind up with a 10-10 mark. Even so he was fourth in earned run averages at 2.68.

During the winter X-rays failed to reveal any chipped bones or bursitis, in fact failed to show anything out of the ordinary. Walters took diathermy treatments which have helped. He came down to Florida early to help Bobby Feller in his school for ex-GI's but didn't throw hard or often.

The question mark is still there. If Walters can be counted upon again for a regular turn on the hill every fourth day, the Reds's chances of climbing out of seventh place will be so much brighter.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

NICHOLSON IS HOLDOUT

CHICAGO, Feb. 22 (AP) — Bill Nicholson, right fielder with the Chicago Cubs, joined the holdout ranks today. Nicholson, 1944 National League home run champion, said over the long distance telephone at his home in Chestertown, Md., that he had returned his 1946 contract a second time. He said he would "sit it out" until the Cubs readjust the monetary figure.

The southpaw hitter slumped to .243 last season.

ERNIE LOMBARDI ARRIVES

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Catcher Ernie Lombardi arrived at the New York Giants' training camp today as Manager Mel Ott put four ball clubs on the field in a morning-afternoon doubleheader, with two teams of regulars facing each other in a six-inning forenoon tilt.

Marvin Grissom, rookie pitcher, was the only moundsman to go three innings without allowing a hit.

DYKES GOES "HOLLYWOOD"

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox training camp is right in the vicinity, so Manager Jimmy Dykes has gone "Hollywood."

NEWHOUSER ACCEPTS TERMS

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Hal Newhouser, Detroit Tiger's left-hand pitching ace who won 29 American league games in 1944 and 25 last year, ended his two-day hold-out today by accepting 1946 terms believed to make the 24-year-old blond the highest paid pitcher in baseball history.

Although no salary details of Newhouser's contract were announced, Hal, who had been determined to top the $42,500 reportedly being paid to Bob Feller by the Cleveland Indians, said after a telephone conversation with General Manager George M. Trautman that he was "completely satisfied" with his 1946 terms.

DiMaggio's two-run homer highlighted a sixth inning six-run uprising against Eddie Curtis, the zone's best pitched. Teammate Charlie Keller followed DiMaggio with another circuit clout.

Rinaldo Ardizoia pitched the first five innings for the Yankees and held the losers to four hits and two runs. Johnny Maldovan hurled the remaining four rounds.

"Ike" Williams Scores Over Ace Miller

DETROIT, Feb. 22 (AP) — Methodical Ike Williams, Trenton, N. J., puncher who holds the lightweight championship of the National Boxing Association, took an unanimous 10-round decision tonight from Ace Miller, Toledo, Ohio, but had to chase the Toledoan all over the Olympia ring for the last five rounds to land any licks.

Williams, who weighed 137 pounds to Miller's 140, started slowly and let the Toledoan stagger him with a hard right to the head in the second round before the champion went to work.

Miller went down for the first time in his pro career from a right to the chin in the third round and took a count of nine.

Lions Alone for Defeat in Cumberland; Tucci Sets Scoring Pace with Ten Tallies

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Feb. 22—Piedmont high school's Lions staged a garison finish to nose out LaSalle high school, of Cumberland, here tonight by the score of 25 to 20 and thereby squared accounts for a 33-19 setback suffered on the Explorers' court earlier in the season.

LaSalle held a one-point edge going into the fourth quarter and then Lou Tucci, Piedmont guard, turned the tide by hooping a field goal that sent the Lions ahead never to be topped again.

Wolford and Carroll converted free throws and fielders by Tucci, Wolford and Tucci in that order sent Piedmont's lead up to seven points at 25-18 before Jack Steiner banged in the final twin-pointer of the game.

Tucci's two foul goals were the first points scored in the opening quarter at the close of which Piedmont held a 7-3 advantage. Midway in the second stanza Steiner's fielder knotted the count at 10-10. Baskets by Wolford and Hart again tied the score at 12-12 and Wolford's free throw gave the Lions a 13-12 edge at intermission.

Tommy Cloonan's fielder sent LaSalle out in front after 1:20 of the third period but Sayers's foul knotted the score at 14-14. Goals by Sayers and Steiner again tied things up at 16-16 and Steiner's one-pointer gave LaSalle a 17-16 edge at the whistle.

Tucci paced Piedmont to victory with ten tallies on four fielders and two fouls. Steiner and Hart accounted for 15 of LaSalle's 20 tallies. The latter was banished on personal fouls 20 seconds before the final whistle.

In the preliminary game the Piedmont junior varsity dropped an 18-14 decision to LaSalle's jayvees. The lineups:

FINAL GAME
Wednesday—Fort Hill at Barton

Limiting the opposition to a single field goal in the first eleven minutes of play, and banging the hoops for a total of nineteen double-deckers in the 32-minute fray, Allegany high school's basketball warriors easily defeated their city rivals, Fort Hill, by the score o 48 to 29, last night before a capacity crowd at Campobello.

By winning this rough and tumble affair in which thirty-five personal fouls were plastered on the boys by two officials, Allegany bagged the WMI League championship with a record of ten victories and no defeats. The triumph also clinched city honors for the Campers, who have Fort Hill twice and LaSalle once and will windup the series with the Explorers at Campobello on Friday, March 1.

Cop Eleventh in Row

Last night's conquest also extended Allegany's current winning streak to eleven games and its winning string in the WMI League to 80 games in three seasons. It marked the fifteenth time in twenty-six years that a team from A. H. S. romped off with the county league title.

Milford Dean, Fort Hill, guard, scored the first point in last night's game when he converted a free throw. But that's all the scoring credited to the Sentinels in the first quarter. Jimmie Radcliffe's fielder shortly after sent the Campers out in front and before the first quarter was concluded Bob Price connected for two goals, Radcliffe netted another goal and foul and Gene Shaw shook the cords with a two-pointer that sent the Campers' lead up to 11 to 1 as the first eight-minute period ended.

AHS continued to hit on all five cylinders in the second stanza and when the shooting was over the halftime whistle found the Bowersmen on the long end of a 23-8 count. Fort Hill was held to three field goals in the first half while Allegany tossed in a total of ten.

Gain 24-Point Lead

The Campers enjoyed their biggest lead of the game in the third period—24 points—when they were on top by the score of 32-8. Fort Hill found the range toward the end of this quarter and trailed 40-21 at the whistle.

In the final canto, Allegany managed to outpoint the Sentinels, nine to eight.

Sensabaugh Is Injured

The game was rougher than most city contests and one player—Don Sensabaugh, Fort Hill center—suffered an ugly gash over his left eye when he came in contact with somebody's elbow early in the first period after AHS had taken a 4-1 lead. Don was patched up and returned later to finish the game at his regular position.

Eighteen personal fouls were called on Fort Hill and seventeen on Allegany. Shaw went out via the five personals route early in the final quarter with AHS ahead 40-23.

High scoring laurels went to Bob Price, Allegany's lanky center, who poured in seven field goals and one foul goal for a total of 15 points. Radcliffe had five baskets and 13 points while Glen Brant hooped four fielders and a total of 11 points. Dean and Brown garnered eight of Fort Hill's eleven fielders, the former heading the attack with ten points while Johnny Brown got nine and Elmer Freeland eight.

Allegany's Reserves defeated the Fort Hill Reserves, 43 to 29 in the opening game. The lineups:

Maine Chance Farm Will Send Trio Postward in Santa Anita Derby

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—Only seven top three-year-olds were named today to face the barrier in the ninth running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby tomorrow as a combination of strike troubles and Maine Chance Farm dominance whittled the field.

Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Maine Chance—leading 1945 stable—entered intact its potent trio of Knockown, Star Pilot and Colony Boy, and only four other owners accepted the issue.

One of those, Fred Wyse, of Houston, Tex., was uncertain whether he would start his fine colt, Air Rate, because the horse requires special shoes which may be unobtainable if blacksmith shops at the track remain closed in support of the strike of a portion of trainers, owners and grooms.

Louis B. Mayer's steady filly, Honeymoon; La Favorita Farms' Favorito, and Col. C. V. Whitney's Bright Sword completed the entry list for the mile and one-quarter derby, the richest race ever offered for three-year-olds.

The field, narrowed from an original list of ninety-nine nominations, will vie for a gross purse of $114,950, of which about $75,000 will go to the winner, $20,000 to second, $10,000 to third and $5,000 to fourth place.

It will be the smallest field for the derby here shading the eight starters in 1945.

Ike Williams Must Retain Title To Get Montgomery Match

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said today that Ike Williams must successfully defend his half of the world lightweight championship against Enrique Bolanos in Los Angeles on April 30 if he wants the shot at Bob Montgomery, who owns the other half of the crown, in Madison Square Garden May 17.

Connie McCarthy, manager of Williams, who is recognized as the NBA boss, announced in Detroit that he had accepted terms for the Williams-Bolanos fight yesterday. Jacobs said the Williams-Montgomery fight was signed several weeks ago and hinged on the fact that both fighters must still be champions on May 17, inasmuch as the bout was originally made in order to clear the dual lightweight title muddle.

"If Williams is still the boss of the champion after his Bolanos fight," Mike said tonight, "the fight with Montgomery is on. Otherwise there's no point in it."

Mountaineers Battle Maryland Floormen

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 22—(AP)—West Virginia Mountaineers, nettled by their 50 to 45 loss to Navy's basketball team, sharpened their shooting eyes today in preparation for tomorrow night's contest with the University of Maryland.

Coach Lee Patton's charges, with a record of eighteen victories in twenty games and still hoping for a bid to the metropolitan tournament in New York, came here from Annapolis determined to take some of their revenge out on the Terrapins.

Maryland, upset 42 to 36 by William and Mary while West Virginia was losing to Navy, lost some Southern Conference prestige in that encounter and was hoping to come back against the Mountaineers.

Lee Oma Stops Gus Lesnevich In Garden Bout

Fight Is Halted in Fourth after Champ Suffers Gash under Eye

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Lee Oma, Detroit heavyweight with a clown style of fighting, gave Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich a thirtieth birthday present Gus didn't like tonight by stopping him after four rounds of a scheduled ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden. Oma scaled 189½; Lesnevich 183.

A sharp right cross opened a deep gash under Gus's left eye during the fourth heat after the two had battled on even terms through the early going. Dr. William Walker, New York State Athletic Commission physician, was called to examine the injury during the minute rest after the fourth round and ruled that the eye was cut too badly for the blond Russian from New Jersey to continue.

The deep cut, which streamed crimson through most of the fourth session and half-closed the eye, came during Oma's strongest rally of the bout after Lesnevich took a fast lead through the early going.

Before exploding the right on Lesnevich's eye, the rangy Detroiter had bounced a hard hook on Gus's chin that almost dropped the light heavyweight boss, who recovered after his gloved hands had hit the canvas.

Before that, though—and particularly in the first and second rounds—Lesnevich got off to a flying start as he made not only his birthday outing, but also his first trip to the post in New York since his recent discharge from the Coast Guard after four years in service.

Oma Has Clownish Style

For a time he appeared to have the combination to beat Oma's clownlike style of beak-busting, which consists largely in galloping around the rings, hands at his sides, and suddenly flicking out long arms from all manner of unorthodox positions.

Gus opened up by patiently stalling Oma and banging away with solid smashes, notably block-buster hooks, to the ribs and body. This system worked as if Gus had written the book through the first and second heats. One heavy-handed hook under the heart late in the second round slithered Oma three quarters of the way across the ring.

But with the start of the third, Oma began finding the range with his long, flicking stabs, beating Gus to the punch as the light heavyweight boss, although shorter by inches and outweighed by 6 1-2 pounds, tried to work his way in close. Near the end of the session, Oma suddenly pulled the trigger on his right cross and one caught Lesnevich full on the whiskers and made Gus blink momentarily.

Lee kept it up through the fourth, finally connecting with the solid right that sliced the wicked gash under Gus's eye that ended the fight.

Wins Seventh Straight

For Oma it marked his seventh straight victory over the past year and moved him well up in the heavyweight ranks. For Lesnevich it was an inauspicious start to his campaign which he hopes will eventually get him a shot at Joe Louis. Until tonight, he had planned to make one defense of his light heavyweight crown, then move in among the big boys. Oma may have changed the script tonight.

Twelve May Start In Hialeah Event

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP) — The richest pot o gold in Flamingo history, with upwards of $30,000 at the end of the rainbow, will await the winner at Hialeah park tomorrow in Florida's "preview" of the Kentucky Derby.

Twelve speedsters, including a lone filly, are tentatively slated to go to the post in the mile and one-eighth test for three-year-olds, and the experts tonight were puzzled over what they termed the most wide-open scramble since the classic was inaugurated 20 years ago.

Barring eleventh hour scratches, the 1946 Flamingo will gross $41,250 and net the winning owner $30,250.

On paper, the "big four" of the race are Wee Admiral, son of the great War Admiral; Walter P. Chrysler's Cedar Creek, Hal Price Headley's Pellicle, and Laddie Sanford's Round View.

Nations Track Stars Vie in National AAU

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Three of the season's brightest track stars—undefeated in four major appearances—will lay their perfect records on the line tomorrow night in the fifty-eighth annual National AAU indoor championships at Madison Square Garden.

The unbeaten trio is Leslie MacMitchell in the mile, Fred Sickinger in the 1,000 and Elmore Harris in the 60.

Among the 225 individual contestants entered from 20 states, the District of Columbia, Canada and France, are thirty-eight present and former national champions and twenty seven relay teams.

Walters Faces Uphill Comeback This Spring Due to Sore Arm

By JACK HAND

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Bucky Walters, one of the best right handed pitchers in baseball, faces an uphill comeback struggle this spring for the first time in his career because of a mysteriously sore arm.

The 35-year-old Cincinnati hurler hasn't been able to throw hard overhand since the last pitch of a game against St. Louis last July.

"Nothing happened to the arm," recalled Walters. "I didn't pull it or anything, nothing silly. It just felt tired and I remember thinking to myself that it was a good thing I didn't have to throw any more that day.

"Two days later it pained so much I couldn't throw; the doc told me I wouldn't do much more pitching all season and he was right. Right now I still don't know. It feels okay but I should know for sure in a couple of weeks."

Walters led the league with a sparkling 23-8 record in 1944 but after winning eight or nine last year in the early season, trailed off to wind up with a 10-10 mark. Even so he was fourth in earned run averages at 2.68.

During the winter X-rays failed to reveal any chipped bones or bursitis, in fact failed to show anything out of the ordinary. Walters took diathermy treatments which have helped. He came down to Florida early to help Bobby Feller in his school for ex-GI's but didn't throw hard or often.

The question mark is still there. If Walters can be counted upon again for a regular turn on the hill every fourth day, the Reds's chances of climbing out of seventh place will be so much brighter.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

NICHOLSON IS HOLDOUT

CHICAGO, Feb. 22 (AP) — Bill Nicholson, right fielder with the Chicago Cubs, joined the holdout ranks today. Nicholson, 1944 National League home run champion, said over the long distance telephone at his home in Chestertown, Md., that he had returned his 1946 contract a second time. He said he would "sit it out" until the Cubs readjust the monetary figure.

The southpaw hitter slumped to .243 last season.

ERNIE LOMBARDI ARRIVES

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Catcher Ernie Lombardi arrived at the New York Giants' training camp today as Manager Mel Ott put four ball clubs on the field in a morning-afternoon doubleheader, with two teams of regulars facing each other in a six-inning forenoon tilt.

Marvin Grissom, rookie pitcher, was the only moundsman to go three innings without allowing a hit.

DYKES GOES "HOLLYWOOD"

NEWHOUSER ACCEPTS TERMS

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—Hal Newhouser, Detroit Tiger's left-hand pitching ace who won 29 American league games in 1944 and 25 last year, ended his two-day hold-out today by accepting 1946 terms believed to make the 24-year-old blond the highest paid pitcher in baseball history.

Although no salary details of Newhouser's contract were announced, Hal, who had been determined to top the $42,500 reportedly being paid to Bob Feller by the Cleveland Indians, said after a telephone conversation with General Manager George M. Trautman that he was "completely satisfied" with his 1946 terms.

Rinaldo Ardizoia pitched the first five innings for the Yankees and held the losers to four hits and two runs. Johnny Maldovan hurled the remaining four rounds.

"Ike" Williams Scores Over Ace Miller

DETROIT, Feb. 22 (AP) — Methodical Ike Williams, Trenton, N. J., puncher who holds the lightweight championship of the National Boxing Association, took an unanimous 10-round decision tonight from Ace Miller, Toledo, Ohio, but had to chase the Toledoan all over the Olympia ring for the last five rounds to land any licks.

Williams, who weighed 137 pounds to Miller's 140, started slowly and let the Toledoan stagger him with a hard right to the head in the second round before the champion went to work.

Miller went down for the first time in his pro career from a right to the chin in the third round and took a count of nine.

Williams softened him up with powerful body blows in the sixth and Miller spent the rest of the evening trying to keep out of reach.

By CHICK HOSCH

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 22. (AP)—Ben Hogan, the long-knocking pro from Hershey, Pa., fired a 6-under par 66 today to take a two-stroke lead at the half way mark of the $7,500 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament with 135.

In second place with 137 are Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., and Freddie Haas Jr., of New Orleans, who had 68's today. Ray Mangrum, of Los Angeles, with a 67, and Harry Todd, of Dallas, with a 69, were next at 138.

On the other side of the picture, Elsworth Vines, of Chicago, the former tennis star, duplicated Hogan's score and moved into the select group at 142. Vines had a 76 in the first round.

Byron Nelson, the Toledo shotmaster, who took a disappointing round of 75 yesterday, came back today with a three-under 69 but is still far down the list.

Denny Shute, Akron, O., had 73-68—141.

Lions Atone for Defeat in Cumberland; Tucci Sets Scoring Pace with Ten Tallies

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Feb. 22—Piedmont high school's Lions staged a garison finish to nose out LaSalle high school, of Cumberland, here tonight by the score of 25 to 20 and thereby squared accounts for a 33-19 setback suffered on the Explorers' court earlier in the season.

LaSalle held a one-point edge going into the fourth quarter and then Lou Tucci, Piedmont guard, turned the tide by hooping a field goal that sent the Lions ahead never to be topped again.

Wolford and Carroll converted free throws and fielders by Tucci, Wolford and Tucci in that order sent Piedmont's lead up to seven points at 25-18 before Jack Steiner banged in the final twin-pointer of the game.

Tucci's two foul goals were the first points scored in the opening quarter at the close of which Piedmont held a 7-3 advantage. Midway in the second stanza Steiner's fielder knotted the count at 10-10. Baskets by Wolford and Hart again tied the score at 12-12 and Wolford's free throw gave the Lions a 13-12 edge at intermission.

Tommy Cloonan's fielder sent LaSalle out in front after 1:20 of the third period but Sayers's foul knotted the score at 14-14. Goals by Sayers and Steiner again tied things up at 16-16 and Steiner's one-pointer gave LaSalle a 17-16 edge at the whistle.

Tucci paced Piedmont to victory with ten tallies on four fielders and two fouls. Steiner and Hart accounted for 15 of LaSalle's 20 tallies. The latter was banished on personal fouls 20 seconds before the final whistle.

In the preliminary game the Piedmont junior varsity dropped an 18-14 decision to LaSalle's jayvees. The lineups:

Preakness May Become Richest American Race

Pimlico Event on May 11 Right Now Is Worth $114,620

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22 (AP)—Maryland's No. 1 horse race, the Preakness Stakes, began shaping up today as possibly the richest ever run on the American turf.

With 66 other three-year-olds currently eligible for the fifty-sixth renewal at Pimlico on May 11, the Preakness right now is worth $114,620 — richest in its history — the Maryland Jockey Club announced.

By the time the race is run, however, it is expected to be worth at least $140,000, which would surpass the 1938 Santa Anita Handicap, carrying a record gross of $137,550 when Stagehand won.

In the Preakness pit at present are $14,620 in eligibility and nomination fees paid under futurity conditions and the $100,000 purse added by the Jockey club. Only $50,000 was added previously.

Ten Horses May Start

The club said at least ten horses were expected to start in the race at a fee of $1,000 each, which would add $10,000 more to the pot. At least six supplementary entries at $3,000 each are expected by April 15, which would add $18,000 more.

Thus if ten start and six supplementary entries are named, the Preakness will carry a gross purse of $142,620, with the winner picking up a profit of more than $100,000.

The largest purse ever garnered by a Preakness winner was the $66,170 picked up last year by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian.

Mrs. Widener is not among the thirty-six owners represented in the current list of eligibles for the mile and three-sixteenth "center jewel" of the "triple crown."

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's Maine Chance Farm holds the top hand at present with eight eligibles, headed by the 1945 juvenile champions, the colt Star Pilot and the good filly, Beaugay.

Other Main Chance hopefuls include Lord Boswell, Knockdown and Colony Boy, which teamed with Star Pilot and Beaugay to win twenty-six races and earn $371,045 for Mrs. Graham last year.

F. W. Hooper, whose Hoop, Jr., won the Kentucky Derby and finished second in the Preakness last year, nominated two colts, Scholarity and Triumphal.

Bahram's Son Entered

Representing Alfred G. Vanderbilt's former Jockey club president, are Next and Newsprint. Next is a son of the famed Stallion Bahram and Now What, a juvenile champion of former years.

Four other sons of Bahram were nominated by Walter Chrysler. They are the speedy Cedar Creek, Menu, Trogon and Monstrance.

Warren Wright's Calumet farm, which won the 1941 Preakness with the great Whirlaway, has three eligibles, High Shine, in earnest and High Lea. Trainer Ben Jones is reported pointing High Shine for the Preakness.

William Helis, New Orleans sportsman, has five entries, while C. V. Whitney named four, three of them sons of the imported young sire, Mahmoud.

SPORTS FALLACIES

by MARGERY MILLER

The rules of baseball give directions for laying out a "diamond."

But just as "the ring" in which boxing takes place is actually a square, the "diamond" of baseball is a misnomer.

Sports reporters and radio announcers of baseball games continuously refer to what has happened or is happening "on the diamond."

The baseball diamond really is a square, too. A diamond-shaped area must have two acute and two obtuse angles. The baseball diamond has four right angles. It is a square set up on one of its points.

Although sports fans and commentators of today have lost sight of the true nature of the baseball diamond, the man who first drew it up knew what he was creating Alexander Cartwright, of New York City, termed his invention of the mid-nineteenth century a "baseball square."

Mr. Cartwright knew his geometry.

Mexican Promoter Sues Louis, Jacobs for $10,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22 (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and New York Boxing Promoter Mike Jacobs were sued for $10,000 today in a Superior court complaint filed by Mexican Promoter Ramon Reachi, who asserted they failed to abide by an agreement for an exhibition bout in Mexico City.

Reachi's complaint alleges Louis and Jacobs agreed last January the champion would appear in four two-minute rounds February 5 in the Mexican capital. Louis was to receive $10,000 plus forty-five per cent of the gross receipts, Reachi asserted.

Suffers Leg Injury

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP) — Lt. Cmdr. Charles Morgan of New Orleans, La., withdrew today from the National AAU indoor track and field championships to be held Saturday night at Madison Square Garden. Morgan notified meet officials he would not be able to compete in the 60-yard high hurdles because of a leg injury.

GALLANT CAMPAIGNER IS THROUGH

BULL REIGH, one of the gallant campaigners on the turf, is through. The eight-year-old horse finished with 33 wins and earnings of $183,330. He had many ups and downs, rising from the $1,500 claiming ranks to winner of $50,000 events. A month ago he beat his own world's record for the mile and a sixteenth. The Bull pulled up with a gimpy right foreleg, following the San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita.

Another Trainer Is Suspended By Mahoney

Charges Horse which Won at Pimlico Nov. 28 Was Stimulated

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman George P. Mahoney, saying that the Maryland Racing commission was "still in business," announced today the suspension of still another trainer, and set a hearing for March 22.

The trainer is Gordon H. Pearce, of Monkton, Md., handler of Mrs. Bruce Campbell's horse Silver Tower. Mahoney said a chemist's analysis disclosed traces of strychnine after the horse won the second race at Pimlico November 28, paying $18.60 for $2.

Pending final action by the commission, Pearce and all horses trained by him have been suspended, Mahoney said.

The commission's action which brought to nine the number of trainers suspended by the Maryland officials on stimulation charges since last fall, came in the face of Judge Emory H. Neles's declaratory judgment Wednesday that section (D) of the racing body's rule 146, holding trainers completely responsible if drugs are administered to horses in their care, was invalid and unconstitutional.

Mahoney said the commission would proceed against Pearce under other sections of the rule, including paragraph (A), which forbids any person to administer "or knowingly or carelessly permit to be administered" drugs to a horse within four hours of a race in which the horse is entered.

Analysis Shows Drug

The chairman's announcement said the analysis showing Silver Tower had been drugged presented a "prima facie violation of paragraphs A, B, C, E and F of Rule No. 146." All six sections of the rule deal with stimulation of horses.

Judge Niles's decision held that section (D) of the rule established a "conclusive presumption" of the trainer's guilt when evidence of stimulation was found.

Horsemen, eyeing the commission's use of the phrase "prima facie violation," guessed that the headings on Pearce would include evidence purporting to show either that Pearce was guilty of negligence in allowing Silver Tower to be drugged, or that he administered the drug personally or had it administered.

Under the voided section of the rule, no such evidence was necessary, as the mere presence of stimulants was considered "conclusive evidence of the trainer's complicity or negligence.

The announcement said Pearce was "entitled to be represented by counsel, to be confronted with the evidence on which the charges are based, and he will have the opportunity of testifying in his own behalf, or cross examining witnesses and of producing such other testimony as may be relevant x x x."

Judge Niles had held that previous hearings, under section (D), were unconstitutional because "where a presumption is made conclusive, it deprives the defendant of all opportunity to make a defense."

"The right to make a defense under reasonable conditions is a basic element of due process, and where a conclusive presumption of guilt is laid down, that right is taken away," he found.

Illness Delays Report

Mahoney said the report had been delayed by the chemist's illness, and had been further withheld pending Judge Niles's decision.

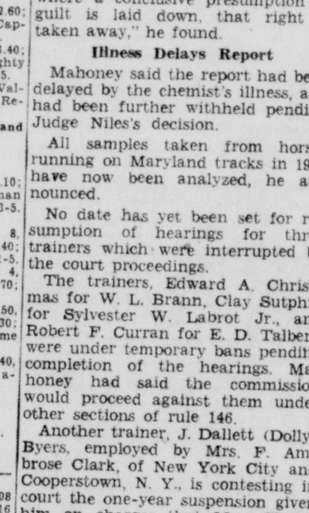

All samples taken from horses running on Maryland tracks in 1945 have now been analyzed, he announced.

No date has yet been set for resumption of hearings for three trainers which were interrupted by the court proceedings.

The trainers, Edward A. Christmas for W. L. Brann, Clay Sutphin for Sylvester W. Labrot Jr., and Robert F. Curran for E. D. Talbert, were under temporary bans pending completion of the hearings. Mahoney had said the commission would proceed against them under other sections of rule 146.

Another trainer, J. Dallett (Dolly) Byers, employed by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, of New York City and Cooperstown, N. Y., is contesting in court the one-year suspension given him on charges that Mrs. Clark's horse Cosey was stimulated last fall. A decision is expected in his case soon.

GETS BIG CHANCE

The Baffled Mr. Dyer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 22.—It is easy enough to understand why Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is wishing he was another Argus with at least a hundred eyes. Also a centipede with a hundred feet. The time is getting shorter when Eddie, in conjunction with owner Sam Breadon, must decide which of his able athletes he is to retain and which ones he is to bid good-bye and sell to other clubs.

Eddie might even recall the opening lines from a rather well-known old verse—

I looked at Sam—and Sam looked at me."

In the next few weeks he must keep close enough to his squad of fifty-odd players to be sure he keeps the best ones, and entirely too many are running neck and neck, all set for a photo finish. He doesn't care to keep a lemon and sell an orange.

"I wouldn't like," he said, "to sell or trade some player all set for a big year and keep someone who didn't look so hot later on.

"We are not trying to unload punks on any body, for most of those we have on hand are good ball players. I could use most of them myself if I only had room enough. But I haven't much time left in which to be sure.

27 Pitchers Enrolled

"My main problem is the pitching end. We have twenty-seven pitchers enrolled. Last season Billy Southworth got most of his work from eight men—Brecheen, Burkhardt, Barrett, Byerly, Dickson, Dockins and Donnelly. Max Lanier only worked four games.

"Added to this list, which turned in a good job, we'll have Beazley, Brazle, Pollet, Grodzicki, Krist, Munger, White, and several others. I only wish Munger was out of the service. There's a great guy and a swell pitcher. When the season opens I'd like to have ten or twelve good pitchers on hand, maybe more. This means we will have at least ten pitchers that must be sold or traded to other clubs. Some of these pitchers will be a big help to these other clubs, and that will be a good thing for the league and the race. But naturally I'd like to keep ones we'll need most, the ones who can do us more good, and that's where the worry enters."

It strikes us however that Eddie Dyer's problem isn't quite as acute as that of other managers who need a few of these Cardinal pitchers badly. Neither Giants nor Dodgers are any too robust in the box.

Infield and Outfield

"Last season," Dyer continued, "most of our infield work was handled by Sanders, Verban, Marion and Kurowski. That isn't a bad infield, as infields go. We still have Klein, Crespi, and a few others who can help, but we haven't many infielders we can turn loose. Our main outfielders were Schoendienst, Hopp, Adams and Bergamo. But in the service, among others, we had Terry Moore, Musial, Litwhiler, Slaughter, Harry Walker and others. We could dig up a good outfield from either collection, although no one can say when Stan Musial will return. Hopp has already gone to the Braves."

Suppose you had to pick an outfield from this group, before you started selling some talent—Moore, Slaughter, Musial, Schoendienst, Adams, Walker, Litwhiler, and two or three others? Some other ball club is going to get two or three highly valuable outfielders before May.

"I was with my brothers in a good business in Houston, and we were doing all right. But my two brothers are hot baseball fans and they made me take the job, especially with the chance for another world series shot.

"Maybe they wanted to be sure of getting their world series," I suggested.

Competition Is Harder

"Maybe," Eddie replied. "But we haven't won this pennant yet and this is going to be a pretty odd sort of a year. Don't forget that Walker Cooper won't be with us, and a Walker Cooper can mean a lot. Some of the pitchers we keep may get sore arms or have an off year. And we'll have much harder competition to face. The others will all be better too, much better. We may even sell some of these players that will help them win the pennant."

Manager Dyer, who was a star halfback at Rice some years ago in that rugged Texas Circuit, still has this advantage over the others—he still has the ball players the others want—and he's smart enough to know pretty well the ones that will give him the strongest chance to win. There will be some gamble involved, but those on the outside looking in will have the bigger gamble to face.

Johnstown - LaSalle Game Sunday Opens Last Big Week of Season

Many Scholastic Quints To Conclude Regular Schedules

LaSalle's contest with Johnstown Catholic high school tomorrow at 3 p. m. on SS. Peter and Paul court marks the opening of the last big week of the 1945-46 basketball season in the tri-state district.

There will be a few scattered games of little importance after next week and then come the sectional tournaments in which West Virginia high schools will compete at Keyser and Parsons, March 8 and 9.

The LaSalle-Johnstown contest is billed as "LaSalle's Booster Game" and should attract a large crowd to the West Side gym. George Geatz, who served thirty-three months in the army, and recently rejoined the Explorers, will be honored on the occasion. Cliff Fearer and Clifton Van Roby will do the officiating. Vince Miller will referee the prelim between the LaSalle and Allegany alumni teams.

Keyser Tests Moorefield

Keyser's engagement with Moorefield at the latter place on Tuesday looms as one of the big games of the Potomac Valley Conference race in which Piedmont, Keyser and Moorefield are waging a hot duel for championship honors. If Keyser can take Ridgeley tonight and Moorefield on Tuesday and Piedmont hurdles Romney on Friday the two Mineral county teams will finish in a tie for first place with identical records of .800—eight wins and two losses each. However, if Moorefield tops Keyser the Yellowjackets will finish with the highest average if they play and defeat Petersburg in a return game.

Allegany's return battle at Ridgeley Tuesday night should be a humdinger. Ridgeley split even with Fort Hill, dropped a pair to LaSalle, the latter after a hectic struggle, and will be out to avenge at 41-22 walloping received at Campobello early in the campaign.

Davis high's Wildcats can finish in a tie with Thomas in the race for the Tucker county title by defeating Parsons on the latter's floor Friday while at Bedford, Pa., Coach Bruce Fisher's Bisons will be out to avenge a 38 to 33 defeat suffered in Johnstown when they meet Ferndale high in a return contest.

Potomac To End Season

Potomac State will conclude its 19-game schedule next week by playing two home contests. Coach Dana Lough's Catamounts will face Davis-Elkins college on Monday night and will play hosts to Newton D. Baker hospital, of Martinsburg, on Friday night. Then the Keyser cagers will mark time for the West Virginia college tournament scheduled for March 4 and 5.

Preakness May Become Richest American Race

Pimlico Event on May 11 Right Now Is Worth $114,620

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22 (AP)—Maryland's No. 1 horse race, the Preakness Stakes, began shaping up today as possibly the richest ever run on the American turf.

With 66 other three-year-olds currently eligible for the fifty-sixth renewal at Pimlico on May 11, the Preakness right now is worth $114,620 — richest in its history — the Maryland Jockey Club announced.

By the time the race is run, however, it is expected to be worth at least $140,000, which would surpass the 1938 Santa Anita Handicap, carrying a record gross of $137,550 when Stagehand won.

In the Preakness pit at present are $14,620 in eligibility and nomination fees paid under futurity conditions and the $100,000 purse added by the Jockey club. Only $50,000 was added previously.

Ten Horses May Start

The club said at least ten horses were expected to start in the race at a fee of $1,000 each, which would add $10,000 more to the pot. At least six supplementary entries at $3,000 each are expected by April 15, which would add $18,000 more.

Thus if ten start and six supplementary entries are named, the Preakness will carry a gross purse of $142,620, with the winner picking up a profit of more than $100,000.

The largest purse ever garnered by a Preakness winner was the $66,170 picked up last year by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian.

Mrs. Widener is not among the thirty-six owners represented in the current list of eligibles for the mile and three-sixteenth "center jewel" of the "triple crown."

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's Maine Chance Farm holds the top hand at present with eight eligibles, headed by the 1945 juvenile champions, the colt Star Pilot and the good filly, Beaugay.

Other Main Chance hopefuls include Lord Boswell, Knockdown and Colony Boy, which teamed with Star Pilot and Beaugay to win twenty-six races and earn $371,045 for Mrs. Graham last year.

F. W. Hooper, whose Hoop, Jr., won the Kentucky Derby and finished second in the Preakness last year, nominated two colts, Scholarity and Triumphal.

Bahram's Son Entered

Representing Alfred G. Vanderbilt's former Jockey club president, are Next and Newsprint. Next is a son of the famed Stallion Bahram and Now What, a juvenile champion of former years.

Four other sons of Bahram were nominated by Walter Chrysler. They are the speedy Cedar Creek, Menu, Trogon and Monstrance.

Warren Wright's Calumet farm, which won the 1941 Preakness with the great Whirlaway, has three eligibles, High Shine, in earnest and High Lea. Trainer Ben Jones is reported pointing High Shine for the Preakness.

William Helis, New Orleans sportsman, has five entries, while C. V. Whitney named four, three of them sons of the imported young sire, Mahmoud.

SPORTS FALLACIES

by MARGERY MILLER

The rules of baseball give directions for laying out a "diamond."

But just as "the ring" in which boxing takes place is actually a square, the "diamond" of baseball is a misnomer.

Sports reporters and radio announcers of baseball games continuously refer to what has happened or is happening "on the diamond."

The baseball diamond really is a square, too. A diamond-shaped area must have two acute and two obtuse angles. The baseball diamond has four right angles. It is a square set up on one of its points.

Although sports fans and commentators of today have lost sight of the true nature of the baseball diamond, the man who first drew it up knew what he was creating Alexander Cartwright, of New York City, termed his invention of the mid-nineteenth century a "baseball square."

Mexican Promoter Sues Louis, Jacobs for $10,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22 (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and New York Boxing Promoter Mike Jacobs were sued for $10,000 today in a Superior court complaint filed by Mexican Promoter Ramon Reachi, who asserted they failed to abide by an agreement for an exhibition bout in Mexico City.

Reachi's complaint alleges Louis and Jacobs agreed last January the champion would appear in four two-minute rounds February 5 in the Mexican capital. Louis was to receive $10,000 plus forty-five per cent of the gross receipts, Reachi asserted.

Suffers Leg Injury

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP) — Lt. Cmdr. Charles Morgan of New Orleans, La., withdrew today from the National AAU indoor track and field championships to be held Saturday night at Madison Square Garden. Morgan notified meet officials he would not be able to compete in the 60-yard high hurdles because of a leg injury.

GALLANT CAMPAIGNER IS THROUGH

BULL REIGH, one of the gallant campaigners on the turf, is through. The eight-year-old horse finished with 33 wins and earnings of $183,330. He had many ups and downs, rising from the $1,500 claiming ranks to winner of $50,000 events. A month ago he beat his own world's record for the mile and a sixteenth. The Bull pulled up with a gimpy right foreleg, following the San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita.

Another Trainer Is Suspended By Mahoney

Charges Horse which Won at Pimlico Nov. 28 Was Stimulated

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman George P. Mahoney, saying that the Maryland Racing commission was "still in business," announced today the suspension of still another trainer, and set a hearing for March 22.

The trainer is Gordon H. Pearce, of Monkton, Md., handler of Mrs. Bruce Campbell's horse Silver Tower. Mahoney said a chemist's analysis disclosed traces of strychnine after the horse won the second race at Pimlico November 28, paying $18.60 for $2.

Pending final action by the commission, Pearce and all horses trained by him have been suspended, Mahoney said.

The commission's action which brought to nine the number of trainers suspended by the Maryland officials on stimulation charges since last fall, came in the face of Judge Emory H. Neles's declaratory judgment Wednesday that section (D) of the racing body's rule 146, holding trainers completely responsible if drugs are administered to horses in their care, was invalid and unconstitutional.

Mahoney said the commission would proceed against Pearce under other sections of the rule, including paragraph (A), which forbids any person to administer "or knowingly or carelessly permit to be administered" drugs to a horse within four hours of a race in which the horse is entered.

Analysis Shows Drug

The chairman's announcement said the analysis showing Silver Tower had been drugged presented a "prima facie violation of paragraphs A, B, C, E and F of Rule No. 146." All six sections of the rule deal with stimulation of horses.

Judge Niles's decision held that section (D) of the rule established a "conclusive presumption" of the trainer's guilt when evidence of stimulation was found.

Horsemen, eyeing the commission's use of the phrase "prima facie violation,' guessed that the' headings on Pearce would include evidence purporting to show either that Pearce was guilty of negligence in allowing Silver Tower to be drugged, or that he administered the drug personally or had it administered.

Under the voided section of the rule, no such evidence was necessary, as the mere presence of stimulants was considered "conclusive evidence of the trainer's complicity or negligence.

The announcement said Pearce was "entitled to be represented by counsel, to be confronted with the evidence on which the charges are based, and he will have the opportunity of testifying in his own behalf, or cross examining witnesses and of producing such other testimony as may be relevant x x x.'

Judge Niles had held that previous hearings, under section (D), were unconstitutional because "where a presumption is made conclusive, it deprives the defendant of all opportunity to make a defense."

"The right to make a defense under reasonable conditions is a basic element of due process, and where a conclusive presumption of guilt is laid down, that right is taken away," he found.

Illness Delays Report

Mahoney said the report had been delayed by the chemist's illness, and had been further withheld pending Judge Niles's decision.

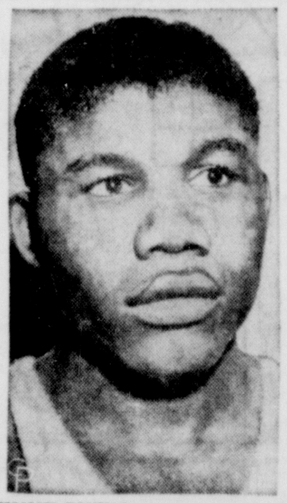

All samples taken from horses running on Maryland tracks in 1945 have now been analyzed, he announced.

No date has yet been set for resumption of hearings for three trainers which were interrupted by the court proceedings.

The trainers, Edward A. Christmas for W. L. Brann, Clay Sutphin for Sylvester W. Labrot Jr., and Robert F. Curran for E. D. Talbert, were under temporary bans pending completion of the hearings. Mahoney had said the commission would proceed against them under other sections of rule 146.

Another trainer, J. Dallett (Dolly) Byers, employed by Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, of New York City and Cooperstown, N. Y., is contesting in court the one-year suspension given him on charges that Mrs. Clark's horse Cosey was stimulated last fall. A decision is expected in his case soon.

GETS BIG CHANCE

The Baffled Mr. Dyer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 22.—It is easy enough to understand why Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is wishing he was another Argus with at least a hundred eyes. Also a centipede with a hundred feet. The time is getting shorter when Eddie, in conjunction with owner Sam Breadon, must decide which of his able athletes he is to retain and which ones he is to bid good-bye and sell to other clubs.

Eddie might even recall the opening lines from a rather well-known old verse—

"Which shall it be? Which shall it be?

I looked at Sam—and Sam looked at me."

In the next few weeks he must keep close enough to his squad of fifty-odd players to be sure he keeps the best ones, and entirely too many are running neck and neck, all set for a photo finish. He doesn't care to keep a lemon and sell an orange.

"I wouldn't like," he said, "to sell or trade some player all set for a big year and keep someone who didn't look so hot later on.

"We are not trying to unload punks on any body, for most of those we have on hand are good ball players. I could use most of them myself if I only had room enough. But I haven't much time left in which to be sure.

27 Pitchers Enrolled

"My main problem is the pitching end. We have twenty-seven pitchers enrolled. Last season Billy Southworth got most of his work from eight men—Brecheen, Burkhardt, Barrett, Byerly, Dickson, Dockins and Donnelly. Max Lanier only worked four games.

"Added to this list, which turned in a good job, we'll have Beazley, Brazle, Pollet, Grodzicki, Krist, Munger, White, and several others. I only wish Munger was out of the service. There's a great guy and a swell pitcher. When the season opens I'd like to have ten or twelve good pitchers on hand, maybe more. This means we will have at least ten pitchers that must be sold or traded to other clubs. Some of these pitchers will be a big help to these other clubs, and that will be a good thing for the league and the race. But naturally I'd like to keep ones we'll need most, the ones who can do us more good, and that's where the worry enters."

It strikes us however that Eddie Dyer's problem isn't quite as acute as that of other managers who need a few of these Cardinal pitchers badly. Neither Giants nor Dodgers are any too robust in the box.

Infield and Outfield

"Last season," Dyer continued, "most of our infield work was handled by Sanders, Verban, Marion and Kurowski. That isn't a bad infield, as infields go. We still have Klein, Crespi, and a few others who can help, but we haven't many infielders we can turn loose. Our main outfielders were Schoendienst, Hopp, Adams and Bergamo. But in the service, among others, we had Terry Moore, Musial, Litwhiler, Slaughter, Harry Walker and others. We could dig up a good outfield from either collection, although no one can say when Stan Musial will return. Hopp has already gone to the Braves."

Suppose you had to pick an outfield from this group, before you started selling some talent—Moore, Slaughter, Musial, Schoendienst, Adams, Walker, Litwhiler, and two or three others? Some other ball club is going to get two or three highly valuable outfielders before May.

"I was with my brothers in a good business in Houston, and we were doing all right. But my two brothers are hot baseball fans and they made me take the job, especially with the chance for another world series shot.

"Maybe they wanted to be sure of getting their world series," I suggested.

Competition Is Harder

"Maybe," Eddie replied. "But we haven't won this pennant yet and this is going to be a pretty odd sort of a year. Don't forget that Walker Cooper won't be with us, and a Walker Cooper can mean a lot. Some of the pitchers we keep may get sore arms or have an off year. And we'll have much harder competition to face. The others will all be better too, much better. We may even sell some of these players that will help them win the pennant."

Manager Dyer, who was a star halfback at Rice some years ago in that rugged Texas Circuit, still has this advantage over the others—he still has the ball players the others want—and he's smart enough to know pretty well the ones that will give him the strongest chance to win. There will be some gamble involved, but those on the outside looking in will have the bigger gamble to face.

Johnstown - LaSalle Game Sunday Opens Last Big Week of Season

Many Scholastic Quints To Conclude Regular Schedules

LaSalle's contest with Johnstown Catholic high school tomorrow at 3 p. m. on SS. Peter and Paul court marks the opening of the last big week of the 1945-46 basketball season in the tri-state district.

There will be a few scattered games of little importance after next week and then come the sectional tournaments in which West Virginia high schools will compete at Keyser and Parsons, March 8 and 9.

The LaSalle-Johnstown contest is billed as "LaSalle's Booster Game" and should attract a large crowd to the West Side gym. George Geatz, who served thirty-three months in the army, and recently rejoined the Explorers, will be honored on the occasion. Cliff Fearer and Clifton Van Roby will do the officiating. Vince Miller will referee the prelim between the LaSalle and Allegany alumni teams.

Keyser Tests Moorefield

Keyser's engagement with Moorefield at the latter place on Tuesday looms as one of the big games of the Potomac Valley Conference race in which Piedmont, Keyser and Moorefield are waging a hot duel for championship honors. If Keyser can take Ridgeley tonight and Moorefield on Tuesday and Piedmont hurdles Romney on Friday the two Mineral county teams will finish in a tie for first place with identical records of .800—eight wins and two losses each. However, if Moorefield tops Keyser the Yellowjackets will finish with the highest average if they play and defeat Petersburg in a return game.

Allegany's return battle at Ridgeley Tuesday night should be a humdinger. Ridgeley split even with Fort Hill, dropped a pair to LaSalle, the latter after a hectic struggle, and will be out to avenge at 41-22 walloping received at Campobello early in the campaign.

The WMI season draws to a close on Wednesday when Fort Hill plays off a postponed game at Barton.

Davis high's Wildcats can finish in a tie with Thomas in the race for the Tucker county title by defeating Parsons on the latter's floor Friday while at Bedford, Pa., Coach Bruce Fisher's Bisons will be out to avenge a 38 to 33 defeat suffered in Johnstown when they meet Ferndale high in a return contest.

Potomac To End Season

Potomac State will conclude its 19-game schedule next week by playing two home contests. Coach Dana Lough's Catamounts will face Davis-Elkins college on Monday night and will play hosts to Newton D. Baker hospital, of Martinsburg, on Friday night. Then the Keyser cagers will mark time for the West Virginia college tournament scheduled for March 4 and 5.

Four Mayoralty And 13 Council Candidates File

Frank J. Mackert Is Last Person To Formally Enter City Primary

A thirteenth candidate for city council, Frank J. Mackert, 619 Columbia avenue, obtained petition papers from Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk, late yesterday afternoon and returned the completed petitions shortly after 8 p. m., four hours before the deadline for filing, to become the last official candidate to enter the council race.

Police and Fire Commissioner James Orr failed to enter the council race for re-election. Orr had indicated previously that he might not seek re-election because of his health.

Helfrich Files Papers

Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich became the fourth official candidate for mayor when he filed his petitions at noon yesterday. Two candidates for council who filed their papers yesterday were De Lisle E. Chaney and Gordon B. Griffin.

Mackert, a native of McKeesport, Pa., came to Cumberland with his family at the age of 7, and has resided here since. He is a graduate of SS. Peter and Paul parochial school and served in France in 1918 as a sergeant with the Five Hundred Thirty-eighth engineers.

For twenty-eight years he was employed by the Liberty Hardware Company here, and he has been working in the spinning department of the Celanese plant for more than two years. He is the local representative of the Kalamazoo Sales and Service Company, Somerset, Pa., which sells furnaces and heating equipment.

Mackert is a member of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America. This is his first candidacy for city office.

List of Candidates

The names of four candidates for mayor and thirteen for city council will appear on the ballot at the primary election Tuesday, March 5, when two candidates for mayor and eight for city council will be nominated. The general election will be held March 19.

Candidates for mayor are Frank J. Davis, 613 Maryland avenue; Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich, 727 Sylvan avenue; Commissioner William E. McDonald, 1 Boone street; and Mayor Thomas S. Post, 512 Louisiana avenue, who is seeking re-election.

The thirteen candidates for city council whose names will appear on the primary ballot are Cleveland T. Albright, 121 Hanover street; De Lisle E. Chaney, 1130 Bedford street; Commissioner William J. Edwards, 225 Columbia street, who is seeking re-election after four successive terms as water commissioner; Clifton E. Fuller, 624 Elm street; Gordon B. Griffin, 19 Wempe drive; H. Frank Hinze, 1907 Bedford street.

Can Register Monday

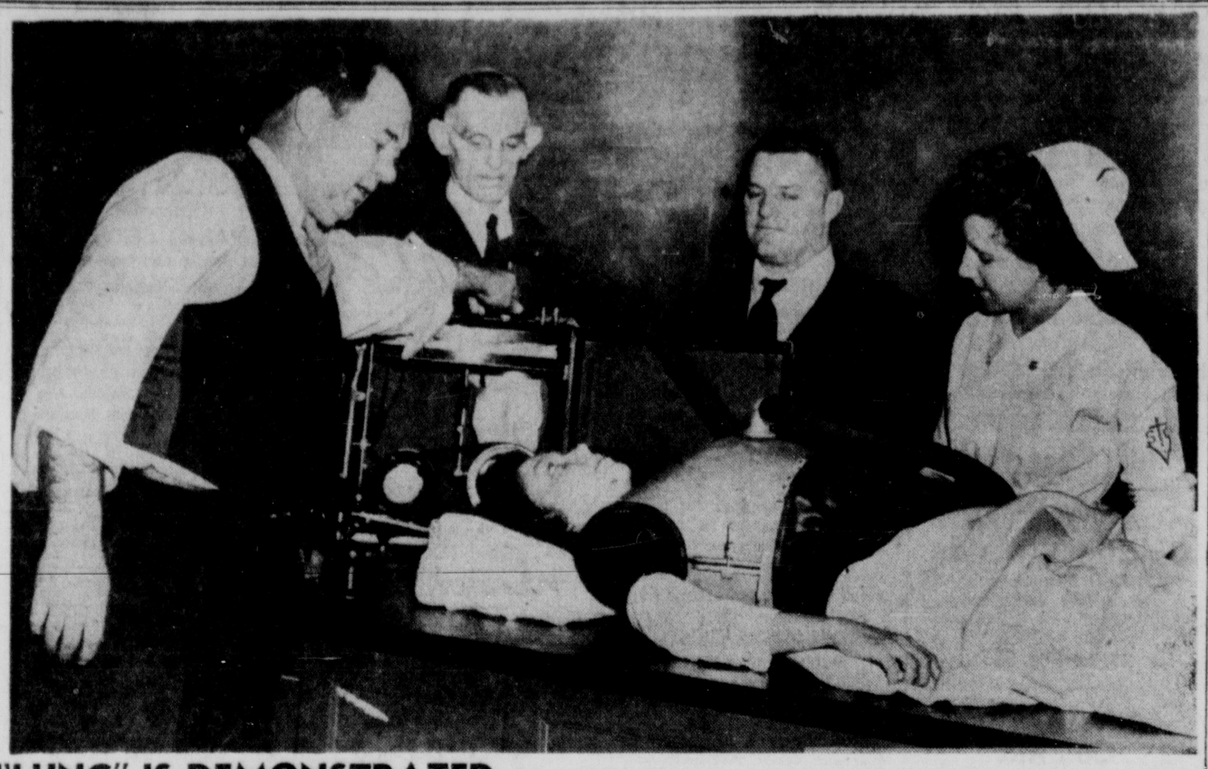

A check of the city clerk's records revealed that there were also thirteen candidates for city council in the 1944 primary, while no primary was held for the mayoralty that year because only two candidates filed for mayor, Thomas F. Conlon and Mayor Post.

In 1942 there were eight candidates for city council and two for mayor, Conlon and Post, making it unnecessary to hold a primary election.

The city clerk pointed out that this is the first time in eight years that four candidates have filed for the mayoralty nomination. In 1938 the four candidates were John N. Bourckel, Thomas W. Koon, Harry W. Matheney and Frank H. White. Fifteen candidates filed for city council that year.

The highest number of candidates to enter the city council race in recent years was a total of nineteen in 1936. In that year Koon was unopposed in the mayoralty race.

The twenty polling places in the city will be open Monday from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. on the second and final registration day for new voters. Last Monday 380 new voters registered to vote in the coming election.

Two Persons Are Injured in Blast At Bowling Green

Alfred Kasubick, 34, 24 North Lee Street, Is Badly Burned

A local man was seriously burned and a LaVale man was slightly injured yesterday afternoon as a result of an explosion which occurred while the workmen were repairing refrigeration machinery in a Bowling Green grocery store.

The injured man, Alfred Kasubick, 34, 24 North Lee street, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday at 4:45 o'clock suffering from second degree burns of the face, arms, legs and body.

Attaches reported his condition at 10 p. m., as still "fair."

Is Slightly Injured

Kasubick, an employe of Showman's Refrigeration Service, 328 Reservoir avenue, attaches were told, was repairing some equipment in the Assif grocery store, Bowling Green, when the accident occurred.

Thomas Assif, proprietor of the store, said last evening he was in the store when the explosion occurred and that the workmen were repairing the compressor of a meat cooler in the basement.

The Bowling Green man added he heard a noise like an explosion and soon discovered the basement was on fire. The blast, he explained, blew off the garage and a back door of the basement and caused a slight amount of fire damage.

Praises Firemen

Assif praised the work of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company which, he said, soon had the blaze under control.

E. F. Showman, manager of the refrigeration service, said the blast might have resulted from an accumulation of gas from a water heater in the basement, adding that the pilot light might have blown out in the wind.

Showman said the machine the men were working on was not yet wired and that the blast could not have resulted from that cause.

Militant Elephant's Head Given To South End Republican Club

The big organization now has 455 members and practically all of them were present last night at the club rooms at 222 Virginia avenue for the reception.

The flag from Washintgon was presented to the organization by Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth congressional district, with the congressman's compliments and best wishes for a successful year.

Used Celluloid Model

The life-size elephant's head, which, which will have a prominent position on the wall of the clubroom, was designed by J. Millard Hughes, who has produced a number of realistic mechanical jobs in the last twenty years including a full-sized elephant for the Republican Club of Frostburg.

Hughes used a miniature celluloid model in designing his latest piece of work which was made out of wood, wire, paper, paste and paint.

Have Shrimp Feed

The officers of the club last night served as a special reception committee. The officers are Victor M. Hebb, president, Jerry Beeche, vice president; George P. Wolford, secretary, and Bert Brown, treasurer.

Edgar M. Lewis, an active member of the club and a member of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, was in charge of a special entertainment committee.

A feature of the reception was the serving of 200 pounds of steamed shrimp cooked by Gus Hebb, a professional cook. Other refreshments included ham and cheese sandwiches and beer.

3 Men Are Killed And Two Injured In Auto Wreck

Army Captain and Two Students Die on Pennsylvania Turnpike

A United States Army captain and two University of Michigan dental students were killed and two other dental students were injured yesterday at 3 a. m. when their car skidded on an "icy bump" on the Pennsylvania superhighway and overturned sixteen miles west of Bedford, Pa., state police reported.

The dead are:

Muriel S. Kleinwaks, Hillside, N. J.

Ralph G. Norbert, Kingston, Pa.

Two other students, Charles Jaslow, the Bronx, N. Y., and Burke Gaster, Brooklyn, N. Y., were admitted to Timmons hospital, Bedford, for treatment. The condition of both men was reported as "fair" at the hospital last night.

Deaths of the three men increased to eight the number killed in the same vicinity of the turnpike in less than a month and added more weight to the nickname, "Death Valley," fast becoming attached to the superhighway. Five sailors were killed instantly on January 23 eighteen miles west of Bedford when their car hit a concrete bridge abutment.

Police said Kleinwaks, Norbert, Jaslow and Gaster were riding together when their automobile hit the rear of a pickup truck near Somerset, Pa., before the fatal accident occurred. State police said Jaslow was driving their car at this time.

Shortly after this accident happened, the army officer, riding alone, reached the scene, stopped, and found that he had served overseas in the army with three of the four men in the damaged automobile, police said. They added that Norbert, Jaslow and Gaster were former army officers and had served with the unidentified officer.

The latter suggested that Norbert, Jaslow, Gaster and Kleinwaks drive to New York with him and all entered his automobile to continue the trip. The five men were riding in the same car when the fatal crash occurred sixteen miles west of Bedford.

Wilt Recommends That 500 Homes Be Erected Here

Believes Veterans and Families Should Have Preference in Buying

Construction of 500 low and moderate cost homes must be started in Cumberland this year, James C. Wilt, commander of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, stated yesterday.

Wilt said he has recommended to the community housing committee, which he heads, that the problem of establishing a housing project be studied and acted upon as soon as possible, to relieve the present acute housing shortage.

Veterans and their families would be given preference in the rental or purchase of these homes, Wilt said, but he also stated that non-veterans who are in urgent need of housing would also be given an opportunity to buy or rent homes in the proposed housing projects.

Will Seek Co-operation

Also included in the program of emergency measures which Wilt has recommended to the committee is the postponement of all deferrable and non-essential construction for the remainder of this year to release material and labor for the veterans' housing project.

Federal and city co-operation must be sought in the development of home sites, and a sufficient number of lots must be provided so that veterans' housing may go forward without delay, the chairman said. The present number of lots in the city which have sewer, water and other facilities is far short of requirements for the proposed project, he added.

"It may prove necessary for the government to assist in the development of sites," Wilt said. "No program of this kind can be directed from Washington alone. We are going to need the advice and active participation of community leaders in our city."

He stated that he plans to confer with Leo H. McCormick, state OPA director, when the latter visits Cumberland Monday to address the county OPA information panel. The subject of the discussion will be possible adjustments of rentals so that persons having available accommodations will be encouraged to rent them.

200 Persons Register

Wilt, who is manager of the community housing office at city hall, reported that over 200 persons have registered at the office, with only a few of that number non-veterans. Twenty-three veterans' families have been placed, and four homes have been purchased by ex-servicemen through the assistance of the office.

Commenting on the interest which has been shown in the activities of the office, Wilt said that he received a letter yesterday from a Baltimore woman who formerly resided in Cumberland, stating that she wished to register at the office to find living quarters here. She said that her husband will be discharged from the navy March 15 and that she and their two children will come to Cumberland with him when he returns to his job at the Celanese plant.

Cumberland Lodge Will Entertain Grand Exalted Ruler on Thursday

Wade H. Kepner Is Coming Here To Discuss Activities of the Order

Wade H. Kepner, of Wheeling, W. Va., grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which has a membership of more than 750,000, will make his first official visit to Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, Thursday, February 28, to discuss postwar conditions and to announce new peacetime activities of the order, according to an announcement made yesterday by Harry I. Stegmaier, exalted ruler of the local lodge.

Visitors from various lodges in this section are expected to attend the meeting which will be held at the Elks club, 114 South Centre street beginning at 8:30 o'clock. An ox roast and social hour will follow the business session. He will be accompanied to Cumberland by Richard T. McCreary, Wellsburg, W. Va., district deputy for West Virginia, North, and Ray C. Heinlein, Sistersville, W. Va., secretary to the grand exalted ruler. Heinlein is a past president of the West Virginia Elks Association.

Stresses Hospital Program

The great expansion of the order's hospital program to meet the needs of the vast numbers of wounded veterans who are returning every day will be stressed by Kepner in his address to the assembled Elks. Through this program, games, athletic equipment and entertainment are provided for wounded veterans in 300 hospitals all over the country.

The latest activity undertaken by the order is the establishment of veteran rehabilitation committees in all lodges to give assistance and advice to veterans seeking employment or loans.

Many of the Elks' faternal centers, of which 155 were established during the war in key cities for the entertainment and comfort of servicemen and women before they went overseas, will be maintained to receive them on their return home.

During the war, a large number of army engineers, navy seabees, and navy air cadets and army nurses were recruited through the efforts of Elks. The Cumberland lodge conducted refresher coudses for air cadets and a number of the young men who took the courses here later became top-notch pilots. At present the local lodge is continuing a successful drive to recruit nurses for Veterans' Administration hospitals.

Born In Wheeling

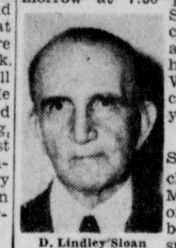

Born in Wheeling July 11, 1902, Kepner is the first member from West Virginia to become grand exalted ruler, the highest office in the order. This week Kepner has been visiting lodges in New England states.

Monday he will visit the Baltimore lodge, on Tuesday he will be in Washington and Wednesday he will be the guest of Elks at the Martinsburg, W. Va., lodge. Kepner and his party will arrive here shortly before noon Thursday and will go to Central YMCA where he will be the principal speaker at the meeting or the Cumberand Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m.

Sloan Will Speak In Centre Street Church Sunday

Former Judge Will Discuss "Brotherhood Week"

Persons of all faiths are invited to attend a layman's meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. 12 Centre Street Methodist church, in observance of Brotherhood week, Dr. Walter M. Michael, pastor, said yesterday.

D. Lindley Sloan

D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, will be the principal speaker and will discuss the topic of brotherhood.

Brotherhood week is being sponsored throughout the country by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Former Judge Sloan is chairman of the men's group of the Allegany county roundtable of the conference.

Other members of the men's group are William C. Walsh and Milton Bernstein. Mrs. Walter C. Capper is chairman of the women's committee in Allegany county. Other members are Mrs. Henry Mackey and Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum.

Dr. Michael said that tomorrow's meeting will be the concluding event to be sponsored by the church in observance of Brotherhood week. A similiar service was held last Sunday evening.

He announced that Centre Street Methodist church will observe "Layman's day" Sunday, March 3, when Judge C. W. Woodward, Rockville, a leading layman of that district and a judge of the Sixth judicial district, will discuss "The Place of the Layman in the Church." The service will begin at 11 a. m.

Booklets Will Be Distributed In Schools Here

Two hundred additional copies of a booklet distributed by the National Conference of Christians and Jews recently were ordered for use in the schools, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of education, announced yesterday.

The booklets entitled "Building Bridges" were written by John H. Elliott and concern bridging the gaps that exist between groups that differ in faith, race and culture. The booklets were originally presented to the school board by Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, a member of the local committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

As explained by Rizer, the booklets have been included in the texts studied in a course of English literature in the schools called "Men's Shrines".

Rizer pointed out that by the time high school students become juniors and seniors they develop a marked interest in religion and spiritual values not manifested by sophomores and freshmen.

Rizer said that Elliott's text worked in well with material presented to juniors and seniors in the literature classes as it is a broad-minded presentation of facts concerning the various religions and races of people who live in this country.

Health Building Program Stressed By Millholland

Is Principal Speaker at Presbyterian Dinner for Former Servicemen

Emphasizing the need for a health building program, for youths, boys and young men, and exclaiming that it is the duty of every American to encourage a strong and sufficient armed force to safeguard the peace, Lieut.-Col. Randolph Millholland said last night as he addressed a servicemen's fellowship dinner at First Presbyterian church, Washington street.

Col. Millholland related his experiences during the war, and presented a graphic word picture of American action and co-operation with her Allies in crushing the powerful German war machine. He praised the English, particularly for their hospitality, for their ability to "take it", and expressed the view that the English were more affected, and suffered more, than any other people in Europe. Millholland said he believes it is a duty, and the right thing, for Americans to do all they can for the British.

Men Give Dinner

The dinner was given by the Men's club of the church in honor of returned servicemen of the congregation. There were 105 present at the affair. The Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor, was toastmaster. He welcomed the returned servicemen and their hosts, and said that in his seventeen years experience, this was the largest gathering of men, at any social function of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Eisenberger presented W. B. Ludman, LaVale, superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday school, who described work and progress of the church school, and invited the men to participate in the Bible class taught each Sunday by Thomas Lohr Richards.

Edwin M. Burke, Washington street, a member of the board of trustees also expressed his pleasure at seeing so many men present. He talked briefly about progress made by the church, under the leadership of its pastor, during the war, and also welcomed the veterans. Burke commented upon the work done by those who remained at home, in meeting production schedules and setting records.

Religion Termed Important

He then emphasized the importance of religion in the American democracy. "Without religion", he stated, "we would have something akin to totalitarianism. So long as we place high values on our church, upon our religion and upon their part in our way of life, our problem, such as we see about us, will be overcome. As we enter this postwar period," he said, "it is increasingly important that we renew our faith in religion."

Edgar T. Duke, LaVale, accompanied by John S. Gridley, Lee street, at the piano, sang two baritone solos, entitled, "Boots", by Rudyard Kipling, and "Homing", by Arthur L. Salmon.

The dinner was prepared and served by a committee of women from the church with Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, Washington street in charge. Decorations, of a patriotic motif, were arranged by Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, the Dingle.

Use of Penicillin To Check Prenatal Syphilis Described

Copies of a letter describing experimental use of penicillin in the treatment of syphilis will be sent to all doctors in Allegany county, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin said that the letter contains recommendations made to Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the state department of health, by Dr. J. E. Moore and Dr. Nicholson J. Eastman of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, on the basis of their recent experimental work on the treatment of syphilis in pregnant women.

Experiments have shown that at least 98.7 per cent of pregnant syphilitic mothers who are properly treated with penicillin will give birth to children free from syphilis, the letter states.

If the mothers had not received the treatments, there would have been a ninety-five per cent probability that thei nfants would have been infected, with a large toll of miscarriage, stillbirth and living but infected children, the doctors stated.

Penicillin treatment of syphilitic pregnant women may be completed within a period of from ten to fifteen days, but the treatment must be carried out in a hospital, since injections of the drug must be administered at intervals of three hours, night and day, until the treatments are completed.

Drs. Moore and Eastman recommended that penicillin treatments replace metal chemotherapy, involving the used of arsenic and bismuth in the prevention of prenatal syphilis.

Rider, Hagerstown, AFL organizer, reported yesterday.

About sixty workers, formerly represented by Local 1140, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, will be eligible to vote in the election.

James H. Dean, president of the Utility Workers Union of America, CIO local here, said the workers have changed over to the CIO union and that the AFL group is opposing the change in affiliation.

According to the NLRB workers may choose between the AFL, CIO or no union.

Local Florist, Westernport Man Correct Impressions of Lebanon

By JAMES B. CRAIG

The back room of Edward Hebeeb's flower shop on North Mechanic street has always been recognized as a good place for lively conversation. When Frank Lee Carl was alive he frequently dropped in to sit in the easy chair at the desk in the corner, where he argued with the genial proprietor as the latter busied himself arranging batches of flowers to be sent to Allegany or Memorial hospital patients.

Recently, the proprietor and Nurse Mansor, Westernport, gave this reporter both barrels in that back room over a story he wrote a few weeks ago which contained information he had culled from library books about the Republic of Lebanon. And since Habeeb and Mansor are both intimately acquainted with Lebanon and all the reporter knows about it is what he read out of a book, the reporter decided he had better listen and learn.

It all started when the reporter dug out a will at the court house in which it was noted that a Westernport veteran of World War I, an Asyrian by birth, had bequeathed $17,000 to a Mrs. Nemnem Nasef, a widow, and the veteran's sole heir, who resides in the village of Knaysi, Lebanon. As a result, the reporter and one or two others at the court house became curious regarding what the Village of Knaysi might be like and what sort of an impact $17,000 would have there.

Books looked at in the library indicated that the impact of such a sum would probably be considerable as the cost of living, prices and wages all seemed to be quite low, at least before the war, compared to our standards.

Families Are Self-Sufficient

Actually, this sum of money would not create any such sensation as might be indicated, both Mansor and Habeeb declared. In the first place, families living in Lebanon are largely self-sufficient and live in stone ancestrial homes that have been handed down from generation to generation, they said. There are

Dr. Holtzapple, 83, made medical history sixty-one years ago by saving the life of a pneumonia sufferer, through use of oxygen. Dr. Holtzapple administered oxygen he generated with a bucket of water, an alcohol burner and other crude equipment. His patient was Fred Gable, Logansville, Pa., who still lives.

Myers said last night that Dr. Holtzapple had been in Cumberland on several occasions, but not since Myers moved here seventeen years ago. Myers said that he and his family visited the physician for many years and saw him not long ago. The aged physician had been active and had practiced medicine until last summer, Myers said.

Dr. Holtzapple, who was Myers's mother's brother is survived by his widow, Mrs. May Holtzapple, and one daughter, Gertrude.

Four Other Counties in Maryland Pay Teachers More Than Allegany

Statics released by the state board of education reveal that in the last quarter of a century Maryland has advanced from twentieth to seventh in the standings of states in regard to the average salary paid teachers.

The information shows that for the year 1943-44, the average in Maryland for teachers, principals and supervisors was $2,069. The average for Allegany county for the same term was $1,890 while the national average was $1,775.

Allegany Is Fifth

Allegany county ranks fifth in the state. The National Education Association advocates $2,500 as a desirable goal for teachers with adequate preparation and maturity.

The only states now paying teachings higher salaries than Maryland are New York, California, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Washington.

Outranking Allegany county in the state are Baltimore City, Montgomery, Baltimore and Washington counties.

Despite the fact that standards here are not as high as teachers would like them, Maryland has come a long way since 1919-20 when the county average was $773, the state average $902, with a national ranking of twentieth. The county figure rose to $1,347 by 1931-32 and stood at $1,506 in 1939-40.

The West Virginia scale has always been below that for Maryland. It was $920 in 1919-20 and was $1,508 in 1943-44. Pennsylvania was once ahead of Maryland as evidenced by the $920 average in 1919-20 and the $1,630 figure in 1931-32.

The average for county teachers last year was $1,983 and this year it will exceed $2,100, according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Montgomery Highest

The 1944-45 average for the four leading counties for elementary teachers was: Montgomery, $2,090, Baltimore $1,999, Washington $1,931, and Allegany $1,870. In the high school section the average was: Montgomery $2,374, Baltimore $2,393, Washington $2,340, and Alle-

Four Mayoralty And 13 Council Candidates File

Frank J. Mackert Is Last Person To Formally Enter City Primary

A thirteenth candidate for city council, Frank J. Mackert, 619 Columbia avenue, obtained petition papers from Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk, late yesterday afternoon and returned the completed petitions shortly after 8 p. m., four hours before the deadline for filing, to become the last official candidate to enter the council race.

Police and Fire Commissioner James Orr failed to enter the council race for re-election. Orr had indicated previously that he might not seek re-election because of his health.

Helfrich Files Papers

Commissioner Hunter B. Helfrich became the fourth official candidate for mayor when he filed his petitions at noon yesterday. Two candidates for council who filed their papers yesterday were De Lisle E. Chaney and Gordon B. Griffin.

Mackert, a native of McKeesport, Pa., came to Cumberland with his family at the age of 7, and has resided here since. He is a graduate of SS. Peter and Paul parochial school and served in France in 1918 as a sergeant with the Five Hundred Thirty-eighth engineers.

For twenty-eight years he was employed by the Liberty Hardware Company here, and he has been working in the spinning department of the Celanese plant for more than two years. He is the local representative of the Kalamazoo Sales and Service Company, Somerset, Pa., which sells furnaces and heating equipment.

Mackert is a member of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America. This is his first candidacy for city office.

Can Register Monday

A check of the city clerk's records revealed that there were also thirteen candidates for city council in the 1944 primary, while no primary was held for the mayoralty that year because only two candidates filed for mayor, Thomas F. Conlon and Mayor Post.

In 1942 there were eight candidates for city council and two for mayor, Conlon and Post, making it unnecessary to hold a primary election.

The city clerk pointed out that this is the first time in eight years that four candidates have filed for the mayoralty nomination. In 1938 the four candidates were John N. Bourckel, Thomas W. Koon, Harry W. Matheney and Frank H. White. Fifteen candidates filed for city council that year.

The highest number of candidates to enter the city council race in recent years was a total of nineteen in 1936. In that year Koon was unopposed in the mayoralty race.

The twenty polling places in the city will be open Monday from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. on the second and final registration day for new voters. Last Monday 380 new voters registered to vote in the coming election.

Two Persons Are Injured in Blast At Bowling Green

Alfred Kasubick, 34, 24 North Lee Street, Is Badly Burned

A local man was seriously burned and a LaVale man was slightly injured yesterday afternoon as a result of an explosion which occurred while the workmen were repairing refrigeration machinery in a Bowling Green grocery store.

The injured man, Alfred Kasubick, 34, 24 North Lee street, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday at 4:45 o'clock suffering from second degree burns of the face, arms, legs and body.

Attaches reported his condition at 10 p. m., as still "fair."

Is Slightly Injured

A fellow workman, Harry Schrug, LaVale, suffered a knee injury in the blast and subsequent fire but did not require hospitalization.

Kasubick, an employe of Showman's Refrigeration Service, 328 Reservoir avenue, attaches were told, was repairing some equipment in the Assif grocery store, Bowling Green, when the accident occurred.

Thomas Assif, proprietor of the store, said last evening he was in the store when the explosion occurred and that the workmen were repairing the compressor of a meat cooler in the basement.

The Bowling Green man added he heard a noise like an explosion and soon discovered the basement was on fire. The blast, he explained, blew off the garage and a back door of the basement and caused a slight amount of fire damage.

Praises Firemen

Assif praised the work of the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company which, he said, soon had the blaze under control.

E. F. Showman, manager of the refrigeration service, said the blast might have resulted from an accumulation of gas from a water heater in the basement, adding that the pilot light might have blown out in the wind.

Showman said the machine the men were working on was not yet wired and that the blast could not have resulted from that cause.

Hearing Is Planned On Union Recognition At Swift Plant Here

A hearing will be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board in Baltimore Tuesday evening on the recognition of Local 322, Butcher Workers Union, AFL, as the bargaining agent for workers of the Swift and Company branch plant here, William Krapf, president of the local, announced last evening.

The local will be represented by Michael Roth, Chicago, international representative of the union, the union official added.

The recently organized union plans an intensive organizing drive of meat cutters in this city and the Georges Creek area, Krapf said.

Militant Elephant's Head Given To South End Republican Club

A militant elephant's head and a large flag that until recently flew over the capitol dome in Washington last night were feature presentations at the reception for new members of the South End Republican Club.

The big organization now has 455 members and practically all of them were present last night at the club rooms at 222 Virginia avenue for the reception.

The flag from Washintgon was presented to the organization by Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth congressional district, with the congressman's compliments and best wishes for a successful year.

Used Celluloid Model

The life-size elephant's head, which, which will have a prominent position on the wall of the clubroom, was designed by J. Millard Hughes, who has produced a number of realistic mechanical jobs in the last twenty years including a full-sized elephant for the Republican Club of Frostburg.

Hughes used a miniature celluloid model in designing his latest piece of work which was made out of wood, wire, paper, paste and paint.

Have Shrimp Feed

The officers of the club last night served as a special reception committee. The officers are Victor M. Hebb, president, Jerry Beeche, vice president; George P. Wolford, secretary, and Bert Brown, treasurer.

Edgar M. Lewis, an active member of the club and a member of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, was in charge of a special entertainment committee.

A feature of the reception was the serving of 200 pounds of steamed shrimp cooked by Gus Hebb, a professional cook. Other refreshments included ham and cheese sandwiches and beer.

The National Labor Relations Board will hold a hearing in Baltimore Monday in order to set a date for an election to determine the bargaining agent of production and maintenance workers of the Potomac Edison Company at the river plant, the Celanese plant and the local steam heating plant, Earl A. Rider, Hagerstown, AFL organizer, reported yesterday.

About sixty workers, formerly represented by Local 1140, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, will be eligible to vote in the election.

According to the NLRB workers may choose between the AFL, CIO or no union.

3 Men Are Killed And Two Injured In Auto Wreck

Army Captain and Two Students Die on Pennsylvania Turnpike

A United States Army captain and two University of Michigan dental students were killed and two other dental students were injured yesterday at 3 a. m. when their car skidded on an "icy bump" on the Pennsylvania superhighway and overturned sixteen miles west of Bedford, Pa., state police reported.

The dead are:

Muriel S. Kleinwaks, Hillside, N. J.

Ralph G. Norbert, Kingston, Pa.

Two other students, Charles Jaslow, the Bronx, N. Y., and Burke Gaster, Brooklyn, N. Y., were admitted to Timmons hospital, Bedford, for treatment. The condition of both men was reported as "fair" at the hospital last night.

Deaths of the three men increased to eight the number killed in the same vicinity of the turnpike in less than a month and added more weight to the nickname, "Death Valley," fast becoming attached to the superhighway. Five sailors were killed instantly on January 23 eighteen miles west of Bedford when their car hit a concrete bridge abutment.

Police said Kleinwaks, Norbert, Jaslow and Gaster were riding together when their automobile hit the rear of a pickup truck near Somerset, Pa., before the fatal accident occurred. State police said Jaslow was driving their car at this time.

Shortly after this accident happened, the army officer, riding alone, reached the scene, stopped, and found that he had served overseas in the army with three of the four men in the damaged automobile, police said. They added that Norbert, Jaslow and Gaster were former army officers and had served with the unidentified officer.

The latter suggested that Norbert, Jaslow, Gaster and Kleinwaks drive to New York with him and all entered his automobile to continue the trip. The five men were riding in the same car when the fatal crash occurred sixteen miles west of Bedford.

Wilt Recommends That 500 Homes Be Erected Here

Believes Veterans and Families Should Have Preference in Buying

Construction of 500 low and moderate cost homes must be started in Cumberland this year, James C. Wilt, commander of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, stated yesterday.

Wilt said he has recommended to the community housing committee, which he heads, that the problem of establishing a housing project be studied and acted upon as soon as possible, to relieve the present acute housing shortage.

Veterans and their families would be given preference in the rental or purchase of these homes, Wilt said, but he also stated that non-veterans who are in urgent need of housing would also be given an opportunity to buy or rent homes in the proposed housing projects.

Will Seek Co-operation

Also included in the program of emergency measures which Wilt has recommended to the committee is the postponement of all deferrable and non-essential construction for the remainder of this year to release material and labor for the veterans' housing project.

Federal and city co-operation must be sought in the development of home sites, and a sufficient number of lots must be provided so that veterans' housing may go forward without delay, the chairman said. The present number of lots in the city which have sewer, water and other facilities is far short of requirements for the proposed project, he added.

"It may prove necessary for the government to assist in the development of sites," Wilt said. "No program of this kind can be directed from Washington alone. We are going to need the advice and active participation of community leaders in our city."

He stated that he plans to confer with Leo H. McCormick, state OPA director, when the latter visits Cumberland Monday to address the county OPA information panel. The subject of the discussion will be possible adjustments of rentals so that persons having available accommodations will be encouraged to rent them.

200 Persons Register

Wilt, who is manager of the community housing office at city hall, reported that over 200 persons have registered at the office, with only a few of that number non-veterans. Twenty-three veterans' families have been placed, and four homes have been purchased by ex-servicemen through the assistance of the office.

Commenting on the interest which has been shown in the activities of the office, Wilt said that he received a letter yesterday from a Baltimore woman who formerly resided in Cumberland, stating that she wished to register at the office to find living quarters here. She said that her husband will be discharged from the navy March 15 and that she and their two children will come to Cumberland with him when he returns to his job at the Celanese plant.

Late Dr. Holtzapple, Noted Physician, Was Uncle of Local Man

Dr. Holtzapple, 83, made medical history sixty-one years ago by saving the life of a pneumonia sufferer, through use of oxygen. Dr. Holtzapple administered oxygen he generated with a bucket of water, an alcohol burner and other crude equipment. His patient was Fred Gable, Logansville, Pa., who still lives.

Myers said last night that Dr. Holtzapple had been in Cumberland on several occasions, but not since Myers moved here seventeen years ago. Myers said that he and his family visited the physician for many years and saw him not long ago. The aged physician had been active and had practiced medicine until last summer, Myers said.

Dr. Holtzapple, who was Myers's mother's brother is survived by his widow, Mrs. May Holtzapple, and one daughter, Gertrude.

By JAMES B. CRAIG

The back room of Edward Hebeeb's flower shop on North Mechanic street has always been recognized as a good place for lively conversation. When Frank Lee Carl was alive he frequently dropped in to sit in the easy chair at the desk in the corner, where he argued with the genial proprietor as the latter busied himself arranging batches of flowers to be sent to Allegany or Memorial hospital patients.

Recently, the proprietor and Nurse Mansor, Westernport, gave this reporter both barrels in that back room over a story he wrote a few weeks ago which contained information he had culled from library books about the Republic of Lebanon. And since Habeeb and Mansor are both intimately acquainted with Lebanon and all the reporter knows about it is what he read out of a book, the reporter decided he had better listen and learn.

It all started when the reporter dug out a will at the court house in which it was noted that a Westernport veteran of World War I, an Asyrian by birth, had bequeathed $17,000 to a Mrs. Nemnem Nasef, a widow, and the veteran's sole heir, who resides in the village of Knaysi, Lebanon. As a result, the reporter and one or two others at the court house became curious regarding what the Village of Knaysi might be like and what sort of an impact $17,000 would have there.

Books looked at in the library indicated that the impact of such a sum would probably be considerable as the cost of living, prices and wages all seemed to be quite low, at least before the war, compared to our standards.

Families Are Self-Sufficient

Actually, this sum of money would not create any such sensation as might be indicated, both Mansor and Habeeb declared. In the first place, families living in Lebanon are largely self-sufficient and live in stone ancestrial homes that have been handed down from generation to generation, they said. There are

Stresses Hospital Program

The great expansion of the order's hospital program to meet the needs of the vast numbers of wounded veterans who are returning every day will be stressed by Kepner in his address to the assembled Elks. Through this program, games, athletic equipment and entertainment are provided for wounded veterans in 300 hospitals all over the country.

The latest activity undertaken by the order is the establishment of veteran rehabilitation committees in all lodges to give assistance and advice to veterans seeking employment or loans.

Many of the Elks' faternal centers, of which 155 were established during the war in key cities for the entertainment and comfort of servicemen and women before they went overseas, will be maintained to receive them on their return home.

During the war, a large number of army engineers, navy seabees, and navy air cadets and army nurses were recruited through the efforts of Elks. The Cumberland lodge conducted refresher coudses for air cadets and a number of the young men who took the courses here later became top-notch pilots. At present the local lodge is continuing a successful drive to recruit nurses for Veterans' Administration hospitals.

Booklets Will Be Distributed In Schools Here

Two hundred additional copies of a booklet distributed by the National Conference of Christians and Jews recently were ordered for use in the schools, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of education, announced yesterday.

The booklets entitled "Building Bridges" were written by John H. Elliott and concern bridging the gaps that exist between groups that differ in faith, race and culture. The booklets were originally presented to the school board by Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, a member of the local committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

As explained by Rizer, the booklets have been included in the texts studied in a course of English literature in the schools called "Men's Shrines".

Rizer pointed out that by the time high school students become juniors and seniors they develop a marked interest in religion and spiritual values not manifested by sophomores and freshmen.

Rizer said that Elliott's text worked in well with material presented to juniors and seniors in the literature classes as it is a broad-minded presentation of facts concerning the various religions and races of people who live in this country.

Four Other Counties in Maryland Pay Teachers More Than Allegany

Statics released by the state board of education reveal that in the last quarter of a century Maryland has advanced from twentieth to seventh in the standings of states in regard to the average salary paid teachers.

The information shows that for the year 1943-44, the average in Maryland for teachers, principals and supervisors was $2,069. The average for Allegany county for the same term was $1,890 while the national average was $1,775.

Allegany Is Fifth

Allegany county ranks fifth in the state. The National Education Association advocates $2,500 as a desirable goal for teachers with adequate preparation and maturity.

The only states now paying teachings higher salaries than Maryland are New York, California, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Washington.

Outranking Allegany county in the state are Baltimore City, Montgomery, Baltimore and Washington counties.

Despite the fact that standards here are not as high as teachers would like them, Maryland has come a long way since 1919-20 when the county average was $773, the state average $902, with a national ranking of twentieth. The county figure rose to $1,347 by 1931-32 and stood at $1,506 in 1939-40.

The West Virginia scale has always been below that for Maryland. It was $920 in 1919-20 and was $1,508 in 1943-44. Pennsylvania was once ahead of Maryland as evidenced by the $920 average in 1919-20 and the $1,630 figure in 1931-32.

The average for county teachers last year was $1,983 and this year it will exceed $2,100, according to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Montgomery Highest

The 1944-45 average for the four leading counties for elementary teachers was: Montgomery, $2,090, Baltimore $1,999, Washington $1,931, and Allegany $1,870. In the high school section the average was: Montgomery $2,374, Baltimore $2,393, Washington $2,340, and Alle-

Health Building Program Stressed By Millholland

Is Principal Speaker at Presbyterian Dinner for Former Servicemen

Emphasizing the need for a health building program, for youths, boys and young men, and exclaiming that it is the duty of every American to encourage a strong and sufficient armed force to safeguard the peace, Lieut.-Col. Randolph Millholland said last night as he addressed a servicemen's fellowship dinner at First Presbyterian church, Washington street.

Col. Millholland related his experiences during the war, and presented a graphic word picture of American action and co-operation with her Allies in crushing the powerful German war machine. He praised the English, particularly for their hospitality, for their ability to "take it", and expressed the view that the English were more affected, and suffered more, than any other people in Europe. Millholland said he believes it is a duty, and the right thing, for Americans to do all they can for the British.

Men Give Dinner

The dinner was given by the Men's club of the church in honor of returned servicemen of the congregation. There were 105 present at the affair. The Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor, was toastmaster. He welcomed the returned servicemen and their hosts, and said that in his seventeen years experience, this was the largest gathering of men, at any social function of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Eisenberger presented W. B. Ludman, LaVale, superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday school, who described work and progress of the church school, and invited the men to participate in the Bible class taught each Sunday by Thomas Lohr Richards.

Edwin M. Burke, Washington street, a member of the board of trustees also expressed his pleasure at seeing so many men present. He talked briefly about progress made by the church, under the leadership of its pastor, during the war, and also welcomed the veterans. Burke commented upon the work done by those who remained at home, in meeting production schedules and setting records.

Religion Termed Important

He then emphasized the importance of religion in the American democracy. "Without religion", he stated, "we would have something akin to totalitarianism. So long as we place high values on our church, upon our religion and upon their part in our way of life, our problem, such as we see about us, will be overcome. As we enter this postwar period," he said, "it is increasingly important that we renew our faith in religion."

Edgar T. Duke, LaVale, accompanied by John S. Gridley, Lee street, at the piano, sang two baritone solos, entitled, "Boots", by Rudyard Kipling, and "Homing", by Arthur L. Salmon.

The dinner was prepared and served by a committee of women from the church with Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, Washington street in charge. Decorations, of a patriotic motif, were arranged by Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, the Dingle.

Use of Penicillin To Check Prenatal Syphilis Described

Copies of a letter describing experimental use of penicillin in the treatment of syphilis will be sent to all doctors in Allegany county, according to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin said that the letter contains recommendations made to Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the state department of health, by Dr. J. E. Moore and Dr. Nicholson J. Eastman of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, on the basis of their recent experimental work on the treatment of syphilis in pregnant women.

Experiments have shown that at least 98.7 per cent of pregnant syphilitic mothers who are properly treated with penicillin will give birth to children free from syphilis, the letter states.

If the mothers had not received the treatments, there would have been a ninety-five per cent probability that thei nfants would have been infected, with a large toll of miscarriage, stillbirth and living but infected children, the doctors stated.

Penicillin treatment of syphilitic pregnant women may be completed within a period of from ten to fifteen days, but the treatment must be carried out in a hospital, since injections of the drug must be administered at intervals of three hours, night and day, until the treatments are completed.

Drs. Moore and Eastman recommended that penicillin treatments replace metal chemotherapy, involving the used of arsenic and bismuth in the prevention of prenatal syphilis.
